Italian Steamer, Struck by Torpedo, is Returning to Port

Italian Invasion of Austria Now
Embraces Long Line of Frontier

ATTACKS FROM BOTH SIDES OF THE LINE

Furious Fighting Develops Near Arras
With Little Gain for Either
Germans or Allies

Today's War News Given in Summary.

The American steamer Nebraskan was torpedoed by a submarine yesterday off the south coast of Ireland. The crew took to the boats, but returned on ascertaining that the damage inflicted by the torpedo was not serious. No lives were lost. The Nebraskan carried no passengers.

An official communication from Rome indicates that the Italian invasion of Austria has been extended over almost the entire frontier. According to this statement the Italians have seized a number of towns near the border and have forced their way through mountain defiles occupying strategic positions. Apparently there has been little heavy fighting thus far, although in one instance a bayonet encounter is mentioned. It is stated the Austrians retired everywhere, destroying bridges as they fell back.

The new attack of Gen. Mackensen against the Russian line north of Przemyśl is reported from Vienna and Berlin to have been attended by conspicuous success. The war office at Petrograd, however, states that attacks on the Russian line along the San river were scattered and concede no new victories to the Austria-German armies.

In the west the British have been compelled to give ground in Belgium to the Germans, who are once more pressing forward strongly along the part of the front which has seen the heaviest fighting of the war. The allies apparently have offset this German victory, however, by a French advance further south, in northern France, near Arras.

London, May 26.—A series of attacks from both sides of the line north of Arras last night brought on fighting of unusual violence. The official communication from Paris today asserts the German attacks made with special severity near Lorette, were all repulsed. The Berlin statement admits the loss of a small position near Givency, but asserts that elsewhere the allies were driven back with heavy losses.

The German war office also announces that General Mackensen's attack in Galicia, north of Przemyśl, continues to make progress, additional ground being gained after heavy fighting. A dispatch from Petrograd says it is believed the Germans have been definitely checked in Galicia and southern Russian Poland, and that the Russians are now prepared to assume the offensive.

No Great Enthusiasm.
The approval of King George has made the coalition government, as announced this morning an accomplished fact and it is generally accepted as the best solution of a bad muddle. Nevertheless, the country shows no great enthusiasm over this compromise for the usual party cabinet.

In the field of military operations, the great onslaught of Gen. Mackensen against the Russian line to the north of Przemyśl and around Jaroslau indicates that the powers of the Austria-German offensive are not exhausted and verifies the belief general in London that the Russians are not well equipped for the defense of this position. Przemyśl has not been sufficiently repaired to rank again as a great fortress. It is rather a heavily fortified camp which needs considerable artillery for its reduction.

In the Dardanelles the allies are off-

cially reported to be slowly advancing against the stubborn opposition of the Turks, who have been granted an armistice to bury 3,000 of their dead in front of their trenches.

Strong Italian Claims.

The official Italian announcement reviewing the first 36 hours of war, claims the capture of several Austrian towns just across the border and the occupation of all frontier passes in Cadore, together with a continuation of the successful advance on the Carniola and the Friuli frontiers.

Vienna counters with the official claim that the Austrian naval raid inflicted considerable damage on the Italian coast and on Italian warcraft.

The illness of King Constantine, of Greece, is the feature of the diplomatic situation in the near east. The death of this ruler, it is argued here, would end Greece's reason for maintaining neutrality.

Submarines at Work.

The German submarine campaign is continuing actively. Dispatches from Norway say the people of that country have been aroused by the sinking last week of the Norwegian steamer, Minerva, and the attempt to torpedo the Iris, which went to her assistance. The steamer Crowder had a narrow escape from torpedoing while bound for Rotterdam yesterday. A submarine fired a torpedo without warning. It missed the ship by only 15 yards.

According to the captain's story to Rotterdam correspondents, the periscope was seen and then the wash of the torpedo, which was moving so rapidly that nothing could be done to avoid it. The attack occurred at a point four miles north of North Hinder light ship.

STATEMENT FROM BERLIN.

Germans Repulse Attacks But Lose Some Outmost Trenches.

Berlin, May 26.—The German general army headquarters staff today gave out the following statement:
"In the western theater: A night advance by the enemy on our newly acquired position west of the forest of Belleward easily was repulsed. The number of machine guns taken from the English was increased to ten.

"Northeast of Givency British troops succeeded last night in capturing a projecting part of our outmost trenches.
"Further south, between Lievin and the Lorette hills, an extensive attack commenced in the afternoon failed completely.

"In the region to the north and to the south of the high road between Souchez and Bethune the enemy had first succeeded in penetrating our trenches, but our counter attacks again put us in full possession of our positions. One hundred Frenchmen remained in our hands.
"In the region south of Souchez several repeated strong attacks directed by white and colored French troops against our lines completely broke down before our entanglements. Our opponents suffered heavy losses everywhere. During the battles in the Lorette hills a Silesian infantry regiment especially distinguished itself.

"An advance of the enemy in the western part of the forest of Le Pretre was easily repulsed. A hostile flying machine was brought down at a point south of Lens by our aviators.

"In the eastern theater night attacks were repulsed.
"In the southeastern theater: The attack being made by the army under Gen. von Mackensen is making good progress. Southeast of Radimo the village of Swiato was taken after fierce fighting.

BULLETIN.

London, May 26.—(5 p. m.)—The American steamer Nebraskan, passed Queenstown this afternoon on her way back to Liverpool. She was proceeding on her own steam at 8 knots an hour.

London, May 26.—(12 noon.)—The American steamer Nebraskan, Captain Green, from Liverpool, May 24, for Delaware Breakwater, was torpedoed yesterday by a submarine at a point forty miles west-southwest of Fastnet, off the south coast of Ireland.

The sea was calm at the time. The crew at once took to the boats and stood by the steamer. It was soon ascertained that the Nebraskan was not seriously injured. She had been struck forward, and her foreholds were full of water. The crew returned on board and got the vessel under way. No lives were lost among the crew. The Nebraskan did not carry any passengers.

The foregoing information was received today by the British admiralty, in London, and it was at once communicated to the American embassy. Immediately she was struck, the Nebraskan began calling for help by wireless. Broadcast received the wireless communication at 9 a. m. yesterday.

A message to Lloyds from Kinsale, Ireland, says that the Nebraskan passed that point at 11 o'clock this morning, apparently bound for Queenstown. The Nebraskan was down at the bows. She was proceeding under her own steam and flying the signal, "I am not under control."

The American steamer Nebraskan, Captain Green, is owned by the American-Hawaiian Steamship company, of New York, and is of 2,824 tons net register. On her last eastward trip she left New York May 7, for Liverpool.

MAY HAVE HIT FLOATING MINE.

Washington Questions if Damage Was Result of Torpedo.

Washington, May 26.—Consul General Skinner, at London, cabled today: "The British admiralty reports the American steamer Nebraskan torpedoed." He gave the same location as mentioned in the London dispatches.

bral hemorrhage after an illness which had lasted only a few hours. Shortly after luncheon yesterday she became ill. She failed to rally and died soon after 10 o'clock. Her husband was with her when she died, but her two children—Stuyvesant Fish and Mrs. Albert Z. Gray—did not reach the house until a short time after she had died.

Mrs. Fish, who was about 60 years old, was born in New York. Her maiden name was Marion Graves Anthony. In June, 1876, she was married to Stuyvesant Fish, a well known railroad man and financier and son of Hamilton Fish, secretary of state in the cabinet of President Grant. With her husband she was interested in many charities and entertainments. Funeral services will be held Friday.

JUNE 17 SET FOR BIG CELEBRATION

Announcement was made Wednesday afternoon that the Lincoln Highway celebration will be held on June 17, several days later than was anticipated.

A telegram was received from the movie men who are taking scenes along the highway that they will reach Fort Wayne on that date. They are now at Lancaster, Pa.

Now that the date is known to a certainty members of the committee in charge of the celebration will go ahead with the plans in earnest. Because of the uncertainty of the date it was impossible to secure speakers or make any definite plans.

Charles L. Biedewolf, secretary of the Commercial club, who is chairman of the parade committee, will send out letters within the next day or two to every owner of an automobile in Fort Wayne and surrounding cities, asking them to join in the parade. He is anxious to secure one thousand machines. The parade will start from Swinney park, but the route to be taken through the city has not been determined.

ROTARIANS TO SEE BALL GAME FRIDAY

Members of the Fort Wayne Rotary club will attend the ball game Friday afternoon in a body as the guests of the management of the baseball club. This action was taken at the regular weekly meeting of the club, Wednesday, at the Commercial club. The club was to have attended in a body Wednesday afternoon but the rain prevented.

At the meeting Wednesday Will Pelletier gave an interesting account of a hunting and fishing trip in Canada, while William H. Scheiman spoke on cooperation in rotary. Clinton R. Willson presided. The meeting was largely attended.

DEATH SHIP NEARS NEW YORK.

Many Cases of Beri-Beri Aboard British Steamer Dewa.

New York, May 26.—A variable death ship is nearing New York according to a wireless message received today by Health Officer O'Connell. The message said that the British steamer Dewa, under command of Captain Evans and laden with sugar from Ceylon, had 21 cases of beri-beri on board. The crew of forty men said that eight men had died from the sickness since the vessel sailed.

MANY WILL ATTEND STATE CONVENTION

Fifty Fort Wayne People to
Walther League.

Twenty-five delegates from the various societies of Fort Wayne and as many members will go to Seymour to attend the annual meeting of the Indiana Walther league district. The delegates-elect will leave at 2:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon over the Lake Erie and Western while the others will go Sunday morning at 1:30 o'clock over the G. R. & I.

It is expected that nearly 1,000 Walther leaguers of Indiana will be in attendance at the yearly meeting at which time officers will be elected and delegates to the national convention to be held at Los Angeles, July 18 to 22, will also be named. The Indiana district is comprised of 38 societies with a membership of 3,000.

The present officers of the organization are: J. C. Hoerner, of Fort Wayne, president; Lester Baade, of Fort Wayne, secretary; and F. A. Klein, of this city, general field secretary of the National Walther league. The convention opens Sunday morning and will close Monday noon. The business session will be held Sunday morning.

$900 REALIZED AT RED CROSS BAZAAR

The bazaar for the benefit of the German-Austrian Red Cross fund closed Monday evening and the committee on finances reports that $900 was taken in and since nearly all the things that were put on sale were donated by the various German ladies' societies, this amount will be nearly all profit. The ladies who were in charge of this event set the goal of $1,000, and since this amount was nearly reached they expect to make up the deficit by subscriptions.

The final report of the bazaar and its results will be given at a meeting of the ladies to be held Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Turner hall, at which time it is expected that the $1,000 mark will be reached.

Attendance.

Marion, Ind., May 26.—The state encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic opened here with a large attendance of civil war veterans and members of its allied organizations, including the Women's Relief Corps, the Sons of Veterans and the Spanish-American war veterans.

Col. A. B. Crampton, of Delphi, Ind., commander, has been here for two days putting the final touches to the arrangements. Tomorrow will be the big day of the encampment. The parade will take place in the afternoon and in the evening the G. A. R. of Marion, of Ohio, was to speak at a patriotic meeting.

LIMPING IN AFTER CRASH

Dutch Liner Ryndam and a Freighter Collide Off
Nantucket

PASSENGERS ARE GOTTEN OFF SAFELY

Transferred to U. S. War-
Ryndam to New York.

BULLETIN.

Washington, May 26.—The battleship South Carolina wireless the navy department today that she had 250 persons from the Ryndam on board and expects to land them in New York tonight.

New York, May 26.—The Dutch liner Ryndam, which sailed from this port yesterday for Rotterdam with seventy-seven passengers and a million dollar cargo, was badly damaged in a collision fifteen miles southwest of the Nantucket shoals lightship at 4 o'clock this morning with the tramp freighter, Jos. J. Cuneo, which sailed from Boston last night for Barcelona, Cuba.

Both vessels were seriously injured. The Ryndam, wireless reports indicated, was struck aft with such force that hold No. 6 tilted almost immediately, water flowed freely into the engine room and began to creep up in hold No. 6. The Cuneo's bows were smashed in badly. S. O. S. signals were flashed from the Ryndam's wireless and her passengers were transferred hastily to the Cuneo. One hundred and sixty of the Ryndam's crew of 200, likewise, were put aboard the freighter, leaving only forty men aboard the liner to navigate it.

Warships Answered Call.
United States battleships in the vicinity answered the wireless calls at 7 o'clock, three hours after the collision. The battleship South Carolina was standing along side the Cuneo. The Ryndam's passengers and those of her crew who had been transferred to the Cuneo were taken off by the South Carolina. The battleship was directed by wireless from the Newport navy yard to convey the stricken liner to this port.

With the South Carolina alongside, the battleship Texas, ten miles astern, the battleship Louisiana in the near vicinity and the Cuneo slowly following, the Ryndam was steaming at slow speed for this port, 124 miles east of Ambrose channel lightship at 10 o'clock. Less message to the Holland-American line, her owners saying that the Ryndam was much detained, but still holding out.

Six American Passengers.

Messages asserted that the waters were gaining in hold 6 and the ship would have to be abandoned if the water gained much more. So far as the line knows there were only six Americans among the passengers. The other passengers it was said were Europeans returning home.

The Ryndam, a vessel of 7,975 tons register, net, was built in Belfast in 1901. Her length is 550 feet, her beam 66 feet. The Cuneo is a steamer of about 800 tons capacity. She carried a crew of fifty men and no passengers. Her length is 210 feet.

Dispatches sent during the forenoon by the South Carolina says the Ryndam was making thirteen knots on her way to this port. This speed, if maintained, would bring her to New York late tonight or early tomorrow.

THE EARLY REPORT.

New York, May 26.—The steamer Ryndam, of the Holland-American line, bound from New York to Rotterdam with passengers and freight, collided with the freight steamer Joseph J. Cuneo today off Nantucket island. Wireless messages received here said that the Ryndam had transferred her passengers and part of her crew to the Cuneo but that both vessels were badly damaged. It was reported that the battleship Texas and another steamship were going to their aid.

When Collision Came.
The collision it was reported took place fifteen miles southwest of the Nantucket shoals lightship about 4 a. m. The Ryndam, a vessel of 7,975 tons, sailed from this port yesterday afternoon with 70 passengers in her first and second cabins and 115 in her third cabin. The Cuneo is a Norwegian freighter of 546 tons. She plies between Atlantic coast ports and the West Indies. It is believed that she carried no passengers. The Atlantic fleet which has been engaged in maneuvers, lies in the neighborhood where the accident occurred and it was thought the disabled ships would not lack assistance. Further messages from the Ryndam say one of her holds was full of water and that another hold and the engine room were leaking. She reported that she was steaming slowly towards the port accompanied by the Cuneo and would speak at a patriotic meeting.

ITALY HAS SIEZED AUSTRIAN FRONTIER

Rome, May 25.—(Via Paris, May 26, 8:30 a. m.)—Offensive operations resulting in the occupation of Austrian territory all along the frontier from Lombardy to the Adriatic are claimed in an official statement issued tonight by the war office. Italian troops have seized various towns in the Trentino and forced their way through mountain defiles. On the lower Isongo attacks were continued to gain the line of the river. The Austrians are reported to have retired, destroying bridges behind them. Italian aviators bombarded Monfalcone, near the gulf of Trieste. The communication follows: "Everywhere on the twenty-fourth our troops took the offensive, occupying Forcella, Montezzo, Tonale and Ponte Caffaro in Val Giudicaria, the territory north of Ferrara and Monte Baldo. "They also occupied Monte Reorno and Monte Foppa on the slopes north of Lessini; Monte Pausia and Monte Buffala, at the extremity of the Agno and Leodang valleys, and the defiles of Val Brenta. We took a number of prisoners."

FARMERS ARE URGED TO RAISE ALFALFA

First Day of Automobile Tour of County is a Great Success.

For the purpose of encouraging the farmers of Allen county to grow alfalfa and to show what other farmers have done in the growing of the crop, a two days' automobile tour of the county is being made under the auspices of the extension department of Purdue university. After a preliminary meeting in the assembly room of the court house at 9 o'clock Wednesday morning about thirty-five automobiles filled with farmers started on the first day of the tour. The first stop was made at the farm of J. L. Juillard on the Lincoln highway, thence east to New Haven to Charles Weise's farm in Jefferson township, then east and south to the William Longardner farm, one mile south and one-half mile east of Gar Creek. From there the party proceeded north and east by way of Woodburn to the Robert R. Murphy farm in Springfield township, where the noon stop was made. After lunch T. A. Coleman, of Purdue university, head of the county agents in Indiana, spoke for half an hour on alfalfa. His remarks were followed by a general discussion. After leaving the Murphy farm the party proceeded to the farm of S. L. Husted, in Maumee township, then south to the Fred Husted farm, and east to the Andy Ruger and Harry Severson farms. Eight farms were visited and the same number will be visited Thursday. In his short talk in the assembly room of the court house Mr. Coleman said that last year alfalfa tours were held in twenty-seven counties in Indiana, and many farms were visited. He declared that to his knowledge there is not a single man who raised alfalfa last year who is displeased with the results, and each of them are raising the crop again this year. The speaker declared there were several factors and qualities about alfalfa that recommend it to the farmers of Indiana, among them being its permanency, its feeding value, yielding qualities and selling value. He declared that every farmer in Allen county could steadily raise alfalfa.

WHOLE FAMILIES GO FORWARD FOR CHRIST

Dr. Lyon is Obtaining Results in Meetings at Terre Haute.

Terre Haute, Ind., May 26.—Whole families are going forward to accept Christ at the evangelistic services being conducted here by Dr. Milford H. Lyon. The meetings are nearing an end. "If the city is not won for Christ in the last days of the campaign," Dr. Lyon tells his audience, "it might never have another opportunity." "I have heard," he said, "that people are talking about these meetings on the streets, in the stores, saloons, pool-rooms, smoke houses, theaters and other places, and this shows the spirit of God is working in this city. People begin to realize there is a great light on

The evangelist took up the text, "Not Far from the Kingdom." "My message tonight will not be for the benefit of the men living a vile and impure life, but rather for those not yet Christians, but who love the good and pure. It will be for those who like to see others come out for Jesus but are constantly rejecting Him themselves."

Whole-Hearted Religion. "If your church is good enough to belong to and pay dues to, isn't it good enough to enter into with your whole heart. If America is a good place to live in, it's a good place to have your citizenship. I have little sympathy for a man who will come to America to make his fortune and will retain his allegiance to another country. "If it is right for another to take a stand for Jesus, it is right for you. For one to live a fairly upright life and reject Christ makes that life more detrimental to Christianity. The fact that you are so near the kingdom leaves you with no excuse for not entering."

The annual banquet of the Purdue Alumni association will be held at the Anthony hotel on the evening of June 3.

DEAD BODY OF WILSON PARKER FOUND AT HOME

The dead body of Wilson Parker, a well known farmer residing one mile north of Huntertown was found Tuesday, partially disrobed, in his bed room at his home where he had lived alone since the death of his wife several years ago. The discovery was made by Michael Federapiel, a farm hand who did the farm work for the deceased. When Federapiel went to the house Tuesday morning to do the chores he supposed Mr. Parker was sleeping and did not go upstairs. At noon when the aged man made no appearance and when he noticed a lamp burning in the hall, way he went to his employer's room and made the discovery. Deputy Coroner R. B. Garmire was called and after investigation he gave his verdict that the cause of death was heart trouble with which the aged man had suffered for years. That Mr. Parker expected his death was disclosed by the fact that in the dead man's "safe," in a battery box of a telephone, the coroner found his will and a slip of paper on which were written the names of men he wished to act as pallbearers.

A Message To Thin, Weak, Scrawny Folks

An Easy Way to Gain 10 to 30 Lbs. of Solid, Healthy, Permanent Flesh.

Thin, nervous, undeveloped men and women everywhere are heard to say, "I can't understand why I do not get fat. I eat plenty of good, nourishing food." The reason is just this: You cannot get fat, no matter how much you eat, unless your digestive organs assimilate the fat-making elements of your food instead of passing them out through the body as waste.

What is needed is a means of gently urging the assimilative functions of the stomach and intestines to absorb the oils and fats and hand them over to the blood, where they may reach the starved, shrunken, run down tissues and build them up. The thin person's body is like a dry sponge—eager and hungry for the fatty materials of which it is being deprived by the failure of the alimentary canal to take them from the food. The best way to overcome this sinful waste of flesh building elements and to stop the leakage of fats is to use Sargol, the recently discovered regenerative force that is recommended so highly by physicians here and abroad. Take a little Sargol tablet with every meal and notice how quickly your cheeks fill out and rolls of firm, healthy flesh are deposited over your body, covering each bony angle and projecting point.

Meyer Bros. Co. and other good druggists have Sargol, or can get it from the wholesaler, and will refund your money if you are not satisfied with the gain in weight it produces as stated on the guarantee in each package. It is inexpensive, easy to take and highly efficient.

Caution—While Sargol has produced remarkable results in overcoming nervous dyspepsia and general stomach troubles, it should not be taken unless you are willing to gain ten pounds or more, for it is a wonderful flesh builder.

NEWS OF FORT WAYNE'S NEIGHBORS

BLOWS HIS HEAD OFF.

Lagrange County Farmer Ends Life in Shocking Manner.

Lagrange, Ind., May 26.—Jacob Ernberger, residing south of Howe, committed suicide Tuesday at home, using a double barreled shot gun as the instrument of death, and blowing his head entirely off. A. M. Crickmore and wife, with whom Mr. Ernberger was living, started to Lagrange, leaving a little girl with the afflicted man in the home. Mr. Ernberger requested the girl to go to the home of his son near by and have him come over, he wanted to talk with him. It was when left alone, the victim of his awful tragedy, that he stripped his left foot completely so that he could handle the trigger, placed the muzzle of the gun to his mouth after he sat down on the bed and instantly ended his life.

Mr. Ernberger was an old resident of the county and had reached the 60th year of life. Several weeks ago he was partially paralyzed and since his recovery he had threatened to take his life, his mind being affected. His wife died a little more than a year ago and since that time he had the Crickmores living on the place caring for him. He leaves a daughter and three sons, Mrs. Rollin Myers, Freeman and Ellery Ernberger, all residing in the neighborhood of the old home, and Earl, residing in Charles City, Iowa. His daughter-in-law, Mrs. Martha Ernberger and family, reside in Lagrange.

MET DEATH LEAVING TRAIN.

Columbia City, Ind., May 26.—It is believed that Arnold Himes, the young man whose body was found on the Pennsylvania tracks a mile west of Larwill, Tuesday morning, met his death jumping from a rapidly moving train. His left foot was cut off and he had injuries about the head and neck that probably caused his death. The accident happened just over the Kosciusko county line. Himes was aged 34 years and was a widower. His home was near Wilmot, Noble county, where his family have been prominent residents for many years. He was returning home from Winamac, Ind., where he had been visiting a sister, Mrs. Etta Borders.

DIES NEAR MONTPELIER.

Montpelier, Ind., May 26.—Allison Jamison, 71, died at his home, northeast of this city, death being due to heart trouble. The deceased is well known both in Blackford and Wells counties. He is survived by his aged wife, Elizabeth, two brothers, John and Straud, one sister, Mrs. Jennie Coddington, all of Wells county. He leaves six sons, Arch, Oscar, Fred, Charles, Robert and Arthur, and one daughter, Mrs. Ada Starr. On account of the son, Arthur, residing in Alabama, the funeral arrangements have not yet been made but burial will be made in the McFarren cemetery in Wells county.

CELEBRATE GOLDEN WEDDING.

Van Wert, O., May 26.—Mr. and Mrs. C. A. McConahy, among the best known and most respected people of Van Wert, have just celebrated their golden wedding anniversary. The celebration was devoid of anything in the nature of a formal ceremony, but an "open house" was held all day during which time many friends availed themselves of the opportunity of calling and extending congratulations and giving assurance of their best wishes at a time and on an occasion so few are permitted to enjoy. This popular couple have passed the greater part of their half century of married life in this city and have a wide acquaintance.

DROPS DEAD AS GUESTS LEAVE.

Huntington, Ind., May 26.—Shortly after her guests had left in the evening, Mrs. Basil Henry, living two miles south-west of Huntington on the Markle road, died of heart trouble. Her death was due to heart trouble, from which she had suffered for some time. Several members of the Baptist church in Huntington, of which Mrs. Henry was a member, were at her home last night. She seemed in excellent health then, but immediately after they left the fatal illness overtook her.

GETTING READY FOR BUDGET.

Van Wert, O., May 26.—County Auditor Klein has written a letter to the clerks of the various boards of education and the municipal and township trustees asking them to meet at his office Thursday, May 27, at 1 o'clock for the purpose of receiving instructions as to making out the annual budget. Some changes have been made in the law which are not fully understood by some of the officers and they will be given assistance in making out their budgets at that time.

LADIES! DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

Use Grandma's Sage Tea and Sulphur Recipe and Nobody will Know.

The use of Sage and Sulphur for restoring faded, gray hair to its natural color dates back to grandmother's time. She used it to keep her hair beautifully dark, glossy and abundant. Whenever her hair fell out or took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect.

But brewing at home is messy and out-of-date. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for a 50 cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" you will get this famous old recipe which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair and is splendid for dandruff, dry, feverish, itchy scalp and falling hair. A well-known downtown druggist says it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears and after another application or two it becomes beautifully dark, glossy and abundant.—Adv.

IN POOR HOUSE 57 YEARS.

Bracton Souerman Dies at the Whitley County Infirmary, Aged 77.

Columbia City, Ind., May 26.—Bracton Souerman, for almost three-score years an inmate of the Whitley county poor house and the third man to be admitted to that institution after it was built, died yesterday at the age of 77 years. Since December 9, 1857, Souerman had resided in the infirmary and had become the best known character in the place. He had a weak mind, but was capable of work and more than earned his keep at the place. He was a native of Ohio. He had long held the harmless delusion that he owned the county farm, but soon after Superintendent Miner took charge he made over a half interest to that official and so relieved his mind of a part of its load of responsibility. He died very suddenly.

Soon after the death of Souerman, occurred the death of William Wax, the oldest inmate of the institution. He was an Englishman and was 90 years old. He had been there eight years. Wax was well educated and had the manners of a gentleman. He never would talk of himself and where he came from and what relatives he had, if any, are unknown.

BATTLE OVER TROUSERS.

Huntington, Ind., May 26.—In a fight said to have arisen over a pair of trousers Buell Fosnaugh sustained several broken ribs and his brother, Wilson Fosnaugh, was badly battered up last night. The fight took place at the Fosnaugh home on Byron street, but when Patrolmen Jacob Beemer and Dora Bickle arrived, Wilson fled from the scene. He was captured by Patrolman Otis Hadley and was locked up. In the fight which took place in the dark, Wilson grasped his mother, thinking she was his antagonist, and in the struggling the porch railing gave way and allowed them to drop a distance of several feet.

MILFORD GIRL IS HONORED.

Milford, Ind., May 26.—Miss Helen Vandever, of Milford, a popular young lady student in the University of Michigan, has just been honored there by being elected to the membership of the "Senior Society." This is an organization of senior girls in the college. Each year they select the best few of the Junior class as new members, thereby making election to its membership an honor. Miss Vandever is a junior literary student.

BARTENDER IS FINED.

Hartford City, Ind., May 26.—Earl Kuch, former bartender at the Hartford hotel, who was arrested in Fort Wayne Monday afternoon after he had failed to make good his promise to appear in the court of Mayor Seeger to answer to charges which were filed there by Deputy Prosecutor Elisha Pierce, after a fist fight had been indulged in by Kuch and D. B. Young, proprietor of the hotel, was given a fine of $1 and costs, amounting to $13.90. The fine was paid Tuesday after Kuch had spent the night in the county jail.

MONTPELIER TO HAVE RACES.

Montpelier, Ind., May 26.—The program for the races in this city has been made out. The races will be held three days, July 21, 22, 23. The total purses amount to $3,200. The grounds and buildings have been put in fine shape. This is the second race meet since a severe storm blew down the building a few years ago. Last year was the first year that the local meet was a financial success for many years.

PARADES STREETS NUDE.

Portland, Ind., May 26.—William DeHoff, of Bryant, is in the county jail in sane ward. He became violent at Bryant and after threatening to kill a number of citizens attempted to parade the streets while nude. Unable to restrain him without constant watch and attention, citizens of Bryant brought DeHoff here and turned him over to the care of the sheriff. He will be placed in the state epileptic village at Newcastle.

TO HAVE UNION MEMORIAL.

Bluffton, Ind., May 26.—The Odd Fellows, Knights of Pythias and probably the Red Men will join in a union memorial service to be held some Sunday within the next few weeks. Committees have been appointed to secure speakers and make other arrangements.

CAT MOTHERS LITTLE SKUNKS.

Portland, Ind., May 26.—A common house cat at the home of Richard Loy, northwest of this city, is mothering five little black skunks seven days old. A litter of four kittens were removed from the cat's nest and the skunks turned over to her care. Loy expects, if successful in raising the new brood, to engage in the skunk fur business.

SPEAKER ENGAGED.

D. O. McComb, county superintendent, has engaged Rev. T. L. Johnson, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church, to deliver the address at the commencement exercises of the eighth grade graduates of the county to be held at the New Palace on the afternoon of June 12. Rev. W. A. Greist, former pastor of the Simpson M. E. church, was to have delivered the address, but since being transferred to Logansport he has been very busy and finds it difficult to get away.

MRS. JOHN PAUL JONES DIES.

Lagrange, Ind., May 26.—At the age of 83 years, Mrs. Aurelia Jones died at her home here Tuesday, death being due to the infirmities of age. She was the widow of the late John Paul Jones, a pioneer resident of this county, and one of its most prominent citizens. Mr. Jones was licensed as a minister in the Methodist church in 1842 and at different times held the offices of county clerk, county recorder, county auditor and representative in the legislature. He was a brother of Dr. Philip Jones, of Fort Wayne, at one time clerk of Allen county. Mrs. Jones was born in Ohio, and came to this county with her parents when she was very young. Mrs. B. O. Wagner, of Fort Wayne, is her granddaughter.

WILLARD IS WITH WILD WEST SHOW

World's Champion Pugilist
Coming to Fort Wayne
on June 8!

The 101 Ranch Wild West show is scheduled to exhibit in Fort Wayne Tuesday, June 8. This fact is in itself interesting, for those who are familiar with Miller Bros. & Arlington's big frontier exhibition credit it with being the most representative organization of its kind before the public.

The visit of the show to Fort Wayne, however, will have a unique interest, because one of its features will be the cowboy world's champion, Jess Willard, who, it is announced, has made arrangements with the managers of the big show by which the conqueror of Jack Johnson will appear in the wild west arena at every performance. Moreover, it is announced he will take an active interest in the performance, for as a rider and roper he made a reputation long before he entered the listic world.

Edward Arlington, advance manager of the 101 Ranch Wild West show, who passed through the city Wednesday, made the definite announcement that Willard, who opened with the show in Minneapolis two weeks ago, would be continued as a feature throughout the season.

"There is undoubtedly a great deal of curiosity to see Willard," said Mr. Arlington. "This curiosity is entirely based on the fact that he was the successful 'white hope,' but also because, despite the fact that he is a ring gladiator, he is a man of family and irreproachable life. In this respect he stands as an example of what clean living can do, for while the fans admire him for his cleverness and his wonderful 82-inch reach, the best of the public join in respecting him for his character. Even those who do not particularly sympathize with ring sports will be interested in seeing him, because he is the absolutely perfect physical American. Willard's association with the 101 Ranch show is particularly fitting. He is essentially an outdoor man, and he says himself that he would not feel at home in any other kind of a show."

"Jess Willard would be a big feature for any show, and naturally involves a very heavy expense on the part of the management. Notwithstanding this expense for a feature with a 'punch,' there will be no excitement of the wild west features of the show. The Indian contingent, headed by the noted chief, Iron Tail, whose profile is on the 'Buffalo' nickel, the company of cowboys and cowgirls, the big gathering of old scouts and plainsmen, the troupes of Cossacks and Mexicans, are still very much in evidence and they give a performance that alternates thrills and laughter. Incidentally, it will interest the public to know that Willard appears in the arena in cowboy attire, and later in ring costume, illustrates with a sparring partner just how Johnson was worsted."

Ostrich eggs are being successfully hatched in an incubator by a German breeder.

THE SENTINEL'S DAILY SCRIPTURE READING.

Genesis 2:15-25.

15 And the Lord God took the man, and put him into the garden of Eden to dress it and to keep it.

16 And the Lord God commanded the man, saying, Of every tree of the garden thou mayest freely eat:

17 But of the tree of the knowledge of good and evil, thou shalt not eat of it: for in the day that thou eatest thereof thou shalt surely die.

18 And the Lord God said, It is not good that the man should be alone; I will make him an help meet for him.

19 And out of the ground the Lord God formed every beast of the field, and every fowl of the air; and brought them unto Adam to see what he would call them: and whatsoever Adam called every living creature, that was the name thereof.

20 And Adam gave names to all cattle, and to the fowl of the air, and to every beast of the field; but for Adam there was not found an help meet for him.

21 And the Lord God caused a deep sleep to fall upon Adam, and he slept: and he took one of his ribs, and closed up the flesh instead thereof;

22 And the rib, which the Lord God had taken from man, made he a woman, and brought her unto the man.

23 And Adam said, This is now bone of my bones, and flesh of my flesh: she shall be called Woman, because she was taken out of Man.

24 Therefore shall a man leave his father and his mother, and shall cleave unto his wife: and they shall be one flesh.

25 And they were both naked, the man and his wife, and were not ashamed.

Showing Up Tax Inequalities

At its first hearing the commission named recently by Governor Ralston in compliance with a statute enacted by the last legislature, experts testifying, brought forward an impressive showing of the inequalities of taxation as applied in this state. It was in no sense surprising, for the fact that glaring inequalities exist has long been well known. The testimony will be of value chiefly in getting specific instances into evidence where they may be taken into account in illustrating the need for remedy.

By way of example, Auditor Bowman, of Richmond, said that real estate in Richmond is assessed at from 50 to 55 per cent. of its cash value, and that some farms are assessed at as low as 40 per cent., while money and credits are listed at face value. In his opinion an assessment of all Wayne county property at its true value would permit a reduction of the tax rate to $1.25. In Gary, according to Eben H. Wolcott, real estate is assessed at 13 per cent. of its true value and personal property at 75 per cent., while railroad property is assessed at 60 per cent. Mr. Wolcott further declared that in several counties where there is large railroad mileage, it is the custom to reduce the local assessment and increase the local rate so that the heaviest burden falls on the railroads. Mr. Wolcott said that some railroads in Indiana are assessed as high as 70 per cent., and some interurbans as low as 40 per cent.

It is hardly to be presumed that these are isolated instances of inequalities. To a greater or less extent they obtain over the entire state, despite repeated efforts in recent years to equalize the assessments as fairly as possible. Commendable as these efforts have been, it is apparent that they have made comparatively little progress and that the big job is still before the state tax authorities. Classification of taxables to allow different rates of taxation on different classes of property is apparently in contravention to the constitutional provision which declares that all assessments and taxation shall be uniform. In this connection it is worthy of note that members of the state tax board say that, so far as they knew, no attempt ever had been made to enforce the provisions of the law for assessment of property at its true cash value. The law was enacted in 1891.

Unless Governor Whitman or the supreme court of the United States shall intervene to prevent it, Charles Becker, former New York police lieutenant, twice convicted in the gunman case, must die in the electric chair. His second conviction has just been confirmed by the New York court of appeals. The condemned man has made a notable legal fight, but it would appear that the end of his effort has been reached. The present governor of New York, then district attorney, conducted the prosecution of Becker, and it is hardly to be expected that he will extend clemency, while appeal to the supreme court appears to offer little more hope for the prisoner. The doom pronounced against him can scarcely be longer deferred.

Supplementing the previous lists, petitions bearing the signatures of more than one thousand Fort Wayne citizens asking for the election of a woman to the city school board next month, were filed with the city council Tuesday evening. Nor is the end yet reached, for the present total of some 3,500 will be vastly increased before the date of the selection, but even the final figures will scarcely include all who sincerely desire that a woman be represented on the governing board of the city schools. Is there any good reason whatever why that plainly and generally expressed desire should not be granted?

The action of the Fort Wayne Real Estate Exchange in deciding to cease Sunday activities in real estate sales is eminently the correct thing to do and it will advance that organization immensely in the favor of right-thinking people. It is additionally gratifying, also, to learn that so far as is known the Fort Wayne exchange is the only one in the country which has as yet taken this advanced step. Others should promptly follow Fort Wayne's lead in this matter.

Now there comes an intimation that the killing of Mrs. Bailey, one of the most sensational of New York's recent murder cases, in which Mrs. Carman was acquitted lately, is to be enacted into film for production in the movie houses over the country. If the censor doesn't take one swift and effectual swat at that film, it will be conclusive evidence that this country needs a new film censor.

The fact that Mrs. S. D. Wallace, of Indianapolis, 62 years old, has just taken out her annual fishing license demonstrates that there is at least one person with abiding confidence that sometime or other we're going to have a return of the sort of weather in which they will bite once more.

And speaking of close shaves—the majority of 6 votes by which the "wets" retained their grip on Plymouth in the local option election Tuesday, comes pretty nearly living up to precisely that description.

BRAZIL TO FEED THE WORLD IN LATER CENTURIES — AS BIG AS EUROPE AND JUST AS RICH, SAYS BABSON.

By ROGER W. BABSON

I do not know whether to begin in telling you about the great country of Brazil. To me Brazil is the great surprise of my trip. I already know the north coast of South America; was disappointed with the west coast; was prepared for Argentina; but had never fully realized the vastness, richness and loveliness of Brazil.

In Brazil the national language is Portuguese; while Spanish is spoken everywhere else in South and Central America.

Brazil is the third largest country in the world, the largest on the American continent; many times the size of Germany, France or any other of the more modern countries of Europe—yes, larger than all of Europe combined!

Just think of this great country containing the most fertile soil of any in the world, perhaps the richest of mines, certainly the greatest of forests and its government having been in existence only since 1889! All of this is only two weeks from New York!

We are apt to think of Brazil as being all tropical. This is a great mistake—a mistake which we make for failing to realize its greatness. Brazil has four distinct climates.

In the north there is a small section of arid and barren land. This portion lacks both moisture and population.

The great central portion can be divided into two parts—the eastern and the western. The western is still quite unexplored. This is the portion which Col. Roosevelt traversed.

We do, however, know that this western portion of Brazil is quite flat with many rivers and a tropical climate.

The great central portion has a much better climate in the east. Here the land is much higher with mountains and valleys. Even within the tropics the climate on these high table lands is cool and refreshing.

All of us passengers owe much to Chas. H. Gates for taking us to Brazil; but I personally feel very grateful to him for showing us more of it than simply Rio de Janeiro. It is the inland and side trips those accompanying him on one of his private cruises to South America will have much to be thankful for.

The southern portion of Brazil is today the most attractive. Although the coast is tropical one immediately reaches a tableland about 2,000 or 3,000 feet up on going inland. Here the climate is almost temperate. Although the summers are very warm they have stimulating winters with sometimes a little frost.

In centuries to come the great portion of Brazil will be cultivated for it is destined to become the great garden of the world.

THE BAD BOY AS EXCESS ENERGY.

(Grand Rapids Press.)

Being a bad boy is one thing; owning up to it after you have arrived at years' of discretion and honor is another. Yet the late W. R. Nelson, owner and editor of the Kansas City Star, in a letter accepting a degree of doctor of laws from Notre Dame university, took occasion to plead his youthful wilfulness, and say a good word for bad boys in general.

In Nelson's letter he confesses that his father sent him to Notre Dame as a last resort. There he became the leader in college delinquencies and was dismissed at the end of his second year. Recalling these adventures of his young days the great editor admits the faculty was correct in dispensing with his influence, expressing his admiration for the men who disciplined him, and attributes his dislike of being bossed to the Irish blood in his veins. He concludes that because the university sees fit to honor him after such a record, that fact "should afford encouragement to mischievous boys and make them feel that their case is not altogether hopeless."

Nelson ran true to form. He never was bossed, and his independence, finding free expression in the new west, was of untold benefit to his city, state and nation. But one wonders where he might have brought up if he has possessed just a little less force, education and opportunity. The very qualities which made Nelson a power for good in Kansas City might have made him a power for evil if his early mischief had been staged in a city slum.

Psychologists have long recognized juvenile mischief as a form of excess energy. The bravest, most original and competent youth in the "gang" takes the lead with the result that the boy with the worst reputation in the neighborhood may be the best fortified against failure in the rough-and-tumble of life. It is an axiom among social workers that the first boy in a gang to bet on the corner is the natural leader and the one worth going after. Win him and the rest follow him into the fold like sheep. Such boys are sure to soar high or fall low; they cannot be mediocre. The direction of the progress is determined largely by the wisdom of their parents, teachers and friends.

WAR'S "WIDER USE" OF SCHOOLS.

(Kansas City Star.)

Chancellor Strong says the great war will throw on the schools and universities of the United States the task of education in the world. "In Europe," he said, "all knowledge, with its accretions of apparatus, is going into the law of war."

A first act of Italy, for example, was to turn its school buildings into barracks and hospitals. Unquestionably education in Europe will suffer.

Yet it may be doubted that the nations needing to rehabilitate themselves when the war is over can afford not to rehabilitate education as a first requisite. It has been demonstrated too thoroughly that the earning power and industrial power of an educated people is far superior to that of an otherwise equal but ignorant people. It can be believed hopefully that even this great disaster of war will not cause the peoples to forget the benefits they derived from the really civilized things of civilization. Berlin's recent appropriation of thirty million dollars for parks and playgrounds is a case in point.

The Monroe palace at Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, where the American republics can settle their differences by arbitration. It was named for President Monroe, author of the Monroe doctrine.

world. So far as we need concern ourselves, however, only this southern portion need be considered. Even this portion alone probably has more fertile undeveloped land than any other country in the world.

On considering the resources of Brazil we again can forget the northern section, and when considering the great central portion we must divide it into two parts. The western central portion—including the Amazon territory—abounds in rubber, mahogany, dyes, woods, coffee, and other tropical vegetation.

The eastern central portion is very much like our own very southern states. Here only cotton, cocoa and sugar are now being raised in quantity; but all tropical crops and fruits can here easily be produced. Here are hundreds of thousands of square miles of level, fertile lands with rainfall and sunshine which are absolutely idle today.

The southern portion is the land of cattle and coffee, although corn and other cereals can here be raised with great productivity. Even this southern portion alone should some day support as much cattle and raise as much grain as the whole of Argentina.

Most persons have no idea of the vastness and productive powers of the fields, forests, mines and water-powers of Brazil. But even those of us who think well of Brazil as a whole fail to realize that the wealth and possibilities of this southern portion alone probably equals that of any other nation, including our own United States.

Fort Wayne's newest and largest as well as finest hotel was thrown open to the public Saturday night when the Randall inaugurated service by a public reception. R. B. Hughes, the new proprietor, had made elaborate preparations to receive all callers and all were royally treated. That P. A. Randall has given Fort Wayne a modern hotel goes without saying.

Rt. Rev. Joseph Dwenger, bishop of the Catholic diocese of Fort Wayne, officiated yesterday in his last service at the cathedral for some time. He has canceled all his appointments in the diocese and will leave tomorrow for Mexico, where he hopes to regain his health, which has been poor for some six months. Rev. Father Koenig, of St. Paul's Catholic church, who also is ill, will join Bishop Dwenger in Mexico.

The members of the Fort Wayne and Kokomo teams in the Indiana baseball league were today fined $1 and costs each for playing a game yesterday in violation of the law against desecration of the Sabbath. Mayor Harding had given warning on Sunday that the game should not be played, but as an experiment it was tried and the mayor assessed fines that aggregated $90. No more Sunday games will be attempted inside the city limits.

Chicago, May 25.—Can your vertebrae hit high C. Does your kidney "flat" the top notes? Does your gizzard sing ragtime? What do you mean, bug house chatter? Nothing foolish about it—it's the latest in medical science—everybody is talking it, and doing it at a medical convention now in session in Chicago. Dr. George Starr White, of Los Angeles started it when he declared that the human body is always humming and strumming and tum-tee-dee-ing, "throwing off musical notes" about its aches and its ills and that if a person stands upon a certain kind of magnet plate the anatomical symphony will begin, and if you are not tone-deaf you can hear all about the germs of tuberculosis symptoms, of Bright's disease, gall stones and other false notes that throw bodily functions out of harmony.

ert Smith. The wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Peter Meyer, at 1724 West Main street. Covers were laid for twenty-five. The out-of-town guests were Mrs. William Oppenheimer and children, of Chicago, and Miss Grace Malone, of Paducah, Ky. For the wedding breakfast the bride's table was done in bride roses, wedding cake ornaments in ivory wedding style, and amais. Pink and white roses, peonies and sweetpeas decorated the rooms. The bride and groom left in the afternoon for an eastern trip. For traveling the bride wears a stunning suit with Eton jacket of black cloth and a skirt of black and white small plaid English suitings. Her hat is very plain, a black maline with black velvet bows and a bit of black paradise feather, and her blouse is a flesh color chiffon embroidered in pale yellow. The groom is employed by the firm of Mossman & Yarnelle. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Baker.

The closing recital of active members of the Morning Musical society will be held on Friday morning in Elks hall. Mrs. James E. Elliott, Miss Hanna, Miss Olds and Miss Hiser are in charge of the program. Miss Lang, another member of the committee, is still in Chicago pursuing her voice studies.

Weimer-Loser.
Miss Hulda Loser, a graduate nurse from the Lutheran hospital training school, and Mr. Walter Weimer, an employee of the Fort Wayne Electric works, were married on Tuesday afternoon at Zion's Lutheran church by Rev. C. H. Luchter. After a wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Weimer will be at home at 925 Buchanan street.

AN INTERESTING RECITAL.
Good Program Given by Music Pupils in Elks' Hall.

The hall in the Elks' building was filled last evening by an audience of relatives and friends of pupils giving a recital, and of the teacher of voice work in charge, Mrs. E. H. Kirkland. The program this season was varied from former programs under the same management as Mrs. Kirkland invited a violin pupil of Eugene Troendel, and a piano pupil of Mrs. Florence Huebner. Dukes to take part.

Mrs. Kirkland's pupils acquitted themselves with much credit, displaying in important particulars the best average of vocal improvement that has been heard in comparison with previous recitals. There was much steadiness of tone, distinct enunciation and almost invariable accuracy in pitch. Every number was from memory, words as well as music, and every one knew what to sing and how to do it. In several instances, pupils apparently quite nervous from fright, gained in control as they sang and showed that all they need is time and practice. Of the singers Miss Helene Hastings displayed the greatest round advancement and pleasing voice and she deserved the round of appreciative applause following her Jewel song from "Faust." Miss Elfrida Schanz, who has a very musical and pleasing voice and natural aptitude for expression, sang two numbers in good style. Miss Eda Siemon displayed much progress and sang a difficult selection from Carmen very well. Miss Mae Centine suffered from fright, but even that didn't prevent her from recognizing her possibilities so far as a voice of good range and sweet quality is concerned. Miss Irene Noll sang the Delibes "Indian Bell song" with much commendation, although the high notes of the song demand perfect tone placement and development to be "bell-like." Miss Noll's voice is high and clear and the majority of her tones are sweet, but not large. Her work was a good demonstration of her possibilities. Belief that to best develop her pupils, aside from the routine of exercises, they should study of the best in big operatic works, not because they know how to sing them, but to develop taste, ideas, ambition and general musical intelligence. And such qualities were in evidence throughout the program even with pupils of the least experience, whose songs were of necessity simple in range and demand. Miss Margaret Russell, Miss Alice Snyder, Miss Bessie Japp, the Messers, Swainson, William Hayes, whose voice possibilities are out of the ordinary, took part with individual success. Miss Erna Tapp played with much technical facility Der Sohn der Haide, by Keler Bela, and Springtime by Tootswey, for the violin. Miss Ruth Lane, pianist, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Lane, appeared twice on the program. Although but sixteen years of age this young girl has a splendidly developed technique and gets a big round tone that has individuality and quality. Musically speaking, Miss Lane has "temperament," and she is an unusually promising young performer.

Baker-Malone.

As beautiful a bride as one could find in a long time was Miss Louise Irma Malone, whose wedding to Mr. Louis Andrew Baker took place at the Cathedral at 9 o'clock Wednesday morning. Rev. John R. Quinlan officiated at the ceremony and mass. Miss Helen Clifford presided at the organ and Miss Amelia Moran and Mr. Carl Weber sang. The bride was attended by Miss Marie Pierre as maid and the bride's brother, Mr. Earl Malone, was groomsmen. The bride presented a most attractive appearance in a modish white gown, short in length, with which she wore a bridal veil of only medium length to correspond. The dress itself was an accordion plaited skirt of oriental lace over which hung a shorter skirt of chiffon tulle which had a deep inset of strikingly handsome lace of heavy pattern and a very short pleated ruffle of lace just from the belt. The blouse was of the style known as beche, of tulle over ruffled georgette crepe for neck and sleeves. The veil for the hair was a rounded effect edged with duchess lace and was held just back of the ears with tiny clusters of orange blossoms, then fell in points. A shower bouquet of bride roses and lilies of the valley and a string of pearl beads for the throat were other details of the bridal costume. The bridesmaid's gown was an imported embroidered batiste of pale pink with pink tulle, while a white hemp braid hat with wide lace insertion in the brim and beautiful rich looking flowers, both pink and white, for trimming were further set off by pink roses which formed the bouquet tied with long ribbons of rose pink shade. The ushers at the church were Messrs. Roland Larimore, Jack Hagan and Robert Smith.

The general admission for these pictures will be ten cents for children, twenty-five cents for adults and thirty-five cents for special entree floor reservations.

AT THE LYRIC.

ART SMITH IN "MOVIES."

Fort Wayne Birdboy is Filmed on the Lyric Program.

The current program at the Lyric theater offers an unusual attraction in its film of Art Smith, which shows the Fort Wayne birdboy in some of his marvelous flights at the San Francisco exposition. At the outset one is given a close-range view of Smith "tuning up" his aeroplane for a flight. Then follows the start, and one is finally taken through the thrills of watching Smith's wonderful midnight flights over the exposition buildings, his machine ablaze with fireworks that mark his pathway through the skies. The photograph is one of the most remarkable ever made, and the entire film possesses a peculiar interest to Fort Wayne "movie" patrons.

The remainder of the Lyric's big program is also excellent, notably its views of the exposition grounds and buildings and the gorgeous electrical illumination. The "movie" serial beautiful, "The Goggles," by Guyamer Morris, will be the main feature at the Lyric today. This is an unusual moving picture serial. It is an idyl produced by America's foremost writer of idyls. It is a story to be enjoyed by everybody regardless of their appreciation of motion pictures. Read the story on the first chapter in another part of this paper today.

"The Wrong Woman," one of the most powerful three-act dramas ever produced by Edison, will be another attraction of the Lyric today. Mabel Trunnelle, George Wright and Gladys Hulette are the stars featured in this drama.

AT THE COLONIAL

"THE JUGGERNAUT" WILL RETURN.
Sensational "Train Wreck" at Colonial Again Friday and Saturday.

Over one hundred and fifty eager requests from screen followers in the city were the indication which led the Colonial to book for another two-day engagement the sensational success, "The Juggernaut," the Vitaphone master-drama which featured Earle Williams and Anita Stewart. The piece de resistance of "The Juggernaut" is the sight of a whole train, valued at $50,000, plunging through a dizzy trestle into the river below. Friday and Saturday are the days selected to project this premier "thriller."

Today is the last in which to see Emily Stevens, the prominent young emotional star, enact the startling leading role in the powerful De Grease "problem play," "Cora," a star and an offering meeting with unprecedented approval on the part of Colonial patrons.

AT THE JEFFERSON.

Theda Bara, "Vampire Woman," Tomorrow.

The coming weekly program at the Jefferson is without a doubt one of the most attractive and comprehensive that has ever been projected onto the screen at the popular playhouse. Tomorrow, Theda Bara, the seductively beautiful Parisian star who scored such a sensational triumph by her startling depiction of the depraved "Vampire" in "A Fool There Was," creates even a more fascinating part as Iza in a remarkable screen drama taken from Alexandre Dumas' novel of stormy passion, "The Clemenceau Case."

Today's program at the Jefferson contains two brilliant Paramount subjects, "Rocks Bay" and "The Man on the Case," both adapted from famous stories. The Fort Wayne Animated Weekly and Pathe's News are additional features.

IN THE CHURCHES

MEMBERS OF TRINITY CHURCH ACCEPT PLANS

Lutheran Congregation Will Build $30,000 Church Edifice.

Plans as drawn by J. M. E. Riedel, architect, and submitted by Nicholas Ketsch, chairman of the building committee, for a new $30,000 church building were accepted by the congregation of Trinity German Lutheran church at the meeting held Tuesday evening at the school hall. The plans were decided on with but a few minor alterations.

The new building, which will be an example of one of the most modern pieces of architecture, will be built on the church lot, Huffman street and St. Marys avenue. Work will be begun as soon as possible and the committee and Rev. G. W. F. Dege, pastor of the congregation, have been working diligently to have the necessary amount subscribed for the building of the new edifice before work is started.

The social rooms, will be situated in the large basement as will the kitchen, instruction room, cold storage plant and also the heating system. There will be three main entrances on the first floor leading into a vestibule from which stairways lead to the basement and to the balcony. The organ and choir will be located back of the altar. The balcony will seat 200 people.

The congregation will have another meeting Sunday immediately after the morning services to finish plans for their new church. At this time it will be decided whether brick or pressed brick will be used.

RECEIVE THEIR DIPLOMAS.

Six students of the parochial schools of St. Paul's Catholic church who have finished the course offered by the school were presented with their diplomas of graduation Tuesday evening at the exercises held in the church. Rev. H. F. Joseph Kroll, pastor of the church, delivered a sermon in which he treated of Christian education and the religious element as an essential in the formation of a good character. He also presented the graduates with the diplomas.

Member of the class of 1915 were: Louis Bell and the Misses Clara Suelzer, Rose Kintz, Helen Kohrman, Marie Murphy and Catherine Miller. The services closed with benediction of the blessed sacrament.

FIELD SECRETARY CCMOING.

Miss Gertrude Cogan, of Philadelphia, field secretary of the Woman's Missionary societies of the Reformed church, will be present and will speak at the meeting of the Woman's Missionary societies of Zion's class to be held at St. John Reformed church, June 24 and 25. The first meeting will be held Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock and in the evening a special program will be rendered. This is the first annual meeting as it was organized last fall. Delegates from Huntington and Decatur are expected to be in attendance. Friday morning an automobile trip is being planned.

Will Speak on Japan.

On account of his absence from the city last week, H. Takimori was prevented from giving his talk at the mid-week meeting of the Plymouth Congregational church concerning his personal observations in Japan, his native country. The talk will be given this evening.

On Sunday night, Rev. A. J. Folsom will continue his series of studies on the war problem, which have filled Plymouth church with deeply interested audiences during the past month. Sunday evening the subject will be "The Cape to Cairo Railroad and the War."

Happy Gleaners Entertain.

The Happy Gleaners class of the First M. E. church gave a missionary play, "The Light Bringers," Tuesday evening to a large audience at the church. The affair was a great success. The costumes of the young ladies, prepared by themselves, represented many countries.

Agoga Bible Class Meets.

Everybody's Birthday.

A social gathering by celebrating everybody's birthday will be held by the United society of Trinity German Lutheran church, Oakland and Huffman streets, Friday evening. In celebrating everybody's birthday each one will make a contribution of as many cents as they are old. Games will be played and refreshments will be served.

Theosophical Society.

The regular weekly meeting of the Fort Wayne lodge of the Theosophical society will be held Wednesday evening in the Art building, corner Webster and Wayne streets, at 8 o'clock. Subject: "Esoteric Christianity." Any persons interested are invited to attend.

Church Notes.

What "Reliability" Means AT The New Tepper Store

Every store nowadays claims to be "reliable." And while the word "reliable" has but one meaning, that meaning becomes modified or emphasized, according to the particular store that claims it for a virtue. We all know the store that is reliable in an indefinite sort of way. You don't know just where you stand when trading there. Other stores are fairly reliable—which means that they are trustworthy up to a certain degree. Still others (and such stores are unfortunately very few) are very reliable—which means that the utmost dependence can be placed on the store, its promises, and its merchandise.

The new Tepper Store in Fort Wayne is a shining light and example of the latter class of truly reliable stores. This store is modeled along the same lines as our four other stores in Selma, Ala., Plainfield and New Brunswick, N. J., and Elmira, N. Y. Absolute trustworthiness is the keystone upon which our reputation will rest. We make no promises, verbal or written, which we do not fulfill to the letter.

In all the merchandise which we carry in our new store, it is our intention to eliminate all but worthy and dependable qualities, and yet our prices will be the very lowest obtainable in Fort Wayne.

WHAT'S GOING TO STOP SUBMARINES? DESTROYERS THEIR ONLY EFFICIENT FOE.

UNDERWOOD • UNDERWOOD

The fastest warship in the world. It is also the largest destroyer.

The destroyer "Swift" of the British navy, which makes thirty-six miles an hour.

What's going to stop the submarine? How is the hidden demon of the deep to be frustrated in spreading explosive death? How are warships and merchantmen to escape its torpedo fangs?

There are three methods of combating the submarine.

Mines usually will protect a fleet in harbor. The game is then too hazardous for the submarine.

The aeroplane is a partial defense against the submarine—when submarines are operating near an aerial base. From his position high in the air the aerial observer can see a submarine submerged at great depth. But the aviator cannot destroy submarines. He can only report their presence and turn the work over to the destroyers.

The torpedo destroyer, therefore, are the only formidable foe of the submarines.

The swift destroyer, that slender, low, smooth craft, the real grayhound of the sea, is the one protection. Let a destroyer sight a submarine, and unless the latter sinks suddenly it is doomed. Of the two the destroyer, much larger, is the quicker. Its value lies in its speed.

The destroyer can literally swim rings around the submarine. It can even still dodge a torpedo when the shiny missile is as close as 200 yards. Quick maneuvering is its answer. It is an elusive target, too elusive for the slower torpedo and the slower submarine. A destroyer that is torpedoed has really been asleep. They have been built not to be torpedoed.

How does a destroyer destroy? In the first place it has the same tools as the submarine. It has torpedo tubes. The submarine with half a chance can sink under the destroyer's torpedoes. But the destroyer has a better chance. One shot from its four-inch guns is enough to sink the thin-skinned submarine.

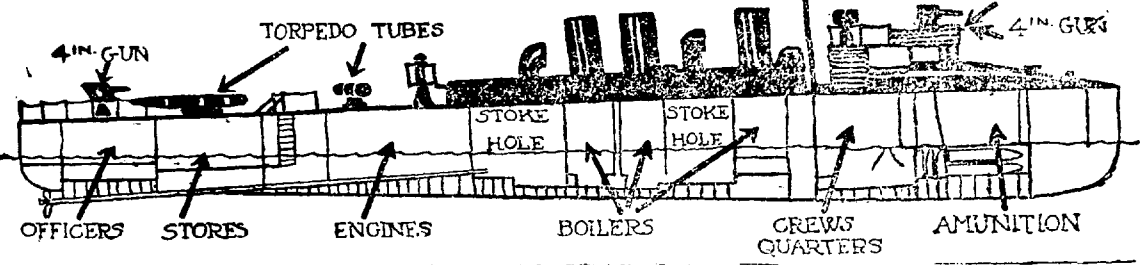

Destroyers carry from two to six four-inch guns and can make from thirty to thirty-five miles per hour. They are quick-handlers, in the words of seamen. The fastest warship in the world is the "Swift," England's giant destroyer, which makes thirty-six miles an hour and can turn speedily. Their speed is almost twice as great as the surface speed of the submarine. When submerged the submarines can only make from ten to sixteen miles per hour.

Should a periscope suddenly show close to a destroyer, the latter could dash ahead at full speed with the idea of ramming and sinking the submarine with its sharp steel stem. Then it would be up to the submarine crew to submerge quickly or be lost.

The modern destroyer is a vessel ranging from 700 tons to the 1335-ton "Swift" of the British navy. The length varies from 250 to 400 feet. They are very narrow. Power is furnished in the most modern by oil engines. From two to six eighteen-inch torpedo tubes are part of the equipment and in the average destroyer are four four-inch rapid-firers and frequently a few lesser rifles, including a pair of machine guns. The hulls are not armored. The destroyer relies on speed.

Besides offering a defense against like ships and an offense against submarines, this equipment is sufficient to sink merchantmen.

Side elevation of a torpedo destroyer, the lean fast fove of submarines.

LABOR SHORTAGE IS FEARED SOON

Mills Will Not Have Men Enough by Aug. 1, It is Claimed.

Pittsburgh, May 26.—In this part of the United States, at any rate, the much discussed crisis between Germany and the United States has not only had no paralyzing effect on trade plans and industrial conditions, but has seemingly had no adverse effect at all. It may be said that at this moment the steel industry is beginning to count the weeks until it will be operating at as full a rate as the supply of labor will permit, and conservative estimates are that this point will be reached within three months or by August.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a running sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

WILL MEET IN CHICAGO.

According to information received from South Bend a meeting of the board of army engineers will be held in Chicago in the near future to further discuss the proposed Toledo, Fort Wayne and Chicago barge canal.

In a letter written by Colonel John Mills to Richard Elbell, vice president of the Erie and Michigan Deep Waterways association, he states that the reports on the northern and southern routes from Fort Wayne to Chicago will soon be submitted to the war board.

In the event that a meeting is held in Chicago, Fort Wayne and Huntington boosters will attend.

INDIANA TOWN SUFFERS.

Loogootee Is Hard Hit by Storm on Tuesday.

Loogootee, Ind., May 26.—Extensive damage was done by the heaviest storm of many years which passed over this vicinity yesterday. Many houses were unroofed, small buildings were blown over and many buildings shifted on their foundations. Windows of houses and stores were blown in and telephone poles were leveled for miles. Hundreds of shade and orchard trees were uprooted and silos turned over. The path of the storm was narrow. The wind was accompanied by furious rain and lightning. A tree was blown on a local passenger train just leaving here and several windows of the day coach were smashed.

RAIN HALTS GAME; TWO MORE WITH ERIE

Weather Stops First of Series With the Trailers.

Rain stopped things again at League park yesterday and another game goes over till later in the season. However, there will be big things doing in the other two games of the Erie series if the rain god permits. Both Erie and the Cubs have been celebrating winning streaks, and both are mighty determined that said streaks remain unbroken. Today is Rotary club day at the park, and incidentally ladies' day, and Saturday will be another big kids' day, all youngsters being admitted free.

HUGH FULLERTON THROWS UP SPONGE

He's Through With Trying to Guess Them, He Says.

The major league baseball season is a long time getting settled. The dope is turning flip flops, batters who never could hit are way up, teams that are notoriously weak at bat are near the top, strong home running teams are far down the list, weak fielding teams are among the leaders in fielding.

There is Pat Moran's Phillies, who have been leading practically all year, last in fielding, and next to last in batting and base running; which shows pretty conclusively that pitching alone has kept them up in the race.

The Chicago White Sox, the alleged "hitless wonders," second in batting and Washington, which we feared lacked the fielding steadiness to win, leading the American league in fielding, and the Yankees, who looked good in fielding, in base running and in pitching, hitting within a few points of the alleged slugging Cubs, and the Athletics, supposed to be crippled in batting strength, ranking third.

Imagine Pittsburgh's Federals leading their league in fielding! And the Orioles, down in last place and still third in batting strength!

From the dope of the first month and a half of the season it is evident there are going to be some startling changes in the standing of the clubs if the weather ever settled down to business. The clubs are not going on form as yet. Chicago's Cubs have surprised themselves. The team is hitting some fifteen points above its real gait, and the pitchers are going stronger than they will later.

New York is just starting, and is showing a lot of improvement which ought to continue when the cripples get back into the lineup.

The Boston Braves have suffered a lot through the absence of Evers. With Evers there the team probably would even now be out in front.

In the American league Detroit's bid seems real. The team is playing a lot of baseball, and getting fair pitching. While the White Sox now are regarded as the Boston Red Sox most dangerous competitor, the Chicago bunch has been winning on wonderful pitching rather than on good ball playing, and if this continues, Detroit's hitting power will tell.

The Red Sox are awakening to the fact that they will have to hustle to get by with the pennant. The team has been very slow getting going and all has not been harmonious. Gardner's illness has been a heavy handicap.

The Yankees have kept hustling but have revealed weak spots in fielding and evidently still lack the hitting punch to carry them to the top.

EVILS OF CONSTIPATION.

Those who are habitually troubled with constipation and who permit their bowels to go two or three days without an operation have little relish for their food. BARON AVIATOR WANTS KIDDIES TO SEE HIM.

Baron von Figlymessy, the Hungarian-American aviator, who will be seen at the Centlivre park Saturday, May 29 next, in a practical demonstration of aerial warfare as it is now conducted in Europe, wants all the kids in the city and neighboring towns to see his great flights.

To be sure that the children can afford to see him at close range when he battles and destroys the scenic fort, the baron has induced the management of his exhibition to place the price of admission for children at 25 cents, with no extra charge for anything after they get in. In fact the baron insists that others be provided to look after the young ones and that they see the show from the best spot. The age limit is 16 years.

"It's the youngsters," says the baron, "that have been taught to believe in the aeroplane as a 'toy' but the kids will grow up and live in an aerial age. I want them to hold me as their ideal and always remember it was me who first showed them the kind of flying they might be able to do, should this country at some future time be called on to defend its shores against the invader."

KITCHENER RETAINS POST.

Balfour Succeeds Churchill as Head of British Admiralty.

London, May 26.—Lord Kitchener retains the post of secretary of war in the new coalition cabinet which has received the approval of King George. The new first lord of the admiralty will be Arthur J. Balfour. Winston Spencer Churchill, former head of the admiralty, is given the portfolio of chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster.

Herbert Asquith retains the premiership and Sir Edward Grey, the ministry of foreign affairs. David Lloyd George, chancellor of the exchequer, in the old cabinet, will be minister of munitions in the new one.

ATTACKS FROM BOTH SIDES OF THE LINE

East of Radimo a crossing over the San river was captured after Austrian troops had taken a bridge ahead to the west of the San by storm.

Further to the south our troops after a battle reached the district east of Lazki and they also continued to the line of Kozencica-Zaplatow. The booty in prisoners and war material increases.

continue to proceed as long as she could master the water in the last compartment. Forty members of the Ryndam's crew, these messages said, remained on board.

Wireless Grows Fainter.

The Ryndam's wireless became fainter and fainter and it was difficult for the wireless stations to communicate with her. Two warships of the Atlantic fleet hurrying to the assistance of the disabled vessel came up alongside the Ryndam about 7 o'clock and steamed along with the liner, which made very slow progress. The arrival of the warships virtually insured the safety of those of the crew who had remained on board the Ryndam to navigate her as long as she remained afloat. From wireless reports received later it was believed the inrush of water in the holds of the Ryndam had been checked and the steamship was enabled to increase her speed to twelve knots or more.

Meanwhile the Cunco, with the Ryndam's passengers and part of her crew, headed to the westward towards the port. No wireless messages were picked up from the Cunco and it was not known here whether she was equipped with long range wireless. The extent of the Cunco's damage has not been ascertained, but it could not have been anything serious because immediately after the collision all the Ryndam's passengers and part of the crew were transferred to the Cunco. The Ryndam was said to be heavily laden with a general cargo of foodstuffs and merchandise for Holland.

The progress of the Ryndam was a continual fight on the part of the crew to prevent hold No. 6 from filling. With hold No. 5 filled the water gained slowly in No. 6, notwithstanding every effort to check it, and officers of the Ryndam made preparations to abandon the liner in event the situation grew worse.

Although the cause of the accident has not been stated, it was believed that a heavy fog which was brought up by a southeasterly wind late last night was responsible for the collision. Fortunately the sea was not heavy at the time the steamships crashed together.

Capt. Heuvel Reports.

A wireless message from Captain Heuvel, of the Ryndam, made public by the Holland-American line, read:

"One hundred and fifty miles from Ambrose. Hold five full of water, hold six water gaining. Engine room water we can master. Am proceeding thirteen miles head. Passengers and 160 crew safely on board Cunco. American squadron standing by."

Apparently Captain Heuvel was not aware when he sent this message that the passengers had been transferred from the Cunco to the battleship South Carolina.

The Ryndam's cargo consisted chiefly of foodstuffs and was valued at approximately $1,000,000. The bulk of her shipments were consigned to the Netherlands. Overboarded at Rotterdam. The list included 236,000 bushels of corn, 5,000 bags of flour, 600 cases of linseed oil, 200 bales of cotton, 300 kegs of wire nails and fifteen boxes of corrugated sheet iron.

It was said that most of her passengers were Europeans returning home and that only a few were Americans. The owners of the Joseph Cunco said that she carried no passengers and that her crew consisted of twenty men. She is a small tramp steamer plying in the fruit trade between this city and the West Indies. So far as could be learned, the cabin passengers of the Ryndam included only six Americans, as follows: Mrs. Martha Daley, of New York; Miss Cecelia Egger, of Baltimore; Miss Wilhelmina A. Engel, of Boston; Mrs. Martha Hebel, of this city; Henry L. Van Praag, of this city, and Paul Kubbe, of Philadelphia.

AN AMERICAN STEAMER HIT

and added that he had received no direct report.

Coming close on the Lusitania disaster, the news that another American ship had been endangered, aroused more than ordinary attention, but all officials were disposed to hear details before making comment. Some officials could not understand why a ship bound for the United States in ballast and, therefore carrying no contraband, should have been endangered by a torpedo, and they considered it among the possibilities that the Nebraska might have struck a floating mine.

Secretary Bryan said the state department information was too meagre to permit the forming of an opinion. He said a full report with details of the attack was expected soon.

The official and news dispatches on the Nebraska was communicated to President Wilson but no comment was forthcoming from the white house. It was indicated that a full investigation would be made as promptly as possible.

MAKING TRIP IN BALLAST.

Philadelphia, Pa., May 26.—The Nebraska, it was said here, is bound for Delaware Breakwater in ballast for orders. This means that upon arrival there the agents of the ship would direct its master to proceed to any port where a cargo might be procured, possibly to the Pacific coast, via the Panama canal.

The Nebraska sailed from New York May 7 and arrived at Liverpool on May 19. Previous to the war the ship had been active in trade between northern ports and Galveston, but since the outbreak had made one voyage to London and one to Bremen.

The damage to the Nebraska recalled at once in official quarters the German government's presentation by Count Bernstorff to Secretary Bryan, on May 11, that submarine commanders had been specifically instructed not to harm neutral vessels not engaged in hostile acts and that Germany would pay for any damage to such ships in the war zone. The German government's communication added that in such a case it would express its regrets and pay damages without resort to a prize court. In case of dispute of facts Germany offered to arbitrate claims at The Hague.

The torpedoing of the Nebraska was a surprise to American officials here. Apparently it occurred before 9 o'clock last night. All of the vessels leaving Liverpool recently had their names and nationalities painted in large letters on their sides and have flown large flags. Yesterday evening was clear, and the period between 8 and 9 o'clock is the twilight hour in the British islands at this season. A message to Lloyds says that an armed trawler went to the assistance of the Nebraska and stood by her all night.

THE DEATHS.

DILLON.

M. J. Dillon, chief clerk at the Baltes hotel, died at St. Joseph hospital Tuesday evening following a stroke of apoplexy, which he suffered a short time before while at work at the hotel. News of his sudden death comes as a shock to his many friends and acquaintances.

Mr. Dillon had been ailing and complaining for the past few months, but his condition was never such that he was unable to work for he was on duty daily. Not only was he well known to many local people, but his kind ways won for him many friends of the traveling fraternity.

The deceased was born in New York city July 28, 1879, and had spent his early life in that city. He was employed at the Grand hotel at Anderson before coming to this city five years ago, when he accepted the position which he held at the time of his death. He was a member of the local Elks' lodge and of the Eagle's lodge of Anderson.

BOWERS.

Frances W. Bowers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David B. Bowers, of 2115 Broadway, died late Tuesday afternoon at St. Joseph hospital at the age of sixteen years. The girl had submitted to an operation for obstruction of the bowels and her sudden death comes as a great shock to all who knew her.

Besides the grief stricken parents she is survived by two sisters and three brothers: Mrs. J. F. Hathaway, Mrs. E. Smith, both of this city; W. E. Bowers, of New Haven; H. H. Bowers, of Dayton, and Dr. John E. Bowers, of Washington, D. C.

Funeral services Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the M. P. church at New Haven. Burial at New Haven I. O. O. F. cemetery.

O'CONNOR.

Miss Julia O'Connor, aged 48 years, died at St. Joseph's hospital shortly after midnight Tuesday following an illness of several weeks, due to complications. The deceased had made her home for many years with Miss Mary Walsh Colerick, 315 East Jefferson street.

She was a member of the Cathedral of Immaculate Conception, of the Sacred Heart League and the Young Ladies' sodality of the same congregation. She is survived by three sisters, Mrs. Frank Schunk, of Valparaiso; Mrs. Mary Edwards, of Pittsburgh; and Mrs. George Kuhn, of Winamac; a niece, Mrs. Mary Clover, of this city, and one grand niece and a great grand nephew.

FUNERAL NOTICES.

Hill.—The remains of Pauline May Hill will be shipped at 11:50 Thursday morning to Antwerp for burial by U. I. M.

Bordecker.—Funeral services for Mrs. Clara Bordecker will be held Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the home of a brother, 1006 Third street.

Salzbrenner.—Funeral services for Mrs. Katherine Salzbrenner will be held Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the residence in Jefferson township and at 2:30 at St. Paul's Lutheran church at Gar Creek.

LINEMEN STILL OUT.

Union and Traction Company Fail to Come to Agreement.

Refusal on the part of the Fort Wayne and Northern Indiana Traction company has resulted in the linemen in its employ refusing to go to work. Both officials of the traction company and members of the union expect an early settlement of their differences, however.

According to members of the union the last increase received by them was twenty-five cents more on the day. Since then they claim the linemen in the employ of the city have received a substantial increase and they set forth that they are entitled to the same consideration.

FORTY POUNDS OF DYNAMITE ABOARD Contractor in Auto Carrying Explosive Collides With Jitney.

A collision of two automobiles, one of them with forty pounds of dynamite aboard, were the potential makings of a fine sensation, but pure luck was the preventing element and so it is that S. L. Sheets, of the Sheets Construction company, now digging a big sewer in the southeast part of the city, and George C. Smith, proprietor of a restaurant at 2102 Anthony boulevard and operator of a jitney bus are alive to give their respective versions of how it happened.

The collision took place Wednesday at Wallace and Lafayette streets, where the two Ford machines came together with a crash. Both machines were going at a good clip but no very serious damage was done to either car.

When Smith learned that Sheets had forty pounds of dynamite in his car he gasped. Sheets knew it all the time and was happy at the outcome. The explosive was for use in blasting excavations in the sewer.

The police may file an affidavit against Sheets for hauling explosives through the streets if a law can be found.

AS SECOND HUSBAND HE FARED NOT WELL

William Anderson Packed Up and Left After Four Months.

As the second husband of Matilda Anderson, whom he took to wife March 30, 1914, William A. Anderson confesses he did not make out well and in his divorce complaint says he was forced by conditions to pack up and leave four months later, to wit on the 26th day of August following. He says his wife continuously nagged him and complained of him and was always threatening to do herself bodily harm, besides accusing him of acts that were not true, including association with women of ill-repute. He says she has two sons—aged 9 and 11 years, respectively—by a former marriage and that they and their mother combined in mistreatment of him, until conditions became unbearable and he left.

Damage Suits for $5,000 Each. Marinda Kavanagh has begun action in the circuit court against the Fort Wayne & Northern Indiana Traction company for $5,000 damages for the death of Martin Chaney, who was struck March 27, 1914, by an interurban car on the defendant's lines at a road crossing two miles west of Romeke and received injuries from which he died in March of this year. She is the administratrix of the estate of the deceased. The defendant is charged with negligence in failing to sound a warning of the approach of its car.

Charles R. Sovine sues in the superior court for $5,000 damages from The Engineering company, of Fort Wayne, in whose works he was employed April 11, 1914, when one of his hands was badly mangled in a machine he was ordered to repair. He says he was keeping the machine steady while another employee sought to make the repairs and that the machine was started.

Says Wife Has Fits.

Norbert L. Ladig has brought suit in the superior court for divorce from Rosaladig, who is charged with cruel and inhuman treatment of him from the time of their marriage, August 6, 1914. She cursed him and called him names too vile and filthy to put in a complaint, he says, neglected her household duties and refused to cook his meals. He charges further that she misrepresented the state of her health and that since their marriage he has found that she has fits and otherwise is sick. The pair have lived in New Haven and in Fort Wayne and ran away to Kalamazoo to get married. The husband complains that she had him arrested for desertion, causing him to spend two days in jail.

Says He Imbibes Too Much.

Emily D. Mason has filed a complaint in the superior court asking divorce from Edward J. Mason and demanding $500 alimony. She says that since their marriage he has treated her in a cruel and inhuman manner, beating and striking her with hands and fists, shoving and pushing her and using vile epithets toward her. Besides this, she says he imbibes too much of alcoholic liquors and is then very cruel. She further complains that he has never given her reasonable support and that she has been compelled to work for herself. They were married April 12, 1912, and separated the 25th inst.

Notes of the Courts.

The superior court has set September 2 for the trial before a jury of the suit of Gertrude Stegner vs. the Fort Wayne and Northern Indiana Traction company for $7,500 damages, and September 10 for the trial, also before a jury, of the suit of the Kilbourne-Perry company vs. Elbert F. Brentlinger and Frank J. English for $2,000 damages.

The defendant in a prior suit of George Jeffers vs. Edward J. Pryor, receiver of the Wabash Railroad company, for $5,000 damages, has asked the superior court for a change of venue from Allen county.

In the divorce suit of Louise M. Kayser vs. Anthony A. Kayser, the superior court has ordered the defendant to pay the plaintiff $4 a week for four weeks and thereafter $3 a week.

The superior court has given judgment for the plaintiff for $110.81 in the suit of David C. Stout vs. Frank J. Brown.

In the superior court judgment for the defendant has been rendered on the jury's finding in the suit of Charles G. Griebel vs. Winfield S. Hughes, et al.

Niezer & Co. have begun action in the superior court against Albert N. Brown to collect $120 on a note.

The last will and testament of the late Oswald Schoenherr has been filed for probate. The estate is devised to the widow, Pauline Schoenherr.

The last will and testament of the late Frederick R. Bierbaum, of Fort Wayne, has been filed for probate. His estate is left in part to his wife, Minnie S. Bierbaum, for life and the balance to his three children.

FINED BY JUSTICE GRABNER.

Albert Myers, of Worthville, O., was fined $5 and costs for driving an automobile while intoxicated and C. W. Hopson, garner, of Payne, O., was fined $1 and costs for drunkenness by Justice Grabner, Wednesday. Both were arrested in New Haven by Sheriff A. C. Gladioux and Deputy D. R. Mills after they had driven their car through a fence on a farm near that town. They settled the damage they caused at New Haven and have gone back to Ohio.

BOBABY LITTLE IMPROVED.

Leonard Bobaby, the Washington township farmer who came back to Fort Wayne Tuesday after a strange absence of six weeks, during which he spent $1,500 he drew from the banks before he left, has been taken to the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Bobaby, on Spy Run avenue. He shows little improvement in his mental condition.

TREASURER BUETER TO BE HOST.

County Treasurer J. Herman Bueter will be host to a concert in Lakoside park Sunday evening, when the Briscoe automobile company's band from Detroit will give a program of music. The municipal band wagon, used in the free public concerts given under the auspices of the park department, last year in the city parks, will be loaned to the Briscoe band for its concert.

THE DAY ON WALL STREET.

New York, May 26.—Further heaviness in war contracts marked today early dealing on the stock exchange. New York Air Brake declined four points and losses of one to two points were scored by Pressed Steel, Crucible Steel, Westinghouse and kindred issues. Canadian Pacific was heaviest of the high priced railways, losing 1½. Interborough common and preferred were the only exceptions to the general tendency, rising two points. A moderate rally ensued before the end of the half hour.

The recovery which followed the early period of heaviness was suddenly reversed before the end of the first hour. Confirmation of the reported torpedoing of an American ship off the Irish coast caused precipitate declines of one to three points in war specialties. While the news gave rise to renewed apprehension no excitement accompanied the settlement, which was arrested by prompt support. By noon another moderate rally resulted in a further readjustment of prices on a minimum of dealings. Stocks were steady.

Severe declines in the low premium specialties occurred in the local market, the leading ones being:

LANDED ANOTHER BIG CONTRACT

Bass Foundry and Machine Co. Will Build Fifty-Nine More Steel Tanks.

W. C. Slater, of the Bass Foundry and Machine works, who went to New York last Sunday, returned this morning on the Pennsylvania Manhattan limited with a nice order for boiler and machine shop products. The order calls for fifty-nine steel tanks and a lot of miscellaneous machinery in connection. It came from the company who placed an order, through Mr. Slater's efforts, for 123 steel tanks a week or two ago. The material for these tanks has now been assembled and the boiler shop is now at work upon them, running with a double force night and day. There is considerable machine work on the tank connections and the machine shop is getting busy and working full time. The new and enlarged boiler plant of the Bass works has not been so busy since it was erected three or four years ago as it is at present. Nor did the company ever employ a larger force in the boiler shop than it has at present.

NEW BOOKS AT LIBRARY.

The following books for the use of its patrons have been placed on the shelves of the business and municipal department of the public library during the month of May. Any of these may be borrowed from the department for two weeks with privilege of renewal for the same length of time. The library is open on week days from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m.; Sundays, for reading purposes, from 2 p. m. to 5 p. m.

BIBLE CLASS ELECTION.

The Y. M. C. A. bible class held its annual election at the assembly rooms of the association last night, with the following results: Lester Penning, president; Mr. Shivers, vice president; and E. S. Gerig, secretary. The spring term closed sooner than previously intended, owing to the fact that the teacher, Rev. T. Pliny Potts, will leave on an extended trip through the east next week. The fall term will open Tuesday evening, September 7. The closing term was a most interesting and profitable one to the students, who think Rev. Potts a most capable instructor.

REPAIRING TELEGRAPH LINE.

The recent storm broke down about twenty telegraph poles of the Nickel Plate line at Arnold. The space covered by these poles is about one-half mile and temporary repairs were made so the break did not greatly interfere with the operations of the telegraph and telephone systems. This morning a number of Western Union linemen began replacing the broken poles and expect to finish the work this evening.

ELECT VICE PRESIDENTS.

Tuesday the B. L. E. at their triennial convention elected the following assistant chief engineers: Mr. W. C. Scudell, Mo.; H. E. Willes, Washington, D. C.; E. Corrigan, Hillsboro, Tex.; for six-year terms, and M. Montgomery, San Francisco, Cal., to fill the vacancy caused by the death of E. W. Hurley.

ATTENDING VEHICLE CONVENTION.

The Electric Vehicle association is holding its annual convention in New York and is being attended by electricians from all parts of the country. The Fort Wayne Electric works is represented by J. J. Kline, who left for New York yesterday.

COMPLETE COMMITTEE WORK.

Engineers O. L. Scheerer and M. T. Ocker and Firemen R. O. Scheerer and

J. F. Baughman, members of the committee on adjustment for the engineers and firemen on the Nickel Plate, have resumed work, after three weeks spent at Cleveland on committee work. This does not mean there are differences between the Nickel Plate and the engineers and firemen. Everything is harmonious there.

KEKIONGA AID TO MEET.

Kekionga Aid society, Ladies' Auxiliary to the Order of Railway Conductors, will meet at Unity hall Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Deahl, Mrs. Docherman and Mrs. Sonfield as the entertaining committee.

ONLY ONE MORE CLASS.

Friday Division Operator H. B. Reynolds will close the examinations in the book of rules on the Western division of the Pennsylvania. On that day he will hold classes at Crestline.

INDUSTRIAL NOTES.

Brakeman T. W. Smith, of the Nickel Plate, is off duty on account of the illness of one of his relatives.

W. L. Wilt left for Pittsburgh last night on business for the Pennsylvania railway power department.

Henry Shuster, foreman of carpenters at the Pennsylvania shops, has recovered from an illness and resumed work.

Nickel Plate Conductor G. T. Stevenson has gone to Fostoria to spend three or four days with relatives.

Nickel Plate Engineer John Moore is taking three or four days off duty to look after some private business.

H. H. Roberts, traveling passenger agent of the Lehigh Valley, was a caller at the several ticket offices today.

Mr. and Mrs. M. O. Shookman will leave for Canton, Ohio, tomorrow, to visit friends three or four days. Mr. Shookman is a Pennsylvania machinist.

Nickel Plate Firemen Ed Hunsaker and Dallas Wilford resumed work this morning, after being off duty a few days.

Machinist G. Theisman, of the Western Gas Construction company, has resumed his duties after an illness of six weeks.

Boilermaker C. Geisman, who was sick a week, has resumed work at the Western Gas Construction company's plant.

Brakeman E. N. McCulloch, of the Nickel Plate, was called to Piceaton yesterday on account of the illness of some member of his family residing there.

Machinist Frank Hebert and Boiler-maker Henry Heine have returned to Fort Wayne after spending ten days on the road inspecting stationary boilers from Sandusky to Clark.

L. B. Haslup had a toe crushed at 8:30 o'clock this morning. He was at work in the Pennsylvania boiler shop when a block of wood dropped upon his foot with the result mentioned.

Verne W. Allman, a recent graduate from the International Business college, has taken a position as stenographer with Shipping Clerk J. F. Kline, at the Fort Wayne Electric works.

Arthur E. Pope, mechanical engineer, of the American Road Machine company, who passed through a dangerous surgical operation at the Lutheran hospital Monday, is doing well and will recover.

Commercial Agent O. E. Wagner, of the G. R. & I., and his wife, will attend the funeral of Mrs. Paul Jones at Lagrange tomorrow afternoon. The deceased was Mrs. Wagner's grandmother.

C. D. Wheeler, head of the publication and advertising department of the Fort Wayne Electric works, returned home last night. For three weeks he was looking after business in New York and Philadelphia for the company.

Conductors T. H. Gallivan, W. O. Miller and L. M. Jackson and Brakemen V. M. Grummons, W. P. Roush, A. L. Burns and B. J. Merrill, who had been off duty for various reasons, reported for work on the Nickel Plate this morning.

Superintendent A. A. Lyons, of the Kanawha & Michigan railroad, ordered twenty-eight trainmen and mechanics discharged from service at Middleport, for entering saloons at Pomeroy, two miles distant. Middleport voted dry recently.

Hugh T. Hogan, foreman of the Pennsylvania machine shop, returned from Cincinnati this morning. He had been visiting relatives and friends there, including his son, Hugh Hogan and Philip Landy, who are foremen in the B. & O. shops.

Enthusiastic witnesses of the races at the Indianapolis speedway on Saturday will be Otto Adams, of the Traction company, and Ed Felts, of the Fort Wayne Brick and Power company. They are friends of one of the drivers. The trip to and from Indianapolis will be made in an automobile.

W. H. Smart, the weighmaster at the Nickel Plate yards, who has been sick and off duty several weeks, is still unable to work, there being no improvement lately. Mr. Smart is one of the old employees of the Nickel Plate, being a member of veterans' association. He is also a member of the O. R. C. and the B. R. T.

H. W. Burnett, yard fireman on the Wabash, working at nights, and his bride, returned yesterday from a three weeks' honeymoon trip in the east and Mr. Burnett, with a box of cigars for the boys, showed up at the yards for duty last night. He works with Engineer W. H. Harper. Mr. and Mrs. Burnett will reside on Brandt street.

Monday a gang of Italian laborers on the Chicago and Erie road, who were dismissed from the employ of the company some weeks before, were ejected from the bunk cars stationed at Markle, which they refused to vacate after being discharged by the railroad. County officials from Huntington went out and "fired" the gang. These men were dropped from the pay rolls when they refused to work until a foreman who had been discharged was reinstated. The foreman was accused of collecting money for a man who had not worked for some time.

HEAVILY FINED FOR BEATING HIS HORSE

Jim Robinson Mauled His Beast in Presence of Large Crowd.

After listening to conclusive testimony against James Robinson, a drayman, charged with cruelty to animals, Judge Kerr assessed a fine of $25 and costs, from which judgment court. It took an appeal to the circuit court. It was shown that he had given the animal a terrible lashing with whip and then struck it over the head with a club in the rear of the Perfection Biscuit company's plant on Pearl street, Tuesday afternoon, first whipping the horse because it had moved from the place where he had placed it and again after it had become frightened from mistreatment and had run away. Four young men, employees of the Perfection company, gave temperate and unprejudiced testimony and Officer Joseph Degitz, who arrested Robinson, told of the condition in which he found the abused animal.

Penal Farm for life-beater. Judge Kerr rendered his decision in the case of George Svanak, the Pole who gave his wife a terrible beating at their Edsall avenue home last Saturday, and assessed a fine of $10 and costs and sentenced him to ninety days at the state penal farm. His attorney gave notice of appeal and Svanak's wife and some of his friends went out to make an effort to procure the $200 appeal bond required by the court. Mrs. Svanak was busy as a bee about the court room, but did not attempt to repeat the scene she created Tuesday, when she clung to her husband and declared she would accompany him to jail.

First Time in Quarter Century. Henry Ormsby, who was found down and out from an overload of drink at the corner of St. Mary's avenue and Third street, declared to the court that this was his first appearance before a police magistrate in Fort Wayne for twenty-five years and he was given a chance to make it another quarter century, which he promised to do and went forth free.

IS AFTER HENSINGER.

Parole Officer Slater from the Jeffersonville reformatory, appeared at the city court and police headquarters Wednesday morning and attempted to get a remission of the sentence of Fred Hensinger, now doing fifty days on conviction of adultery, that he might take the young man back to the prison to resume his sentence. Hensinger was out on parole and refuses to keep himself free of trouble. He was penalized a few days ago for living in adultery with Mrs. Hilda Walker on Broadway. Officer Slater says they have had no end of trouble about Hensinger since his parole.

City Judge Kerr, Prosecutor Callahan and Chief Lenz declined to acquiesce in the turning over of Hensinger, fearing complications with the state accounting board in the matter of his unpaid fine and costs. The matter will probably be taken up with Governor Ralston by the reformatory officials.

GOODS NOT DELIVERED.

The police department is attempting to learn what became of about $30 worth of merchandise purchased and paid for by a customer at the Orpheum clothing store in the Orpheum building, Calhoun and Montgomery streets, last Saturday. The customer ordered her purchase delivered to 618 Davis street and a messenger service with headquarters on Brackenridge street was employed to make the delivery. Manager August, of the clothing store, learned Tuesday that the delivery never had been made and he also discovered that the messenger concerned had vacated its Brackenridge street quarters.

Robison Park opens Sunday.

EIGHTY-FIVE LEAVE FOR THE ENCAMPMENT

Eighty-five tickets were sold for the two special cars over the Fort Wayne and Northern Indiana Traction company's line to Marion Wednesday morning on account of the state encampment of the G. A. R. The cars left from the traction station at 9:10 o'clock. Others took later cars and it is estimated that one hundred or more Fort Wayne people will be in attendance at the encampment.

Delegates were sent from both local G. A. R. posts and the various auxiliary orders, besides many others who were not selected as delegates.

MORE RAIN COMING.

Thunderstorm Promised by Weatherman for Thursday.

According to the advance dope handed out by P. McDonough, the official weather forecaster, another thunderstorm is headed this way and is due to arrive some time Thursday. While there is a possibility that it may get sidetracked before reaching Fort Wayne, the chances are it will come through on schedule time.

Up to the present time in May there has been only eight days upon which no precipitation of rain has been recorded. The weather has been most unfavorable and many farmers have been compelled to replant their corn.

A motion has been filed in the United States court by the plaintiff asking for the dismissal of the case brought by the New York, Chicago & St. Louis Railroad company against W. F. Smith & Co.

CUTTING CORNERS WILL BE UNLAWFUL

City Council Passes Ordinance to Control Downtown Traffic.

When Mayor Hosey shall have signed the ordinance passed by the council Tuesday night for the better regulation of traffic down town, it will be an offense punishable by a fine for any person to cross a street at intersections where there is a traffic officer other than at right angles. In other words, the practice of "cutting the corners" will be an offense against the ordinance. The same ordinance also requires vehicles, including street cars, to stop back of the crossing line when the traffic officer's signal gives clearance to traffic from another direction. This ordinance was passed at the behest of Chief of Police Lenz, who has found the need of it and other measures for the rational control of traffic in the downtown districts at certain hours of the day. It was passed by a vote of 9 to 0, by Deitschel, Keller, Kinder, Lepper, Rogge and Smith voting against it. The new ordinance providing for lights and bell signals on bicycles, tricycles and motorcycles and the times and occasions for using them was killed out of hand, the council deeming present ordinances sufficient.

Wage Ordinance is Killed.
The council made a short shift of Councilman Korte's ordinance providing for a minimum wage in city employment and fixing 25 cents an hour, nine hours a day and twenty-six days a month as the conditions by which the executive department should be bound in the hiring of men. That the council did not take the play seriously was indicated by the fact that the measure was tabled by a vote of 13 to 2. A few weeks ago, when the park board salary list was up for a vote, the board announced that he was going to bring an ordinance to boost the pay of the city laborers. It was pointed out Tuesday night that the minimum wage ordinance doubtless would be invalid and that, moreover, such a minimum scale would result in the loss of their jobs by a large number of city employees who are practically pensioners.

To Keep Stable Away from Bridge.
Without a dissenting vote the council passed on first reading an ordinance introduced by Member Peter Deitschel, of the Ninth ward, to prevent the construction of a livery stable by Fred H. Meyers at the north approach of the new Harrison street bridge. It was referred to the committee on rules, regulations and ordinances and probably will be passed after it has taken the regular course. The ordinance makes it unlawful to erect a livery stable outside the fire limits, and declaring such a place to be a public nuisance in residential districts. A petition signed by over 200 Bloomingdale residents protesting against the Meyers barn was presented with the ordinance. The people of Bloomingdale say they have suffered much from the fact that the approach to their part of the city over the Wells street bridge is made unsightly by the clutter of stables, coal yards and the like, and they do not want the approach to the stately new Harrison street bridge so impaired.

Flood Prevention.
The council passed ordinances appropriating a total of $750 to the incidental claims account for the purpose of defraying preliminary expenses incurred in the circulation of petitions to ask the courts to establish a flood prevention district under the new special law. The city treasury will be reimbursed from the assessments made for flood works if the movement succeeds.

After some contentious debate the council passed the ordinance that gives marketers who grow the produce they sell the first right to choose stalls and stands on the city market. President Beyer explained that a report on the ordinance had been delayed in order to give Mayor Hosey, who at first was opposed to the ordinance, opportunity to study and understand its provisions.

An ordinance was passed requiring property owners who construct vaults and areaways beneath the sidewalks in front of their property, to file a bond to guarantee the harmless removal of the same that may arise from such construction. The ordinance was introduced by Councilman Agne, of the First ward, spoke of the enthusiasm that has been aroused. City Attorney Colerick related to the council that on Tuesday Deputy County Auditor Jay Brown volunteered to take a petition among Lakeside people and came back two hours later with 175 signatures. Fred Gerke, of the Fifth ward, has the honor of having been the first to attach his signature to a petition, having done so at the office of City Attorney Colerick Tuesday morning.

DISCUSS COMPENSATION LAW.

Mayor Hosey and Members Kelly, Singray and Hilgemann, of the board of works, had a long and interesting discussion Wednesday with J. W. Weyer, state agent of the Lodon Guarantee and Accident company, regarding the operations of the new workmen's compensation law which will become effective this fall. Mr. Weyer is an expert on the subject of the kind of indemnity the new law will require Indiana municipalities to carry. He explained the Indiana statute on this subject and the board of a rental for such use of the streets did not appear.

Withdrew His Objection.
After having defeated a motion to suspend the rules in order that an ordinance appropriating $300 to the engineering account of the park department to pay for inspection of boulevard work might be passed at once and the money made available, Councilman Korte, after all other business had been disposed of, moved a reconsideration and the ordinance was passed. He explained that he did not know that the money was needed at once to pay for two weeks' inspection work for which the park board was now in arrears to inspectors.

Other Ordinances.
The council appropriated $675 to the legal department to settle various claims against the city which have been compromised by City Attorney Colerick. After two slight changes had been made, the budget of the park board for its expenditures during the balance of the year was passed, as was also the ordinance creating offices and positions in the park board and fixing the salaries of them. To the committee on finance was referred an ordinance appropriating $5,000 to the sewer repair account, an expenditure made necessary by the cleaning of the intercepting sewer and by conditions in many of the sewer catch basins. To the committee on contracts and franchises were referred ordinances ratifying board of works contracts with the Bass Foundry and Machine company for the purchase of a boiler for the city electric light works, with the Detroit Stoker company for equipment for the boiler and with the Fort Wayne and Northern Indiana Traction company which has just been granted a franchise to move its tracks from the sides to the center of the thoroughfare on State street.

After formally accepting an invitation to participate in the Decoration day parade next Monday the council Member Schiebeck a committee to make arrangements.

FOR WOMAN ON SCHOOL BOARD.

Petitions bearing the names of 1,057 voters of Fort Wayne were filed with the city council Tuesday evening asking that body to elect a woman member of the school board when the council comes to choose a successor to Jesse Macbeth. With those previous filed the petitions brought the total of names up to a figure beyond 2,500. The council, merely received the petitions Tuesday evening and placed them with the others on file. Names will be added before the time for the election, which will take place Tuesday evening, June 8.

FLOOD PREVENTION WORK.

Much Interest in Labor of Getting Petitions Signed.

Following the mass meeting at the Commercial club Monday evening to launch the arduous task of getting enough signatures to the petitions for a drainage district to require the courts to act, there has been something like enthusiasm in many parts of the city. Meetings are being arranged in different sections at which the law will be explained and petitions presented for signature. The people of Bloomingdale are preparing for a big meeting Friday night at the Bloomingdale school and that section of the city is being thoroughly billed. The subject of flood prevention work was brought up in the meeting of the city council Tuesday evening and Councilman Agne, of the First ward, spoke of the enthusiasm that has been aroused. City Attorney Colerick related to the council that on Tuesday Deputy County Auditor Jay Brown volunteered to take a petition among Lakeside people and came back two hours later with 175 signatures. Fred Gerke, of the Fifth ward, has the honor of having been the first to attach his signature to a petition, having done so at the office of City Attorney Colerick Tuesday morning.

Mr. Weyer is an expert on the subject of the kind of indemnity the new law will require Indiana municipalities to carry. He explained the Indiana statute on this subject and the board of

PHYSICIANS ARE OUT IN STATEMENT

Would Rectify Injustice in Phase of Recent Trial at Van Wert.

The following statement issued by three well-known Fort Wayne physicians is self-explanatory:

"By reason of the printed accounts of the trial of Miss Lulu Wilson for the killing of Levy H. Jacobs, at Van Wert, Ohio, connecting the name of Miss Minnie Murchland with the same as the 'woman in the case' a great injustice has been done to Miss Murchland, of Monroeville, Indiana.

"In her testimony Miss Wilson related statements supposed to have been made to her by Jacobs to the effect that Jacobs was the father of the child 'that the child was dead,' that he paid for the hospital expenses and operation, etc."

"We attended Miss Murchland during an operation at the Saint Joseph hospital October 21st 1914, and Dr. Drayor has attended her from June 20th 1913 continuously up to and for some time subsequent to the operation. There was nothing in her sickness or the operation that pertained to or was connected with, directly or indirectly, any unlawful operation, the birth of a child, or any other unlawful or improper circumstances. The expenses of the operation, medical treatment and hospital care were paid by Miss Murchland, personally and not by Levy Jacobs as intimated and stated in the printed reports of the trial.

"The operation performed upon Miss Murchland was performed at the Saint Joe hospital, Fort Wayne, Indiana, and related to the gall bladder and the appendix and for no other purpose and to our definite knowledge Miss Murchland never had any other operation than as above stated.

"We hereby certify to the truth of the above statement.

A Nurse says:

"I have been a trained nurse for some fifteen years, and like many nurses, drank strong coffee. About two years ago I had to call a halt. I missed my coffee until some one recommended Postum, which I have used ever since, recommending it to many of my patients."

A Teacher says:

"I have been a coffee drinker ever since I can remember. I have been teaching school for sixteen years, and became more and more nervous. I could not sleep. After reading some of your literature I decided to try Postum. I have been using it about thirty days; my nerves have improved; I have no headache; sleep peacefully, and am able to do my school work better."

A Doctor says:

"I often find it necessary to prohibit the use of coffee for my patients, and have advised the use of Postum with good results to the nervous system and digestive apparatus."

CHAPTER I.

Dear Barclay:

Every individual voter feels that he could run the nation better than those appointed to do so by himself and thousands of others just like him. One voter would put the tariff higher than it was before; the next would abolish it. But, whichever type of thinker gets his candidate into power, there remain always in these United States millions of people who have to be poor, dirty and discontented.

From this even a child would conclude that the vast majority of people are doomed to unhappiness by the God who made them or that a vast majority of politicians are incapable governors. As to the first conclusion, we know nothing; but as to the second, we are certain beyond peradventure that the speaker of the corner, those whom we put over us to govern us are the most incompetent lot of legislators and administrators in history. For the most part they are men vaguely trained to the law. They talk better and often on a greater variety of topics than the average man who is making or trying to make an honest living. They make it their business to be conspicuous, last of all, they are not to get themselves elected. As a body of men they know practically nothing about anything useful or important, and their small minds are so tangled with the little they know that they are unable to see through the tangle into the heart of law, which is justice. If lawyers could be counted on to do right the pawnbroker down the street and the shoe maker on the corner would not have to be called away from affairs, important to them, to sit on juries and do justice.

But the thing goes deeper. What in each voter's judgment is the one chief evil that is wrong with these United States? There would be almost as many answers as there are voters. I've asked lots of men, and no two agreed, but I liked one man's answer a lot. He said: "The chief trouble with the country is that its citizens have to pay taxes when they ought to be receiving dividends. And this," he said, "would be the case if from the start we had been governed by our best minds instead of by our worst. If as a nation we had been run from the beginning the way Standard Oil, for instance, has been run as a trust."

I am not standing up for the rapaciousness of trusts, only for their efficiency. As a nation we have been more rapacious and dishonest than any trust that ever lived. This being so, and a blot upon us that can never be wiped out, a wrong of our own doing that can never be righted, it is ten thousand pities that we haven't been efficient, too.

How many billions of dollars was this country worth, as land, coal, oil, forest, gold, silver, iron, etc., etc.? Only astronomers think in big enough figures to answer that. Anyhow, as a nation we grabbed, stole and cheated it all away from the people who owned it. And then we began to play ducks and drakes with it. If from the start our resources had been handled by a Rockefeller he-well he might be a thousand times richer than he is, but we-would none of us be poor. And our house would be clean and gutted and croaky and full of vermin and half the ceilings down.

Think of a whole country run as a trust, with employment at more than a fair turn for every able-bodied man, and fat dividends for everybody in good years! In such a state by force of public opinion even a Bryan might be made useful. Even in Utopia there are offices which have to be swept out.

If there is salvation ahead of us, instead of ruin, something of this sort will have to be worked out from what is left to us of our natural resources. And falling this there of us, who are rich women and content enough as individuals will be pulled down from our high places and trampled by an unreasoning mob until there is no longer anything stable nor anyone contented. The air of this great city which we breathe is 30 per cent air and 90 per cent revolution. In other parts of the country the percentage of revolution is greater.

The only man with sufficient mind and power to effect anything good is yourself. But if you personally were to preach the gospel of efficiency people would think you were working to put it bluntly, for your own pocket. This gospel then ostensibly must not come from you. It must not come from the rich. From whom then? From the poor, you answer. But alas, my friend, even the champions of the poor are open to suspicion.

This gospel then must come from where? Why, from heaven, of course, whence all good gospels have come, or are generally believed to have come. And, seeing that we are in America, where the women are given the best of everything, our heaven-sent messenger must be a woman.

I see your gesture of horror. But she shall not be as you see her. She shall be young and beautiful and good and sincere. She shall not speak her thoughts, but cure. The masses will believe in her. The classes may, and if they don't they will have sense enough to pretend to.

With you to help, I believe, upon my word of honor, that I can make this thing happen. Will you help? What do you think?

Yours as ever,

MILES STILLITER.

To this letter Professor Stilliter received the following answer by return messenger:

Dear Stilliter:

I'll help if you can answer one thing satisfactorily. To be a successful gospelist the woman, as you intimate, must be sincere. She must believe what she preaches. If she is sincere, how can she tell people that she comes from heaven? You say she must come from heaven in order to believe. It is quite a dilemma. I know that you have been thinking and experimenting for years toward some such end as this. But I am a business man, and I have to be shown.

Yours with sincere interest,

Professor Stilliter answered to this:

Dear Barclay:

She only has to believe that she comes from heaven. If she can be made to believe that, are you satisfied?

That night the two men met by appointment. Outlining his plan, and occasionally going into detail, Professor Stilliter talked rapidly for almost two hours without stopping, till the sweat stood on his brow and his voice began to fall him. He finished with these words: "And for a few of us, as a mere side issue, there's billions in it."

Gordon Barclay remained for a long time in profound thought.

"There is, as you say," he said at last, "billions in it. Yet if I were sure that we could make it happen, really make everybody contented and not poor, I'd be content to give up everything I have already, and I could die happy."

"So would I," exclaimed Stilliter hurriedly. "But I'd rather make the world happier and myself with it. Wouldn't you?"

Barclay shook his heavy shoulders, lifted his lonesome head and smiled. "Of course," he said, "I was dreaming. I believe the thing can be done. And without any sacrifice whatever other animal or material."

"It will take a long time."
"I understand that. You have to teach her almost from the beginning."
"I don't teach her exactly. I make her believe."
"Have you a child in view?"
"Now that you're with me, I shall soon find one."

"What are the chances against us?"
"Only these. That before we bring her to earth to preach our gospel you are dead, or I am, or the revolution has already come, and borne a different and better fruit for us all."

Professor Miles Stilliter was never idle, except when he was asleep. On a certain morning in the spring of 1900 Professor Stilliter, having mislaid his glasses, was unable to tell what time it was, though he held his watch as near to his eyeball as he could without touching it. It was, however, his usual time for beginning the day, for at that moment his valet brought in the morning papers.

The following headline in a New York newspaper almost immediately caught his eye, and put an end to any further search for news:

"TRAGIC END OF A EUGENIC ROMANCE."

"Brilliant John Amesbury, Who Married One of America's Greatest Beauties, Killed by a Trolley Car—Widow, Prostrated by News, Not Expected to Recover."

A cut of a handsome young man and a beautiful young woman lent to this unusual item of news a tinge of real tragedy.

Professor Stilliter was out of bed in a twinkling of an eye.

The late John Amesbury's house was at Scarsdale. On the morning in which this narrative opens a number of village boys were pulling off a dog fight in the quiet country road that bordered the narrow front lawn. Tommy Steele, aged twelve, hearing this racket from afar and full of the tragedy which had overtaken the kind and friendly people in the big house, came up on a dead run. His efforts to interfere with the sport and to secure peace and quiet for the sick woman in the house were not met with approval, and indeed for a moment it looked as if the noise of the dog fight was going to be swelled by the noise of a boy fight, a dozen to one. Fortunately for Tommy, the door of the house opened, and a trained nurse, with a long face and a domineering eye, came running down the front walk with an expression so ominous and formidable that, without a word spoken, the dogs were dragged apart and the boys made off at high speed. Something in Tommy's face attracted the nurse's attention. She was far kinder than she looked.

"Do you want anything?" she said. "The papers said," said Tommy, "that Mrs. Amesbury wouldn't get well." He said no more, but his whole attitude and expression was a poignant question. The nurse laid her hand suddenly on his brown head, patted clumsily, shook her own head just the veriest trifle and hurried back to the house.

A shadow fell upon Tommy, and he found himself looking into the immense, thick-rimmed glasses of Professor Stilliter. Intuitively the boy and the man disliked each other. Professor Stilliter would have rather asked almost any other small boy if that was the Amesbury house. Tommy would have preferred to tell almost any other man that it was. Professor Stilliter, his question answered, moved energetically upon the house, and from the maid who answered the bell inquired for the latest bulletin of Mrs. Amesbury. He stepped forward as if to enter the house, and the servant made the least show in the world of shutting the door in his face. Professor Stilliter turned reluctantly away and heard the closing of the door.

At that moment a buggy, driven furiously, stopped at the front gate, and, thanks to his glasses, which gave him his eyes an almost hawklike vision, Professor Stilliter recognized Doctor Walwright, an old acquaintance, if not a friend.

"Glad to see you," said Professor Stilliter. "Are you in charge here?"

"Yes," said Doctor Walwright. "Then you can help me, and nobody else can. I never knew Amesbury. I don't know his wife, but as a eugenist I was immensely interested in their marriage, and I have a deep scientific interest in seeing the daughter. Now at such a time as this I could not very well force myself upon the household, but if you could slip me in with you as a consulting physician I will be immensely obliged to you, and there will be no talk of splitting fees."

Doctor Walwright smiled and nodded.

The object of Professor Stilliter's interest was not hard to find. She was seated, forlorn and disconsolate, upon the bottom step of the front stair. Doctor Walwright picked her up in his arms and kissed her. He made her shake hands with Professor Stilliter.

Professor Stilliter could not conceal the fact that the child's appearance delighted him, and that his appearance did not furnish her with the same delight affected him no more than a duck's back is affected by water. She had been too well brought up, and carried her three or four years with too much dignity to run from him and hide, as her instincts prompted her. She did not resist when he lifted her from the floor, asked her age and said, "My, how heavy she was!" She winced a little and flinched a little when he prodded her arms and chest and felt with evident admiration the firm and chubby calves of her legs, and when he made her open her mouth and looked in and murmured, "Colossal."

But when he asked wouldn't she show him the pretty house in which she lived, she did so gladly, for it seemed to put an end to being handled.

For his immediate purpose Professor Stilliter did not need to penetrate beyond the cheerful living room, for here his eyes at once singled out from many three photographs, in which justice had pretty nearly been done, not only to his small companion, but to her father and her mother.

She Never Recalled the Long Drive Into the Woods.

"What is that funny thing on the piano?" asked Professor Stilliter. The little girl looked in the direction indicated, and told him that it was a Chinese "ephelet."

During the moment in which he had succeeded in diverting her attention the young man had slipped the three photographs in their folded leather frame into one of his capacious pockets. His mission in the house finished, he asked her if she would give him a kiss. This was a thing which, it seemed to her she could neither accord nor refuse. She simply burst into tears. The professor shrugged his great shoulders, grunted like a pig and abruptly took his departure.

Still weeping, the little girl found her way to a piazza that opened off the living room and a few moments later Tommy Steele, still lingering about the premises, traced the infantile wails to their source. The sight of his sympathetic face above the veranda railing, across which he had thrown one leg, started tears again, for he was her best friend in the world, and she wished to tell him all about the wicked man with the black-rimmed spectacles. Tommy took her on his knee and listened and gave comfort. Presently he took from his pocket a little rag doll, and, very shyly, for now that he looked at it again, it seemed a poor gift, he offered it to her.

CHAPTER II.

There was silence in the room, at once so rich and repressed in its moldings and furnishings, where Gordon Barclay received and gave orders to such of his fellow millionaires as were in his confidence.

Semmes and Sturtevant, of all men deepest in his confidence, were strangely moved. The great man for once had not been dealing with facts, but with fancies. Very quietly and earnestly he had been painting for them that terrific future to which, as he saw it, the restless forces of the world were driving.

It may have been that the presence of Professor Stilliter in the room had a kind of hypnotic effect upon the two men. He stood in shadow against the wainscoting, and his eyes never left the back of their heads.

At first Barclay showed them some of the achievements of capital—steamers too great to be tossed by the waves, interminable freight trains creeping over high trestles, squares miles of corrugated iron roofs, the chimneys belching black smoke; streets as bright at midnight as at noon, and as crowded.

And then he showed them some of the failures of capital—men and women starving in hundreds, rotting of disease or perishing of sheer disappointment and despair. Bread lines, soup kitchens he showed them; roofless men dying of exposure. And then in swift flashes he showed them, standing upon a soap box at the corner of a slum, a man in tattered rags, with the forehead of the first Napoleon and the lion-roar voice of Mirabeau—a man who spoke to the wretched and the unfortunate, and the idle and the mischievous, and filled their hearts with fire and passion and hate.

He showed those same men, armed with guns, with poles, with machetes with hammers, stopping a limousine on Fifth avenue, dragging out an old man in a fur-lined coat and hanging him, more dead than alive, to the nearest lamppost. He showed them that same crowd, ever growing in numbers and anger, tearing a policeman to pieces; he showed them banks and other strongholds of capital that rose suddenly heavenward in puffs of soot-smelling gray smoke, and were—

And he showed them themselves fleeing by night, in disguise, a price upon them, dead or alive; and he showed them Napoleon-Mirabeau bringing order out of chaos, and preparing to hold what he had taken, now begging, now commanding, now wheeling, now killing, and then he showed them battles and leaping cannon—and at last a white flag raised over a fortress, and themselves personally, all three, in the uniform of generals, led forth blindfolded and bound and stood with their backs against a whitewashed wall.

Finally Sturtevant looked his friend and master in the face and said: "Well, what's the answer?"

"I think," said Barclay, "that I have devised a remedy which shall serve as all Mr. Stilliter."

As Professor Stilliter advanced Mr. Barclay said to the others: "The world's greatest psychologist."

"You do not have to tell us that," said Semmes, and they bowed to the professor.

"Well," said Barclay, "let's have a look at her."

"But," said Sturtevant, "what is the remedy?"

For answer Barclay simply touched the photograph of the little Amesbury girl with the tip of his finger.

"She is the answer," he said, "but, by the way, Stilliter, what do you hear of the mother?"

Professor Stilliter shrugged his shoulders very slightly.

"Dead?"

"Dying."

Barclay was not unmoved. "She thinks," he said, "that she is only dying of grief. As a matter of fact, she is taking a great place in the march of events."

"What are the child's habits?"

"She has a nap," said Professor Stilliter, "from 10 to 10:30, and from 3 to 3:30. At other times she is mostly out of doors with her nurse. There is a wood back of the house, in which she has a playhouse, a seesaw, etc. If you wished to see her it would be a simple matter, but I am ready to stake my reputation on her. She is absolutely cut to our plan."

"Which," said Semmes, "is so far a complete mystery to Sturtevant and myself."

CHAPTER III.

In spite of Professor Stilliter's guaranty, the triumvirate, as they were both popularly and unpopularly called, determined to have a look at the little Amesbury girl for themselves. Tugged out in Indian dress so that she resembled the ornamental side of a cent, they found the object of their search.

"Well," he said brusquely, "am I right? Is she the finest child you ever saw, or isn't she? Just see the breadth of her skull above the ears."

He would have touched her, but she shrank from him. When Barclay, however, spoke to her she showed neither fear nor aversion, only a pleasant shyness.

"I have never seen you before," he said, "but I am very fond of little girls, and since I have none of my own I do not propose to lose sight of you in a hurry."

The little Amesbury girl was of an age when most impressions do not long survive. She would neither remember her father nor her mother nor her nurse, nor her Indian dress, nor the playhouse, nor the seesaw in the woods; but always she had a vague recollection of three great and important personages, who treated her as if she were more important than they were, and who on parting from her bowed over her chubby, dimpled hand and kissed it for all the world as if she had been a princess. It wasn't exactly a recollection, either, for she did not remember their faces nor how they came into her life, nor how they departed. It was more like a dream, only fragments of which here and there survive in the waker's mind. It wasn't altogether a pleasant dream.

There mingled with it a certain something of the essence of a nightmare. Whether it was another man in the background or some monstrous beast with extraordinarily large black rims eyes she did not know.

It is curious that she should remember a little of all this and nothing of that message which came presently from the house—a message brought by one servant to another and crudely blurted forth in the hearing of a child.

"Come quick, Mary, and bring the baby; the missus is dead." She does not remember running to the house between two women, dragged by the hand, and if she did it is most likely that she should remember only the novelty of the swift locomotion, and not the reason that called for it.

The little Amesbury girl continued to live on in her father's house. The law said she might until things were straightened out. There were no relatives to interfere.

But it was a strange life. There was no longer any discipline in the house; even the trained nurse had to go. The servants began to neglect their work and to amuse themselves.

But being neglected by nurse had its advantages, for Tommy Steele came every day to play with her, and often many times in one day. He was a much better nurse than nurse was. He took good care of one all the time, and she loved him with all her heart. Once nurse told them that they could play hide and seek in the wood if they would be very good and not get lost or wet or let rotten trees fall on them or wasp sting them. And that was a morning to be remembered in many ways. Tommy Steele was always "it."

At first she would hide behind the nearest tree and make a great deal of noise and peek out to see if Tommy was hunting for her or not. But gradually she learned to keep mum, and to tuck herself into very small places, or to move quietly or to keep mousy still.

Gradually she hid with more and more boldness, running quite long distances before she called "cuckoo," and the last time she went to hide she ran a long way, and just when she had dodged behind a big white oak and was going to call "cuckoo," she found herself looking into the great, round, black-rimmed glasses of Professor Stilliter. Before she could scream he had seized her around the waist with his left arm and had muzzled her with his right hand. Then he picked her up and started to run. As the hand over her mouth prevented her screaming, she simply opened her mouth and bit it.

In his rage and pain Professor Stilliter almost dropped her. He snatched his bitten hand from her mouth, and she began to scream at the top of her lungs, to struggle and kick and to make herself limp between times. And once she twisted clean away from the arm that had her round the waist. Still she was only a little child, and Tommy Steele saved her. He came out upon them in a shower of broken twigs, hatless and bleeding from an altercation with a greenbrier. Professor Stilliter did not at once realize that he was only being attacked by a small boy. He let go of the little girl completely, then tried to catch her, as he realized the caliber of his assailant, in so doing, his attention momentarily diverted, received a savage kick on the ankle bone and something like twenty-five blows upon the head and face. During this assault Professor Stilliter's glasses were knocked from his nose.

It was as if, for his sins, some supernatural power had struck him stone-blind.

CHAPTER IV.

That night about twelve o'clock nurse's bed in the little Amesbury girl's room was empty. The house was in darkness, except for the kitchen. From this came sounds of revelry and of a talking machine. The little Amesbury girl dreamed that a man with immense, black-rimmed eyes was bending over her and she waked with a scream.

For once in her life she had dreamed true, for Professor Stilliter was bending over her, and the fingers of his left hand were clasped almost chokingly about her baby throat. In his right hand he held before her eyes a lump of rock crystal the size and shape of a hen's egg. The crystal appeared to exercise an instant fascination upon her. She forgot that she was afraid and that she wanted to scream for help. She even forgot the presence of Professor Stilliter. She thought, indeed, that she was all alone and that somebody had opened a door through which she was at liberty to look into fairyland.

Very far away she heard a voice that said, very quietly, "Now you can't scream."

Of course she tried to, and found that she couldn't.

"And now," said the voice, "you can't do anything unless I tell you to. Get up." She slipped obediently out of bed.

"Dress yourself," said the voice. For the first time in her baby life the little Amesbury girl dressed herself. She even tied her own hair ribbon in a presentable bowknot and buttoned her own tiny boots.

"Now, give me your hand," he said, "and don't make any noise." He led her downstairs and out into the night.

She never afterward recalled anything of the journey to the north woods which she made with Professor Stilliter. The long automobile ride, the Montreal express held up between stations, the long drive into the woods, and, after that, when they had come to the end of the road, the long, toil-some up-and-down-hill tramp, through which she rode first on the shoulders of one man and then on the shoulders of another, until the party came to a wild spot at the foot of the cliff. Here, in the warm spring sunshine on ledges of rock, a number of drowsy rattlesnakes were coiled in a horrid mass. She does not remember that here, as if waiting for her, were three men who wore black masks over their faces.

When the men who had brought her to the foot of the cliff had gone, with the exception of Professor Stilliter, the three masked men removed their masks. So that when Professor Stilliter litter, withdrawn a little so that she should not see him first of all and be frightened, told her to wake up, she looked into the friendly faces of Barclay, Semmes and Sturtevant. Barclay advanced with great ceremony, dropped on one knee before her and kissed her hand for all the world as if she had been a princess. Then Sturtevant came forward and did likewise, and then Semmes.

The Child's Appearance Delighted Him.

Although Professor Stilliter had told her to wake up, the spell of the crystal was still upon her like drowsiness after sleep. To reduce her once more to a complete state of hypnosis it was only necessary for him to say quietly, "Go to sleep again."

What looked like a portion of solid cliff rose suddenly, without any sound, and disclosed a black passage that appeared to lead to the bowels of the earth. In the mouth of this passage way stood a handsome woman, a little under middle age. There was a diamond star in her dark hair, and she wore a white garment that fell from her shoulders in stately folds like those of a Roman toga. She came forward, caught the little Amesbury girl up lovingly in her arms, turned, and, without a word, walked back into the passage way and disappeared. For a long time the sound of her sandals feet upon the rocky floor could be heard. Then the moving portion of the cliff slid slowly and noiselessly back into place, and the four men who remained without turned somewhat slowly to each other.

Barclay was the first to break the silence. "Gentlemen," he said, "fifteen years from today she will leave that cavern and bring the world to heel—and to ours."

FOREIGNER KILLED BY LAKE ERIE TRAIN

Body is Found Block South of West Main Street Crossing.

Fabrics Tereznick, a foreigner, about forty years old, was killed by a train on the Lake Erie and Western railroad Tuesday night, his body being found about 10:45 o'clock by A. Derr, a switchman.

The head and right arm were severed and practically every bone in his body was broken. He was identified by a letter which he had in his pocket mailed from Budapest. A pocketbook containing $28 and several packages of tobacco were also found on him.

The body lay about a block south of the West Main street crossing. The switch engine had a car of stock to load at the Eckart packing plant and had pulled into a siding. When Derr jumped from the car on which he was riding, he stumbled over Tereznick's body. It is not known whether he was killed by the switch engine or a passenger train. No blood was found on the switch engine and as there were no other trains besides the passenger, Conductor Edward Kruse is of the opinion that he was struck by the passenger train.

After investigating the case Coroner Kruse ordered the body taken to Schone & Ankenbruck's undertaking parlors. The switch engine was in charge of Conductor C. O. Worton, Switchmen Derr and R. R. Travis, Engineer E. E. Morrison and Fireman G. W. Yutt.

DEATH COMES TO WEALTHY BREWER

Jacob Ruppert, Dead in New York, Was Many Times Millionaire.

New York, May 26.—Jacob Ruppert, one of the most widely known brewers of this country, and founder of the Jacob Ruppert Brewing company, died in his home here early today. He was 74 years old. As a boy of ten years Mr. Ruppert began his career as a brewer in the employment of his father, Franz Ruppert, in this city. Later he started his own brewery in a building hardly fifty feet square, with no machinery. His establishment now has an annual capacity of 25,000,000 barrels. It contains four of the largest brew kettles ever built up to the time of its construction, each of which is composed of 200,000 pounds of copper, and has a capacity of 25,000 gallons.

In addition to the brewery property Mr. Ruppert's realty holdings in and about this city are estimated to amount to several million dollars.

SELLS HER HAIR TO GET FOOD ON TRAMP

Minneapolis, Minn., May 26.—Walking more than 400 miles, from Chicago to this city, carrying a heavy pack on her back and leading her husband, who is affected with tuberculosis, Mrs. Claude W. Deane, 24 years old, cut off her hair and sold it when the pair were stranded. From the sale of the hair she obtained $1.00 to buy food for her husband and herself. Finally she obtained employment as maid in the home of F. H. Meyer and her husband was given work as gardener.

Yesterday Mr. Meyer had the two arrested following the disappearance of five rings and some clothing from the Meyer home, but after thinking over all that the woman had gone through and the sad plight of the man he refused to prosecute.

Sheriff Langum said an effort would be made to have the Associated charities obtain transportation for the couple to Colorado or some other mountain state.

POLICEMEN WEAR EVENING CLOTHES

Don Glad Attire to Make Rounds of New York Cabarets.

New York, May 26.—Squads of policemen, attired in evening clothes are making nightly rounds of the cabarets, restaurants and dancing parlors, it was learned today, in the course of a police investigation as to the conduct of these places.

The inquiry is the result of allegations made by a woman who recently caused the arrest of her daughter, an heiress, on the ground of waywardness due, she asserted, to associations formed in the cabarets. Under the direction of Police Commissioner Woods the squads of investigators are visiting the most widely known dancing places in which it is known as the "upper tier." The commissioner was quoted as saying that if the conditions proved as serious as alleged an effort would be made to close the objectionable places, but he added that he believed Broadway is better now than it has been for some time.

SUBMARINE F-4 IS VERY NEAR SURFACE

Honolulu, May 27.—The use of air to lighten the submarine F-4 in the final effort to drag the disabled war vessel to the drydock probably will be resorted to it was said today. Work of raising the submarine, which contains the bodies of the crew who lost their lives when the F-4 went to the bottom more than two months ago, was halted temporarily yesterday by a heavy swell which parted two of the lines attached to the bulk. A scow will be brought alongside the submarine when it is raised to receive the bodies of the crew. Orders have been issued excluding the public from the scene when the bodies are removed. The F-4 has now been dragged within 250 yards of the harbor entrance and lies only forty feet below the surface.

C. L. TITUS' SUCCESSOR.

A. C. Showalter, agent at Buffalo Junction, has been appointed assistant superintendent of the Buffalo division of the Nickel Plate, with headquarters at Conneaut, succeeding C. L. Titus. The latter is preparing to move to Buffalo. He will be a passenger conductor running in and out of that city.

J. A. Oswald, of the Oswald Jewelry store, will be one of the speakers at the annual convention of the Indiana Retail Jewelers' association to be held at Indianapolis, June 23 and 24.

BAN ON BENZOATE OF SODA IS LIFTED

Food Containing It May Be Sold if Properly Labelled.

Indianapolis, May 26.—Grocers and food inspectors of the state received from Dr. H. E. Barnard, state food and drug commissioner, notice today that hereafter no objection will be made to the sale in interstate commerce, "in the original unbroken package, of food which is prepared with sodium benzoate or sulphur dioxide, provided that each package of such food is plainly labelled to show the presence and amount of the preservative."

Included in the notice is the copy of a recent order of the state board of health which instructs the state food and drug commissioner to follow, without exception, the regulations for the enforcement of the food and drug act promulgated by the federal authorities and which refers especially to "chapter 104, acts of 1907," states that "it having been determined that benzoate of soda mixed with food is not deleterious or poisonous and is not injurious to health" such food may be offered for sale in the original and unbroken package, if the presence and amount of the preservative is indicated on the label.

MUST DECLARE BAGGAGE VALUE

New York, May 26.—Eastern railroads are planning to put into effect on June 3 a requirement that travelers declare the value of their baggage when they check it on railway tickets. Railroad officials assert that such action is made necessary by the Cummins act amending the interstate commerce laws under which all shippers of goods must declare the value of their shipments. The railroads will assume liability for loss of baggage or damage up to $100, but will charge ten cents for each $100 above that amount—the rate fixed by the interstate commerce commission. The making of a false declaration of value is a misdemeanor under the law.

MARION DRY BY 729 PLYMOUTH WET BY 6

Marion, Ind., May 26.—By a majority of 729 in the local option election yesterday Marion voted to remain "dry." Two years ago the majority was 123. Marion has been without saloons for six years.

Plymouth, Ind., May 26.—By a majority of 6 votes the "wets" carried the local option election here yesterday.

Albion, Ind., May 26.—Albion township returned a "dry" majority of 47 at the local option election. Albion has been "dry" for eight years, the majority two years ago having been 52.

Lafayette, Ind., May 26.—This, Swan township, remains dry by a majority of 141 as a result of the local option election.

NEW GIFT TO BOEHNE CAMP.

Evansville, Ind., May 26.—The employment of an intern to remain constantly at the Boehne tuberculosis camp near the city and the beautification of the grounds are made possible by a new gift of $12,500 to the camp by John W. Boehne, former congressman, the founder of the camp.

Mr. Boehne previously had given $10,000 to the camp. The gift of $12,500 is in securities which will draw interest at the rate of $1,500 a year. The City National bank has agreed to act as trustee for the fund without compensation.

To Motorists: This Master-Plant

offers every known efficient method and facility for the manufacturing of perfect lubricants. Its recommendation is Polarine for all standard makes and types of cars.

In using the product of this plant in your motor you get the benefit of the lubricating experience of Standard oil experts. And no body of men represents more knowledge in this line.

Their prestige and the prestige of this company are at stake on the recommendations they make.

Polarine

"Standard Oil" science, experience and facilities have eliminated the faults of poor motor oils. Thus thousands of motors which were once troublesome and expensive have been made smooth in operation and economical in upkeep.

Polarine maintains the correct lubricating body at any motor speed or temperature.

In seven years the demand for it in the Middle West alone has increased from 1,100 gallons to nearly 7,000,000!

Why experiment longer, when you can get Polarine? Polarine is dependable. It is on sale everywhere at less price than asked for oils that fall short of Polarine in efficiency.

OSCAR AND ADOLPH AN OVERSIGHT ON THE CULINARY DEPARTMENT. AT THEIR GAY PRANKS

WHEN HE LOST HIS JOB RUNNING UNCLE SAM'S POSTOFFICE HE STARTED ONE OF HIS OWN.

You can't down him! J. W. Brady in front of the private postoffice he started in Oiltown, Okla., when he lost his job as United States postmaster in Haskell.

Jennings, Okla., May 26.—Found! The world's greatest optimist!

He is J. W. Brady, "perpetual postmaster." Once of Haskell, but now of Oiltown, Okla. People who know him and those who know of him say he's the original obstacle overcomer and living proof of "Where there's a will, there's a way."

Brady likes the job of being postmaster. In fact, he likes it so well he won't stop being postmaster. Won't stop for anyone, not even Uncle Sam.

For seven happy years J. W. Brady was postmaster at Haskell. Big fellow is Brady. Big, bulky and beaming, that describes him. Always cheerful. Always handed out a smile with the mail. Then he lost his job—but not his smile. Friends saw the latter, broad as ever, when they came to condole with him, for it was known that Brady's finances were mighty limited.

"Don't worry about me. I haven't quit being postmaster by a long shot. Just watch me. I'm going to have a postoffice of my own," laughed Brady.

The fixtures in the Haskell postoffice belonged to Brady. What did he do? Simply loaded them on a truck and hauled them over to Oiltown, a few miles away. Oiltown is a live town in a flourishing oil district, but Oiltown had been overlooked when Uncle Sam was distributing postoffices. Residents had been going to Jennings, seven miles away, for their daily mail.

"Won't have to any more," said Brady. "Watch me!"

He rented a little frame building, installed his postoffice fixtures and then put up this inscription:

POSTOFFICE.

J. W. Brady, Proprietor. Now Brady goes to Jennings daily and gets the mail for Oiltown folk. He charges 15 cts. a week for daily box rent in his postoffice, 10 cents additional for handling each individual's mail and 25 cents for delivering a parcel post package and 5 cents for two two-cent stamps.

If a person rents a box he must pay the 15 cents per week in advance and in addition he must pay 10 cents a week to get his mail.

Is business good? Well, Brady has 300 boxes and they are all rented. In addition he operates a hack line between Oiltown and Jennings.

Some day Uncle Sam will come along and start a postoffice of his own at Oiltown. That will put Brady out of business.

But Brady's the world's greatest optimist, so he's not worrying about that just now.

PLAYED MAN; SAYS IT WAS A PICNIC

Miss Martin Shaved, Smoked, Did Man's Work and Drew Man's Pay.

Sacramento, Cal., May 26.—"Say, if you think it isn't some picnic posing as a man, you want to try it!" said Bessie Martini, twenty-four years old. "I sure had some fun out of the game."

Bessie was arrested at her room here by Corporal Pendergast and Patrolman Malone while in a disturbance with two other girls. At the time of her arrest she was not dressed in her male attire, and she is at a loss to know who "squealed" on her. She was masquerading under the name of E. W. Campbell. For some little time now Miss Martini has been running a laundrette on the Sacramento river, drawing a man's wages for her labor. Before that she was clearing land on the river sloughs. Strange to say, none of her companions knew that she was a woman.

"I kept that shady all right," she said, "for $2.50 and $3 a day looked good to me. I have worked all my life and for nothing else but work. It was a whole lot better to do that than to wander around the streets here in town and get arrested for vagrancy."

"I didn't like the kind of life some girls lead in a city. I want to make an honest living. It is pretty hard, I know, for a girl who has once got down. Everybody wants to give her a kick and send her down farther. A girl who lives a dishonest life gets nothing for her work, anyway."

"I saw a chance to go to work if I could only make people think that I was a man. I don't know how the idea struck me, but I knew that I was strong enough to do a man's work. So I bought a suit of clothes and had my hair cut off. I even shaved, and say, I don't look so bad, do you think?"

A rosy, healthy color is in her cheeks the result of sunshine and fresh air. "I don't like the city," she continued. "I want to get work on a ranch. Yes, I would rather take a woman's employment if I could get it. I can cook and I can milk cows. I am not afraid of work. We have known each other all our lives—hard work and I."

"You can tell from the looks of my hands that I have been hard at it," and she displayed a pair of sturdy hands that were as brown as berries and the callouses on them were pointed out with pride.

"Before I came to Sacramento I lived in Santa Rosa, Cal. I worked in the hop fields and did anything that I could. I am sure that I am willing to work and I don't see why people won't let me. It is a whole lot better than being a bum. I don't like being in jail."

Bessie felt a certain pride in her impersonation of "E. W. Campbell," and laughed at some of the reminiscences, especially when she told how she tried to cover up her feminine ways. Three weeks in a camp full of men, talking, acting, smoking and shaving like the rest of them—and they didn't know the difference.

On account of the girl not having been clad in male attire when arrested, she was allowed to go free.

NO PRETENSE.

"You don't seem to take our engagement seriously." "Of course not. If I had I would not have engaged myself to you."

THE LAFAYETTE PLACE DAILY BULLETIN

Lafayette Place Lots Will Make Money for the Purchasers.

Lafayette Place, Wednesday Evening, May 26.

EDITORIAL.

The manner in which the improvements are to be made in Lafayette Place has been the occasion of much favorable comment. These improvements will be made within four years, as the Lafayette Place company feels that by not making them until the addition is fully developed that the lot owners will be saved the depreciation which would otherwise come. When the improvements are made the company has arranged matters so that the lot owners may contract to pay the improvements which are assessed against them on the installment plan. In this way the improvement assessments will not prove to be a burden to anyone. It is figured that this method of putting in the improvements in the addition will save the lot owners at least $125 per lot, as it is figured that the improvements would depreciate one-fourth before the full development of the addition as a residence district. As has been said, this method of putting in the improvements at Lafayette Place has met with the entire approval of all those persons who have purchased lots and who have thoroughly investigated the proposition from all angles. It is a new method for Fort Wayne, but has been tried in many other cities and has proved successful in every city where it has been tried.

PRESIDENT

Of Lafayette Place Company Has Unique Experience.

"I sure did have a rather unique experience the other day," said R. Parker Smith, president of the Lafayette Place Company. "Some of my friends wanted to reserve some of the lots in Lafayette Place for some time. I told them that of course I'd reserve 'em for them and as notified the board of directors in its office in the Wildwood Builders Company. The notices of reservation were posted and the lots were then taken from the sale. When the next day came around my friends were not yet quite ready to sign up so I thought nothing more of the matter, thinking that the lots would still be reserved. When I got up to the office I found that the lots had again been placed on sale and then I remembered that we had made an ironclad rule that lots can be held on reservation for only twenty-four hours. The fact that I am the president of the Lafayette Place Company made no difference. When the time limit on the reservations expired, the lots were again put on sale. That is the way it should be. There is no favoritism in this proposition. It is a straight out-and-out business matter and I was might glad to see it enforced. We point none of the reservations as sales. A lot is only counted as sold when the first payment has been made on the lot and the receipt issued for it. Consequently when we say that over 200 lots in Lafayette Place have been sold we mean just that. First payments have been made on over 200 lots and the receipts issued to the purchasers for these first payments." Since Wednesday noon all reservations have been cut out.

WHO IS COUNTY'S CHAMPION HORSESHOE PITCHER?
Who is Allen county's champion pitcher of horseshoes?
Does he reside in Cedar Creek township, Marion, St. Joe or in Fort Wayne? This is a question that, it is expected, will be solved on Farmers' Day at Lafayette Place when the best pitchers of horseshoes in the county will have a horseshoe-pitching contest. All the best ones in the county, and all those who think they are the best, have been invited to participate in the contest. Already a number of experts at the game have signified their intention of being present for the event. A special section of Lafayette Place is being reserved for the horseshoe players. It is certain that the contests will attract a lot of attention, so arrangements are being made for the accommodation, on the side lines, of large numbers of spectators. As every expert at the game has his own favorite set of horseshoes, just as every bowler has his own favorite ball, the participants in the contest are all requested to bring their own horseshoes. By doing this a battle royal will be assured among the contestants.

This will be the first opportunity many of the city people have ever had of seeing a bunch of absolute experts show them tricks of the game. Therefore this portion of the day's doings should prove of great interest to many of the Fort Wayne folks.

PRICES GOING UP.

Lafayette Place Lots to Be Increased in Price June 1st.

It will never again be possible to purchase lots in Lafayette Place as cheaply as is now the case. On the first of June the price of lots in the addition will be $25 higher than at the present time. The announcement of the increase in the price of lots was made today by the Lafayette Place Company.

COUNTY FAIRS

Will Have Nothing on Farmers' Day at Lafayette Place.

A county fair free of charge, a carnival without the price of admission, a festival and gala day with nothing to pay for except refreshments, and with everybody working to make you have a good time—that is what Farmers' day will be at Lafayette Place next Saturday. All sorts of suggestions have been made to the committee in charge of the entertainment for the event as to what forms of entertainment would be enjoyable. For instance several people have suggested that outdoor bowling games would be great stuff. The committee is considering the question of adopting this suggestion. A wheelbarrow contest has also been suggested. This has met with the approval of Dr. Gillo, who is in charge of the men's sports, contests and games for the day, and will probably be adopted. Base ball, throw-devil, and nail driving contests for men and women and a button sewing contest for the women are among the other unique forms of entertainment provided for the visitors to Lafayette Place next Saturday. Much interest is being taken by the children of the city in the announcement that whoever picks up a toy balloon bearing the inscription "Lafayette Place," will be awarded a prize when he brings the balloon to the addition on Saturday. The balloons will be released from the top of the Shoaff building on Thursday and Friday afternoons by Charles A. Phelps, who is in charge of the contests for the children. These balloons will probably stay up some hours. It will be interesting to see how far they drift from Fort Wayne before coming to earth.

Lafayette Place Local Items.

"I'm proud of the fact that I won the hat offered to the man selling the two hundredth lot in Lafayette Place," declared L. L. Bart. Charles A. Phelps, who has charge of the children's events at Lafayette Place next Saturday, recalls the fact that for many years the camp of his newboys was located just a short distance from Lafayette Place. "So you see," said Mr. Phelps, "I am right at home helping the youngsters have a good time in that part of the city."

Farmers' day will be a regular old-fashioned picnic time Saturday. Lafayette Place agents are calling the attention of all prospective purchasers of lots to the fact that on the first of June the prices of all the unsold lots in the addition will be raised $25 apiece. Frank B. Taylor is one of the purchasers of more than one lot in the addition. He has secured three of the lots. "I have watched the growth of the south side with great interest," said Mr. Taylor, "and I am convinced that Lafayette Place lots are a mighty good buy. That is why I have bought three of the lots for investment purposes only."

The down town band concert Saturday morning will be at the court house square at 9 o'clock. The Elks' band has been engaged for the occasion. The big automobile parade in which at least 50 cars will participate, will start promptly at 9:30 o'clock. It is expected that the marshal and his aides will be on horseback.

THE NE WHIGH SCHOOL NEAR.

The city's new high school will be erected within a few blocks of Lafayette Place. This fact is appealing to many purchasers who have growing children.

BARRELS OF FREE LEMONADE.

Visitors on Farmers' Day Will Get Free Lemonade.

Last Sunday it was free peanuts for the children. This coming Saturday it will be free lemonade for all visitors to Lafayette Place. Two barrels of real lemonade, not the pale pink circus variety of insipid beverage, have been contracted for by the Lafayette Place Company and ladies and men will be on hand to ladle the thirst-quenching drink to all who call for it. It would astonish many people, not accustomed to figuring on the drink capacity of a huge crowd, to know how much lemonade will be used this coming Saturday. Anyhow the flock of lemons used in preparing the lemonade will be of some size. Also some considerable quantities of sugar will be used to sweeten the refreshing liquid and the quantity of water used in the foundation for the thirst destroyer will be well, when you see the crowd on Saturday, try to figure out for yourself just how much lemonade such a thirsty crowd will drink.

DOC GILLIE.

He Will Be in Charge of the Games on Farmers' Day.

Doc Gillie, the elongated dispenser of pills and powders to ailing quadrupeds, will be in charge of the games and contests for the men on Farmers' Day at Lafayette Place. Doc is a former college athlete who used to make 'em sit up and take notice when he was putting the shot and ambling over a hundred yards in ten seconds flat in his good old college days. The fact that he will be the chief executive in the matter of the games and contests for the men on Farmers' Day is indicative of the fact that there will be real class to the contests. He will be umpire and referee and judge, rolled into one, and will dispense the prizes with just impartiality. The prizes which have been hung up for the various events are of a character to appeal to all the contestants. They will aid in making the contests truly hotly contested affairs.

WHO GAINS

By the Constant Increase in Fort Wayne Property Values

The answer to that is easy, it's the man who buys the property when the price is low and who holds on to it until the increase comes. For instance, only last week a Calhoun street building was sold for $231,000 which was purchased for $161,000 five years ago. The man who purchased the building at the small figure was the gainer. Six years ago lots on Washington street were sold for $400. Today the same lots bring $1,200 to $1,500. The gainer is the man who purchased them for the small price and who has held on until the increase has come.

Who will dare to predict how high the lots in Lafayette Place will go in five, ten or fifteen years? Today they are selling for $200 to $750. A big increase in their value is as certain as the growth of Fort Wayne itself, because they lie squarely in the track of its growth. Who will gain when the lots jump up in value? It will be the man who buys today, at the present low prices, and holds on to his property.

THE CITY LIMITS.

Astonishing Growth Made by City in Twenty Years.

Fort Wayne citizens take great pride in the city's growth and like to boast of it, but there are probably comparatively few residents of the city who could tell, off-hand, just how great this growth has been. For instance, where were the city limits twenty years ago, as compared with today? Just to save interested persons the trouble of looking the matter up, here's the answer: Twenty years ago the city limits were almost half way between the court house and where they now are on the south side. In the last twenty years Lafayette has doubled its population. Three-fourths of this increase has been south of Creighton avenue. That is why values all over South Wayne are increasing at such amazing rapidity. And Lafayette Place is squarely in the track of the city's southward growth—on Calhoun street, Fort Wayne's main artery of traffic.

ELKS' BAND

Has Been Engaged to Render Music All Day Saturday.

Those persons who visit Lafayette Place on Farmers' Day, next Saturday, may rest assured of one thing—they will hear some mighty fine music. The Elks' band has been engaged by the Lafayette Place Company for the occasion and it will render the popular pieces of the day at intervals all day long.

PERSONAL ITEMS.

J. B. Mills holds second place among the sub-agents for the number of lots sold. Clint Willson and Charles A. Rastetter have been having a warm contest over third place in the list of general agents making the greatest number of sales.

A FINE PICNIC GROUND.

The wooded section of Lafayette Place forms a fine spot for picnics. It is expected that there will be a number of picnic parties at Lafayette Place on Farmers' Day, Saturday.

PURCHASERS TAKE A LOT OF LAND
Nearly forty acres of Lafayette Place have already been sold to purchasers of Lafayette Place lots.

COMMITTEES NAMED TO DECORATE GRAVES

Those in Charge of Flowers Will Depend Largely on Voluntary Donations.

Announcement of the committees to decorate the graves in the various cemeteries on Monday, May 31, and final plans for the observance of Memorial day was made Wednesday by the committee in charge.

Those named to decorate the graves in the cemeteries of the city and vicinity are as follows:

Concordia Lutheran—George Ehrman, C. F. Josse, W. S. Smith. St. John and Prairie Grove—Wm. Engle, Theodore Geller, Wm. Kerner, Jos. Corlett, Louis Zollinger, W. D. C. Kayser.

Catholic—S. S. Kelker, Dennis Monahan, M. Kramer, Wayne Monahan, Geo. Graffe, J. B. Ryan, C. Nohy.

Lindenwood—All members of the Spanish-American War veterans and the Sons of Veterans not otherwise assigned, together with the following comrades of the G. A. R.: Ake, Anderson, Blystone, Beaber, Bright, Corlett, Crouse, Fike, Gearin, Hayden, Kintz, Loth, Leeper, Mallott, Ogle, Otto, Sayner, Schrack, White, Voight, Kieckley, Hess, Edsall, Bidwell, Kress, Herring, Bundy, Curtis, Shuler, Williams, d'Isay, Brutt, Fairfield, Molett, Barrett, O'Hernan.

Committees for St. John's and Catholic cemeteries will leave from floral headquarters, 217 East Columbia street, at 6 o'clock a. m. and Lindenwood and Concordia committees at 6:30 a. m. It is hoped all members of committees will be on time, as it is desired to have a good delegation at the exercises.

Voluntary Donations.

As in other years the floral committee will depend largely on voluntary donations of flowers from the school children and the public in general. Headquarters will be established at 217 East Columbia street, where the flowers will be made into bouquets and wreaths. This work will be done by members of the Woman's Relief corps, both circles of the Ladies of the G. A. R., and such other patriotic women who will volunteer to assist.

The school children will bring their flowers to their respective schools, according to instructions. Those who will donate flowers are requested to deliver them at 217 East Columbia street Saturday, before noon, or notify C. F. Josse, who will have them called for. The ladies who will assist in the floral work are requested to report promptly at 1 p. m. at headquarters. It is hoped that many flowers will be donated for this purpose, and that every person will liberally give toward the good cause. Owing to the backward weather conditions flowers may be somewhat scarce and that is all the more reason that everyone should feel called upon to contribute all he can.

Memorial Sunday.

Patriotic services and memorial sermon by Dr. A. K. Zartman at Grace Reformed church Sunday morning, May 30.

The following organizations have been invited by the pastor and will attend in a body: Lawton, Wayne, post, Gion, S. Post, etc.

Sons of Veterans; Henry W. Lawton camp and Zollinger camp. Spanish-American War veterans; Co. D, I. N. G.; Woman's Relief corps; S. W. Stirk circle and Anthony circle, Ladies of the G. A. R. These societies will meet on East Berry street, at G. A. R. headquarters, in Lincoln life building, and leave promptly at 10 o'clock for the church, where seats will be reserved for them.

The exercises in the afternoon will be held at the Majestic theater, at which time Rev. C. Claud Travis, pastor of the Wayne street M. E. church, will deliver the address.

CLASS FUND FOR RELIEF IS PLANNED

Graduates of All Schools to Combine to Aid War Sufferers.

Boston, May 26.—The thousands of classes graduating from American schools and colleges this spring are to be given a chance to concentrate their help for starving children in both America and Europe in a "Class of 1915" fund.

The movement, recently undertaken by Dr. Charles Eliot, president emeritus of Harvard university, and a number of other eminent educators, to interest American school children in some helpful angles of the war, and which has been working under the title of "The Children of America's Fund," has taken up specifically the graduating classes of 1915 and issued an appeal to class presidents, which reads as follows:

"President of 1915": "Dear Sir—Over 6,000,000 little children are homeless and starving in this country and Europe.

"Twenty million American boys and girls in colleges and schools are forming into a great relief army, under the leadership of the 'Classes of 1915,' to help them. They love to live just as you do, but unless America gives them food they will die. Five cents' worth of food will give a starving child one day's life. The cost of your class memorial, class banquet or class dance will keep many children alive. Will your class join this nation-wide movement and give at least a part of your class fund this year to save their lives? "Your class is looked up to by all lower grades; they will gladly follow your lead, and help you make the 1915 class fund the largest in the history of your school. In this time of terrible need a gift of this kind will be a lasting memorial to the generosity of your class."

GERANIUMS AND PANSIES

FLOOR FINISHES

A Full Line at the D. & N. PHARMACY, the Reliable Cut Rate Drug Store at the Transfer Corner

Are the floors covered with old paint you'd like to remove? Then let us sell you a can of Electric Solvo. It's a Johnson product, inexpensive and effective. If, on the other hand, the old finish only needs cleaning try Kleen Floor, a capital restorer.

For filling up cracks in the floor, Johnson makes a filler that fills the cracks and prepares the floor for a coat of wood filler. There are many wood fillers but none better than Paste Wood Filler, which we sell also.

After this, the floor is ready for any floor paint, wood dye, stain or graining, as you may desire. You might use Johnson's paints or dyes, Senour's Floor Paints or any one of a dozen other standard brands we sell.

For Hard Wood Floors

Johnson's Floor Wax is excellent. Number 61 Floor Varnish is heat proof and will not discolor or turn white when water dries on it. It also "wears like iron" and is one of the best varnishes produced. It may also be used over linoleum successfully.

Floorene is another fine finish for hard wood floors; preferred by many.

For Porch Floors we sell special paints made purposely for that kind of hard wear. In fact, we carry such a big line of paints of all kinds for all purposes that you can't do better than consult us on all your painting problems.

ATTACKS FROM BOTH SIDES OF THE LINE

Furious Fighting Develops Near Arras With Little Gain for Either Germans or Allies

Today's War News Given in Summary.

The American steamer Nebraska was torpedoed by a submarine yesterday off the south coast of Ireland. The crew took to the boats, but returned on ascertaining that the damage inflicted by the torpedo, which struck forward, was not serious. No lives were lost. The Nebraska carried no passengers.

An official communication from Rome indicates that the Italian invasion of Austria has been extended over almost the entire frontier. According to this statement the Italians have seized a number of towns near the border and have forced their way through mountain passes occupying strategic positions. Apparently there has been little heavy fighting thus far, although in one instance a bayonet encounter is mentioned. It is stated the Austrians retired everywhere, destroying bridges as they fell back.

The new attack of Gen. Mackensen against the Russian line north of Przemyśl is reported from Vienna and Berlin to have been attended by conspicuous success. The war office at Petrograd, however, states that attacks on the Russian line along the San river were scattered and concede no new victories to the Austria-German armies.

In the west the British have been compelled to give ground in Belgium to the Germans, who are once more pressing forward strongly along the part of the front which has seen the heaviest fighting of the war. The allies apparently have offset this German victory, however, by a French advance further south, in northern France, near Arras.

London, May 26.—A series of attacks from both sides of the line north of Arras last night brought on fighting of unusual violence. The official communication from Paris today asserts the German attacks made with special severity near Lorette, were all repulsed. The Berlin statement admits the loss of a small position near Givenchy, but asserts that elsewhere the allies were driven back with heavy losses.

The German war office also announces that General Mackensen's attack in Galicia, north of Przemyśl, continues to make progress, additional ground being gained after heavy fighting. A dispatch from Petrograd says it is believed there the Germans have been definitely checked in Galicia and southern Russian Poland, and that the Russians are now prepared to assume the offensive.

No Great Enthusiasm.

The approval of King George has made the coalition government, as announced this morning an accomplished fact, and it is generally accepted as the best solution of a bad muddle. Nevertheless, the country shows no great enthusiasm over this compromise for the usual party cabinet.

In the field of military operations, the great onslaught of Gen. Mackensen against the Russian line to the north of Przemyśl and around Jaroslau indicates that the powers of the Austro-German offensive are not exhausted and verifies the belief general in London that the Russians are not well equipped for the defense of this position. Przemyśl has not been sufficiently repaired to rank again as a great fortress. It is rather a heavily fortified camp which needs considerable artillery for its reduction.

In the Dardanelles the allies are officially reported to be slowly advancing against the stubborn opposition of the Turks, who have been granted an armistice to bury 3,000 of their dead in front of their trenches.

Strong Italian Claims.

The official Italian announcement reviewing the first 36 hours of war, claims the capture of several Austrian towns just across the border and the occupation of all frontier passes in Cadore, together with a continuation of the successful advance on the Carniola and the Friuli frontiers.

Vienna counters with the official claim that the Austrian naval raid inflicted considerable damage on the Italian coast and on Italian watercraft.

The illness of King Constantine of Greece, is the feature of the diplomatic situation in the near east. The death of this ruler, it is argued here, would end Greece's reason for maintaining neutrality.

Submarines at Work.

The German submarine campaign is continuing actively. Dispatches from Norway say the people of that country have been aroused by the sinking last week of the Norwegian steamer, Minerva, and the attempt to torpedo the Iris, which went to her assistance. The steamer Grower had a narrow escape from torpedoing while bound for Rotterdam yesterday. A submarine fired a torpedo without warning. It missed the ship by only 15 yards.

According to the captain's story to Rotterdam correspondents, the periscope was seen and then the wash of the torpedo, which was moving so rapidly that nothing could be done to avoid it. The attack occurred at a point four miles north of North Hinder light ship.

STATEMENT FROM BERLIN.

Germans Repulse Attacks But Lose Some Outmost Trenches.

Berlin, May 26.—The German general army headquarters staff today gave out the following statement:

"In the western theater: A night advance by the enemy on our newly acquired position west of the forest of Belleward easily was repulsed. The number of machine guns taken from the English was increased to ten.

"Northeast of Givenchy British troops succeeded last night in capturing a projecting part of our outmost trenches. "Further south, between Lievin and the Lorette hills, an extensive attack commenced in the afternoon failed completely.

"In the region to the north and to the south of the high road between Souchez and Bethune the enemy had first succeeded in penetrating our trenches, but our counter attacks again put us in full possession of our positions. One hundred Frenchmen remained in our hands.

"In the region south of Souchez several repeated strong attacks directed by white and colored French troops against our lines completely broke down before our entanglements. Our opponents suffered heavy losses everywhere. During the battles in the Lorette hills a Silesian infantry regiment especially distinguished itself.

"An advance of the enemy in the western part of the forest of Le Pretre was easily repulsed. A hostile flying machine was brought down at a point south of Lens by our aviators.

"In the eastern theater night attacks were repulsed.

"In the southeastern theater: The attack being made by the army under Gen. von Mackensen is making good progress. Southeast of Radimo the village of Swiato was taken after fierce fighting.

AN AMERICAN STEAMER HIT

Nebraskan Torpedoed Off Irish Coast, Declares London Report.

NO LOSS OF LIFE; BOAT STILL AFLOAT

Washington Awaits Report, Suspecting Floating Mine as Cause.

BULLETIN.

London, May 26.—(5 p. m.)—The American steamer Nebraska, passed Queenstown this afternoon on her way back to Liverpool. She was proceeding on her own steam at 8 knots an hour.

London, May 26.—(12 noon.)—The American steamer Nebraska, Captain Green, from Liverpool, May 24, for Delaware Breakwater, was torpedoed yesterday by a submarine at a point forty miles west-southwest of Fastnet, off the south coast of Ireland.

The sea was calm at the time. The crew at once took to the boats and stood by the steamer. It was soon ascertained that the Nebraska was not seriously injured. She had been struck forward, and her foreholds were full of water. The crew returned on board and got the vessel under way. No lives were lost among the crew. The Nebraska did not carry any passengers.

The foregoing information was received today by the British admiralty, in London, and it was at once communicated to the American embassy. Immediately she was struck, the Nebraska began calling for help by wireless. Broadcast received the wireless communication at 9 a. m. yesterday.

A message to Lloyds from Kinsale, Ireland, says that the Nebraska passed that point at 11 o'clock this morning, apparently bound for Queenstown. The Nebraska was down at the bows. She was proceeding under her own steam and flying the signal, "I am not under control."

The American steamer Nebraska, Captain Green, is owned by the American-Hawaiian Steamship company, of New York, and is of 2,824 tons net register. On her last eastward trip she left New York May 7, for Liverpool.

MAY HAVE HIT FLOATING MINE.

Washington Questions if Damage Was Result of Torpedo.

Washington, May 26.—Consul General Skinner, at London, cabled today: "The British admiralty reports the American steamer Nebraska torpedoed." He gave the same location as mentioned in the London dispatches.

NEW YORK SOCIAL LEADER STRICKEN

Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish Dies After Illness of But Few Hours.

Garrison, N. Y., May 26.—Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish, leader of New York's social set, is dead at Glen Cliff, her summer home, here. She died last night of cerebral hemorrhage after an illness which had lasted only a few hours. Shortly after luncheon yesterday she became ill. She failed to rally and died soon after 10 o'clock. Her husband was with her when she died, but her two children—Stuyvesant Fish and Mrs. Albert Z. Gray—did not reach the house until a short time after she had died.

Mrs. Fish, who was about 60 years old, was born in New York. Her maiden name was Marion Graves Anthony. In June, 1876, she was married to Stuyvesant Fish, a well known railroad man and financier and son of Hamilton Fish, secretary of state in the cabinet of President Grant. With her husband she was interested in many charities and entertainments. Funeral services will be held Friday.

JUNE 17 SET FOR BIG CELEBRATION

Announcement was made Wednesday afternoon that the Lincoln Highway celebration will be held on June 17, several days later than was anticipated.

A telegram was received from the movie men who are taking scenes along the highway that they will reach Fort Wayne on that date. They are now at Lancaster, Pa.

Now that the date is known to a certainty members of the committee in charge of the celebration will go ahead with the plans in earnest. Because of the uncertainty of the date it was impossible to secure speakers or make any definite plans.

Charles L. Biedersdorf, secretary of the Commercial club, who is chairman of the parade committee, will send out letters within the next day or two to every owner of an automobile in Fort Wayne and surrounding cities, asking them to join in the parade. He is anxious to secure one thousand machines. The parade will start from Swinney park, but the route to be taken through the city has not been determined.

Rotarians to See

Ball Game Friday

Members of the Fort Wayne Rotary club will attend the ball game Friday afternoon in a body as the guests of the management of the baseball club. This action was taken at the regular weekly meeting of the club, Wednesday, at the Commercial club. The club was to have attended in a body Wednesday afternoon but the rain prevented.

At the meeting Wednesday Will Peltier gave an interesting account of a hunting and fishing trip in Canada, while William H. Scheiman spoke on cooperation in rotary. Clinton R. Willson presided. The meeting was largely attended.

DEATH SHIP NEARS NEW YORK.

Many Cases of Beri-Beri Aboard British Steamer Dewa.

New York, May 26.—A veritable death ship is nearing New York according to a wireless message received today by Health Officer O'Connell. The message said that the British steamer Dewa, under command of Captain Evans and laden with sugar from Centauro had 25 cases of beri-beri among her crew of forty men and that eight men had died from the malady since the vessel sailed.

MANY WILL ATTEND STATE CONVENTION

Fifty Fort Wayne People to Go to Seymour for Walther League.

Twenty-five delegates from the various societies of Fort Wayne and as many members will go to Seymour to attend the annual meeting of the Indiana Walther League district. The delegates-elect will leave at 2:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon over the Lake Erie and Western while the others will go Sunday morning at 1:30 o'clock over the G. R. & I.

It is expected that nearly 1,000 Walther leaguers of Indiana will be in attendance at the yearly meeting at which time officers will be elected and delegates to the national convention to be held at Los Angeles, July 18 to 22, will also be named. The Indiana district is comprised of 38 societies with a membership of 3,000.

The present officers of the organization are: J. C. Hoerner, of Fort Wayne, president; Lester Baade, of Fort Wayne, secretary; and F. A. Klein, of this city, general field secretary of the National Walther league. The convention opens Sunday morning and will close Monday noon. The business session will be held Sunday morning.

The business session will be held Sunday morning.

$900 REALIZED AT RED CROSS BAZAAR

The bazar for the benefit of the German-Austrian Red Cross fund closed Monday evening and the committee on finances reports that $900 was taken in and since nearly all the things that were put on sale were donated by the various German ladies' societies, this amount will be nearly all profit. The ladies who were in charge of this event set the goal of $1,000, and since this amount was nearly reached they expect to make up the deficit by subscriptions.

The final report of the bazar and its results will be given at a meeting of the ladies to be held Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Turner hall, at which time it is expected that the $1,000 mark will be reached.

Col. A. B. Crampton, of Delphi, Ind., commander, has been here for two days putting the final touches to the arrangements.

Tomorrow will be the big day of the encampment. The parade will take place in the afternoon and in the evening Gen. Isaac Sherwood, of Ohio, was to speak at a campfire meeting.

LIMPING IN AFTER CRASH

Dutch Liner Ryndam and a Freighter Collide Off Nantucket

PASSENGERS ARE GOTTEN OFF SAFELY

Transferred to U. S. Warships Now Convoying Ryndam to New York.

BULLETIN.

Washington, May 26.—The battleship South Carolina wireless the navy department today that she had 250 persons from the Ryndam on board and expects to land them in New York tonight.

New York, May 26.—The Dutch liner Ryndam, which sailed from this port yesterday for Rotterdam with seventy-seven passengers and a million dollar cargo, was badly damaged in a collision fifteen miles southwest of the Nantucket shoals lightship at 4 o'clock this morning with the tramp freighter, Joa. J. Cuneo, which sailed from Boston last night for Baracoa, Cuba.

Both vessels were seriously injured. The Ryndam, wireless reports indicate, was struck aft with such force that hold No. 5 filled almost immediately, water flowed freely into the engine room and began to creep up in hold No. 6. The Cuneo's bows were smashed in badly.

S. O. S. signals were flashed from the Ryndam's wireless and her passengers were transferred hastily to the Cuneo. One hundred and sixty of the Ryndam's crew of 200, likewise, were put aboard the freighter, leaving only forty men aboard the liner to navigate it.

Warships Answer Call.

United States battleships in the vicinity answered the wireless calls at 7 o'clock, three hours after the collision. The battleship South Carolina was standing along side the Cuneo. The Ryndam's passengers and those of her crew who had been transferred to the Cuneo were taken off by the South Carolina. The battleship was directed by wireless from the Newport navy yard to convoy the stricken liner to this port.

With the South Carolina alongside, the battleship Texas, ten miles astern, the battleship Louisiana in the near vicinity and the Cuneo slowly following, the Ryndam was steaming at slow speed for this port, 124 miles east of Ambrose channel lightship at 10 o'clock. A message to the Holland-American line, her owners saying that the Ryndam was much stunned, but still holding out.

Six American Passengers.

Messages asserted that the waters were gaining in hold 6 and the ship would have to be abandoned if the water gained much more. So far as the line knows there were only six Americans among the passengers. The other passengers it was said were Europeans returning home.

The Ryndam, a vessel of 7,975 tons register, net, was built in Belfast in 1901. Her length is 550 feet, her beam 66 feet. The Cuneo is a steamer of about 800 tons capacity. She carried a crew of fifty men and no passengers. Her length is 210 feet.

Dispatches sent during the forenoon by the South Carolina says the Ryndam was making thirteen knots on her way to this port. This speed, if maintained, would bring her to New York late tonight or early tomorrow.

THE EARLY REPORT.

New York, May 26.—The steamer Ryndam, of the Holland-American line, bound from New York to Rotterdam, with passengers and freight, collided with the freight steamer Joseph J. Cuneo, today off Nantucket island. Wireless messages received here said that the Ryndam had transferred her passengers and part of her crew to the Cuneo but that both vessels were badly damaged. It was reported that the battleship Texas and another steamer were going to their aid.

When Collision Came.

The collision was reported took place fifteen miles southwest of the Nantucket shoals lightship about 4 a. m. The Ryndam, a vessel of 7,975 tons, sailed from this port yesterday afternoon with 70 passengers in her first and second cabins and 115 in her third cabin. The Cuneo is a Norwegian freighter of 546 tons. She plies between Atlantic coast ports and the West Indies. It is believed that she carried no passengers. The Atlantic fleet which has been engaged in maneuvers, lies in the neighborhood where the accident occurred and it was thought the disabled ships would not lack assistance. Further messages from the Ryndam say one of her holds was full of water and that another hold and the engine room were leaking. She reported that she was steaming slowly towards the port accompanied by the Cuneo and would Hoffman was to leave for Petoskey, Mich., today, where he was to become assistant manager of the New Arlington hotel.

ITALY HAS SIEZED AUSTRIAN FRONTIER

Rome, May 25.—(Via Paris, May 26.—8:30 a. m.)—Offensive operations resulting in the occupation of Austrian territory all along the frontier from Lombardy to the Adriatic are claimed in an official statement issued tonight by the war office. Italian troops have seized various towns in the Trentino and forced their way through mountain defiles. On the lower Isonzo attacks were continued to gain the line of the river. The Austrians are reported to have retired, destroying bridges behind them. Italian aviators bombarded Monfalcone, near the gulf of Trieste.

The communication follows: "Everywhere on the twenty-fourth our troops took the offensive, occupying Forcella, Montezzo, Tonalde and Ponto Caffaro in Val Gualciana, the territory north of Ferrara and Monte Baldo. They also occupied Monte Roarno and Monte Pompeo on the slopes north of Lessini; Monte Pasubio and Monte Baffala, at the extremity of the Agno and Leofang valleys, and the defiles of Val Brenta. We took a number of prisoners.

"In Cadore we occupied all the defiles. The enemy's medium calibre artillery opened fire on the Bay of Misitini, but without results.

"On the Carnia frontier on the night of the 24th we took a bayonet in the middle of the Isonzo region, we the extremity of Val Dugno.

"On the Friuli frontier on the 24th, in the middle of the Isonzo region, we successfully continued our offensive operations near Catorotto. We have disposed troops on the conquered heights, between the Judrio and the Isonzo. Medium calibre artillery of the Austrians at Santa Maria and Santa Lucia, to the southwest of Tolmino, opened fire on the heights between the Juca and Isonzo, but without result.

"On the lower Isonzo we also continued our offensive to attain the line of the river. Everywhere the enemy retired, destroying bridges and cutting communications.

"Our aviators bombarded the electric power house and railroad station at Monfalcone."

FARMERS ARE URGED TO RAISE ALFALFA

First Day of Automobile
Tour of County is a Great Success.

For the purpose of encouraging the farmers of Allen county to grow alfalfa and to show what other farmers have done in the growing of the crop, a two days' automobile tour of the county is being made under the auspices of the extension department of Purdue university.

After a preliminary meeting in the assembly room of the court house at 9 o'clock Wednesday morning about thirty-five automobiles filled with farmers started on the first day of the tour. The first stop was made at the farm of J. L. Juillard on the Lincoln highway, thence east to New Haven to Charles Weiss's farm in Jefferson township, then east and south to the William Longardner farm, one mile south and one-half mile east of Gar Creek. From there the party proceeded north and east by way of Woodburn to the Robert R. Murphy farm in Springfield township, where the noon stop was made. After lunch T. A. Coleman, of Purdue university, head of the county agents in Indiana, spoke for half an hour on alfalfa. His remarks were followed by a general discussion.

After leaving the Murphy farm the party proceeded to the farm of S. L. Husted, in Maumee township, then south to the Fred Husted farm, and east to the Andy Ruxer and Harry Severson farms. Eight farms were visited and the same number will be visited Thursday.

In his short talk in the assembly room of the court house Mr. Coleman said that last year alfalfa tours were held in twenty-seven counties in Indiana, and many farms were visited. He declared that to his knowledge there is not a single man who raised alfalfa last year who is displeased with the results, and each of them are raising the crop again this year.

The speaker declared there were several factors and qualities about alfalfa that recommended it to the farmers of Indiana, among them being its permanency, its feeding value, yielding qualities and selling value. He declared that every farmer in Allen county could profitably raise alfalfa.

WHOLE FAMILIES GO FORWARD FOR CHRIST

Dr. Lyon is Obtaining Results in Meetings at Terre Haute.

Terre Haute, Ind., May 25.—Whole families are going forward to accept Christ at the evangelistic services being conducted here by Dr. Milford H. Lyon. The meetings are nearing an end. "If the city is not won for Christ in the last days for the campaign," Dr. Lyon tells his audience, "it might never have another opportunity."

The evangelist took up the text, "Not Far From the Kingdom."
"My message tonight will not be for the benefit of the men living a vile and impure life, but rather for those not yet Christians, but who love the good and pure. It will be for those who like to see others come out for Jesus but are constantly rejecting Him themselves."

Whole-Hearted Religion.
"If your church is good enough to belong to and pay dues to, isn't it good enough to enter into with your whole heart. If America is a good place to live in, it's a good place to have your citizenship. I have little sympathy for a man who will come to America to make his fortune and will retain his allegiance to another country."

"If it is right for another to take a stand for Jesus, it is right for you. For one to live a fairly upright life and reject Christ makes that life more detrimental to Christianity. The fact that you are so near the kingdom leaves you with no excuses for not entering."

DEAD BODY OF WILSON PARKER FOUND AT HOME

The dead body of Wilson Parker, a well known farmer residing one mile north of Huntertown was found Tuesday, partially disrobed, in his bed room at his home where he had lived alone since the death of his wife several years ago. The discovery was made by Michael Federspiel, a farm hand who did the farm work for the deceased. When Federspiel went to the house Tuesday morning to do the chores he supposed Mr. Parker to be sleeping and did not go upstairs. At noon when the aged man made no appearance and when he noticed a lamp burning in the hallway he went to his employer's room and made the discovery.

Deputy Coroner R. B. Garman was called and after investigation he gave his verdict that the cause of death was heart trouble with which the aged man had suffered for years. That Mr. Parker expected his death was disclosed by the fact that in the dead man's "safe," in a battery box of a telephone, the coroner found his will and a slip of paper on which were written the names of men he wished to act as pallbearers.

A Message To Thin, Weak, Scrawny Folks

An Easy Way to Gain 10 to 30 Lbs. of Solid, Healthy, Permanent Flesh.

Thin, nervous, undeveloped men and women everywhere are heard to say, "I can't understand why I do not get fat. I eat plenty of good, nourishing food." The reason is just this: You cannot get fat, no matter how much you eat, unless your digestive organs assimilate the fat-making elements of your food instead of passing them out through the body as waste.

What is needed is a means of gently urging the assimilative functions of the stomach and intestines to absorb the oils and fats and hand them over to the blood, where they may reach the starved, shriveled, run down tissues and build them up. The thin person's body is like a dry sponge—eager and hungry for the fatty materials of which it is being deprived by the failure of the alimentary canal to take them from the food. The best way to overcome this sinful waste of flesh building elements and to stop the leakage of fats is to use Sargol, the recently discovered regenerative force that is recommended so highly by physicians here and abroad. Take a little Sargol tablet with every meal and notice how quickly your cheeks fill out and rolls of firm, healthy flesh are deposited over your bony, covering each bony angle and projecting point.

Meyer Bros. Co. and other good druggists have Sargol, or can get it from their wholesalers, and will refund your money if you are not satisfied with the gain in weight it produces as stated on the guarantee in each package. It is inexpensive, easy to take and highly efficient.

Caution—While Sargol has produced remarkable results in overcoming nervous dyspepsia and general stomach troubles, it should not be taken unless you are willing to gain ten pounds or more, for it is a wonderful flesh builder.

NEWS OF FORT WAYNE'S NEIGHBORS

BLOWS HIS HEAD OFF.

Lagrange County Farmer Ends Life in Shocking Manner.

Lagrange, Ind., May 26.—Jacob Ernberger, residing south of Howe, committed suicide Tuesday at home, using a double barreled shot gun as the instrument of death, and blowing his head entirely off. A. M. Crickmore and wife, with whom Mr. Ernberger was living, started to Lagrange, leaving a little girl with the afflicted man in the home. Mr. Ernberger requested the girl to go to the home of his son near by and have him come over, he wanted to talk with him. It was when left alone, the victim of the awful tragedy got the gun, stripped his left foot completely so that he could handle the trigger, placed the muzzle of the gun to his mouth after he sat down on the bed and instantly ended his life.

Mr. Ernberger was an old resident of the county and had reached the 60th year of life. Several weeks ago he was partially paralyzed and since his recovery he had threatened to take his life, his mind being affected. His wife died a little more than a year ago and since that time he had the Crickmores living on the place caring for him. He leaves a daughter and three sons, Mrs. Rollin Myers, Freeman and Elmer Ernberger, all residing in the neighborhood of the old home, and Earl, residing in Charles City, Iowa. His daughter-in-law, Mrs. Martha Ernberger and family, reside in Lagrange.

MET DEATH LEAVING TRAIN.

Columbia City, Ind., May 26.—It is believed that Arnold Himes, the young man whose body was found on the Pennsylvania tracks a mile west of Lowell, Tuesday morning, met his death jumping from a rapidly moving train. His left foot was out and he had injuries about the head and neck that probably caused death. The accident happened just over the Kosciusko county line. Himes was aged 34 years and was a widower. His home was near Wilmet, Noble county, where his family have been prominent residents for many years. He was returning home from Winamac, Ind., where he had been visiting a sister, Mrs. Etta Borders.

DIES NEAR MONTPELIER.

Montpelier, Ind., May 26.—Allison Jamison, 71, died at his home, northeast of this city, death being due to heart trouble. The deceased is well known both in Blackford and Wells counties. He is survived by his aged wife, Elizabeth, two brothers, John and Straud, one sister, Mrs. Jennie Coddington, all of Wells county. He leaves six sons, Arch, Oscar, Fred, Charles, Robert and Arthur, and one daughter, Mrs. Ada Starr. On account of the son, Arthur, residing in Alabama, the funeral arrangements have not yet been made but burial will be made in the McFerron cemetery in Wells county.

CELEBRATE GOLDEN WEDDING.

Van Wert, O., May 26.—Mr. and Mrs. G. A. McConahy, among the best known and most respected people of Van Wert, have just celebrated their golden wedding anniversary. The celebration was devoid of anything in the nature of a formal ceremony, but an "open house" was held all day during which time many friends availed themselves of the opportunity of calling and extending congratulations and giving assurance of their best wishes at a time and on an occasion so few are permitted to enjoy. This popular couple have passed the greater part of their half century of married life in this city and have a wide acquaintanceship.

DROPS DEAD AS GUESTS LEAVE.

Huntington, Ind., May 26.—Shortly after her guests had left in the evening, Mrs. Basil Henry, living two miles southwest of Huntington on the Markle road, dropped dead. Her death was due to heart trouble, from which she had suffered for some time. Several members of the Baptist church in Huntington, of which Mrs. Henry was a member, were at her home last night. She seemed in excellent health then, but immediately after they left the fatal illness overtook her.

GETTING READY FOR BUDGET.

Van Wert, O., May 26.—County Auditor Klein has written a letter to the clerks of the various boards of education and the municipal and township trustees asking them to meet at his office Thursday, May 27, at 1 o'clock, for the purpose of receiving instructions as to making out the annual budget. Some changes have been made in the law which are not fully understood by some of the officers and they will be given assistance in making out their budgets at that time.

IN POOR HOUSE 57 YEARS.

Bracton Souerman Dies at the Whitley County Infirmary, Aged 77.

Columbia City, Ind., May 26.—Bracton Souerman, for almost three-score years an inmate of the Whitley county poor house and the third man to be admitted to that institution after it was built, died there yesterday at the age of 77 years. Since December 9, 1857, Souerman had resided in the infirmary and had become the best known character in the place. He had a weak mind, but was capable of work and more than earned his keep at the place. He was a native of Ohio. He had long held the harmless delusion that he owned the county farm, but soon after Superintendent Miner took charge he made over a half interest to that official and so relieved his mind of a part of its load of responsibility. He died very suddenly.

Soon after the death of Souerman, occurred the death of William Wax, the oldest inmate of the institution. He was an Englishman and was 90 years old. He had been there eight years. Wax was well educated and had the manners of a gentleman. He never would talk of himself and where he came from and what relatives he had, if any, are unknown.

BATTLE OVER TROUSERS.

Huntington, Ind., May 26.—In a fight said to have arisen over a pair of trousers Buell Fossough sustained several broken ribs and his brother, Wilson Fossough, was badly battered up last night. The fight took place at the Fossough home on Byron street, but when Patrolman Jacob Bremer and Dora Bickle arrived, Wilson fled from the scene. He was captured by Patrolman Otis Hadley and was locked up. In the fight which took place in the dark, Wilson grasped his mother, thinking she was his antagonist, and in the struggling the porch railing gave way and allowed them to drop a distance of several feet.

MILFORD GIRL IS HONORED.

Milford, Ind., May 26.—Miss Helen Vandever, of Milford, a popular young lady student in the University of Michigan, has just been honored there by being elected to the membership of the "Senior Society." This is an organization of senior girls in the college. Each year they select the best few of the Junior class as new members, thereby making election to its membership an honor. Miss Vandever is a junior literary student.

BARTENDER IS FINED.

Hartford City, Ind., May 26.—Earl Kuch, former bartender at the Hartford hotel, who was arrested in Fort Wayne Monday afternoon after he had failed to make good his promise to appear in the court of Mayor Seeger to answer to charges which were filed there by Deputy Prosecutor Elmer Pierce, after a fist fight had been indulged in by Kuch and D. B. Young, proprietor of the hotel, was given a fine of $1 and costs, amounting to $13.00. The fine was paid Tuesday after Kuch had spent the night in the county jail.

MONTPELIER TO HAVE RACES.

Montpelier, Ind., May 26.—The program for the races in this city has been made out. The races will be held three days, July 21, 22, 23. The total purses amount to $3200. The grounds and buildings have been put in fine shape. This is the second race meet since a severe storm blew down the buildings a few years ago. Last year was the first year that the local meet was a financial success for many years.

PARADES STREETS NUDE.

Portland, Ind., May 26.—William De Hoff, of Bryant, is in the county jail in same ward. He became violent at Bryant and after threatening to kill a number of citizens attempted to parade the streets while nude. Unable to restrain him without constant watch and attention, citizens of Bryant brought De Hoff here and turned him over to the care of the sheriff. He will be placed in the state epileptic village at Newcastle.

TO HAVE UNION MEMORIAL.

Bluffton, Ind., May 26.—The Odd Fellows, Knights of Pythias and probably the Red Men will join in a union memorial service to be held some Sunday within the next few weeks. Committees have been appointed to secure speakers and make other arrangements.

CAT MOTHERS LITTLE SKUNKS.

Portland, Ind., May 26.—A common house cat at the home of Richard Loy, northwest of this city, is mothering five little black skunks seven days old. A litter of four kittens were removed from the cat's nest and the skunks turned over to her care. Loy expects, if successful in raising the new brood, to engage in the skunk fur business.

SPEAKER ENGAGED.

D. O. McComb, county superintendent, has engaged Rev. T. J. Johnson, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church, to deliver the address at the commencement exercises of the eighth grade graduates of the county to be held at the New Palace on the afternoon of June 12. Rev. W. A. Greist, former pastor of the Simpson M. E. church, was to have delivered the address, but since being transferred to Logansport he has been very busy and finds it difficult to get away.

MRS. JOHN PAUL JONES DIES.

Lagrange, Ind., May 26.—At the age of 88 years, Mrs. Aurelia Jones died at her home here Tuesday, death being due to the infirmities of age. She was the widow of the late John Paul Jones, a pioneer resident of this county, and one of its most prominent citizens. Mr. Jones was licensed as a minister in the Methodist church in 1842 and at different times held the offices of county clerk, county recorder, county auditor and representative in the legislature. He was a brother of Dr. Philip Jones, of Fort Wayne, at one time clerk of Allen county. Mrs. Jones was born in Ohio, and came to this county with her parents when she was very young. Mrs. E. O. Wagner, of Fort Wayne, is her grandchild.

WILLARD IS WITH WILD WEST SHOW

World's Champion Pugilist
Coming to Fort Wayne
on June 8!

The 101 Ranch Wild West show is scheduled to exhibit in Fort Wayne Tuesday, June 8. This fact is in itself interesting, for those who are familiar with Miller Bros. & Arlington's big frontier exhibition credit it with being the most representative organization of its kind before the public.

The visit of the show to Fort Wayne, however, will have a unique interest, because one of its features will be the cowboy world's champion, Jess Willard, who, it is announced, has made arrangements with the managers of the big show by which the conqueror of Jack Johnson will appear in the wild west arena at every performance. Moreover, it is announced he will take an active interest in the performance, for as a rider and roper he made a reputation long before he entered the boxing world.

Edward Arlington, advance manager of the 101 Ranch Wild West show, who passed through the city Wednesday, made the definite announcement that Willard, who owned with the show in Minneapolis two weeks ago, would be continued as a feature throughout the season.

"There is undoubtedly a great deal of curiosity to see Willard," said Mr. Arlington. "This curiosity is entirely based on the fact that he was the successful 'white hope,' but also because, despite the fact that he is a ring gladiator, he is a man of family and irreproachable life. In this respect he stands as an example of what clean living can do, for while the fans admire him for his cleverness and his wonderful $2-inch reach, the best of the public join in respecting him for his character. Even those who do not particularly sympathize with ring sports will be interested in seeing him, because he is the absolutely perfect physical American. Willard's association with the 101 Ranch show is particularly fitting. He is essentially an outdoor man, and he says himself that he would not feel at home in any other kind of a show."

"Jess Willard would be a big feature for any show, and naturally involves a very heavy expense on the part of the management. Notwithstanding this expense for a feature with a 'punch,' there will be no entailment of the wild west features of the show. The Indian contingent, headed by the noted chief, Iron Tail, whose profile is on the 'Buffalo' ticket, the company of cowboys and cowgirls, the big gathering of old scouts and plainsmen, the troupes of Cossacks and Mexicans, are still very much in evidence and they give a performance that alternates thrills and laughter. Incidentally, it will interest the public to know that Willard appears in the arena in cowboy attire and later in ring costume, illustrating with a sparring partner just how Johnson was worsted."

LADIES! DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

Use Grandma's Sage Tea and Sulphur Recipe and Nobody will Know.

The use of Sage and Sulphur for restoring faded, gray hair to its natural color dates back to grandmother's time. She used it to keep her hair beautifully dark, glossy and abundant. Whenever her hair fell out or took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect.

But brewing at home is messy and out-of-date. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for a 50 cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" you will get this famous old recipe which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair and is splendid for dandruff, dry, feverish, itchy scalp and falling hair. A well-known downtown druggist says it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, it becomes beautifully dark, glossy and abundant.—Adv.

THE SENTINEL'S DAILY SCRIPTURE READING.

Genesis 2:15-25.

15 And the Lord God took the man, and put him into the garden of Eden to dress it and to keep it.

16 And the Lord God commanded the man, saying, Of every tree of the garden thou mayest freely eat:

17 But of the tree of the knowledge of good and evil, thou shalt not eat of it: for in the day that thou eatest thereof thou shalt surely die.

18 And the Lord God said, It is not good that the man should be alone; I will make him an help meet for him.

19 And out of the ground the Lord God formed every beast of the field, and every fowl of the air; and brought them unto Adam to see what he would call them: and whatsoever Adam called every living creature, that was the name thereof.

20 And Adam gave names to all cattle, and to the fowl of the air, and to every beast of the field; but for Adam there was not found an help meet for him.

21 And the Lord God caused a deep sleep to fall upon Adam, and he slept: and he took one of his ribs, and closed up the flesh instead thereof;

22 And the rib, which the Lord God had taken from man, made he a woman, and brought her unto the man.

23 And Adam said, This is now bone of my bones, and flesh of my flesh: she shall be called Woman, because she was taken out of Man.

24 Therefore shall a man leave his father and his mother, and shall cleave unto his wife: and they shall be one flesh.

25 And they were both naked, the man and his wife, and were not ashamed.

Showing Up Tax Inequalities

At its first hearing the commission named recently by Governor Ralston in compliance with a statute enacted by the last legislature, experts testifying, brought forward an impressive showing of the inequalities of taxation as applied in this state. It was in no sense surprising, for the fact that glaring inequalities exist has long been well known. The testimony will be of value chiefly in getting specific instances into evidence where they may be taken into account in illustrating the need for remedy.

By way of example, Auditor Bowman, of Richmond, said that real estate in Richmond is assessed at from 50 to 55 per cent. of its cash value, and that some farms are assessed at as low as 40 per cent., while money and credits are listed at face value. In his opinion an assessment of all Wayne county property at its true value would permit a reduction of the tax rate to $1.25. In Gary, according to Eben H. Wolcott, real estate is assessed at 13 per cent. of its true value and personal property at 75 per cent., while railroad property is assessed at 60 per cent. Mr. Wolcott further declared that in several counties where there is large railroad mileage, it is the custom to reduce the local assessment and increase the local rate so that the heaviest burden falls on the railroads. Mr. Wolcott said that some railroads in Indiana are assessed as high as 70 per cent., and some interurbans as low as 40 per cent.

It is hardly to be presumed that these are isolated instances of inequalities. To a greater or less extent they obtain over the entire state, despite repeated efforts in recent years to equalize the assessments as fairly as possible. Commendable as these efforts have been, it is apparent that they have made comparatively little progress and that the big job is still before the state tax authorities. Classification of taxables to allow different rates of taxation on different classes of property is apparently in contravention to the constitutional provision which declares that all assessments and taxation shall be uniform. In this connection it is worthy of note that members of the state tax board say that, so far as they knew, no attempt ever had been made to enforce the provisions of the law for assessment of property at its true cash value. The law was enacted in 1891.

Unless Governor Whitman or the supreme court of the United States shall intervene to prevent it, Charles Becker, former New York police lieutenant, twice convicted in the gunman case, must die in the electric chair. His second conviction has just been confirmed by the New York court of appeals. The condemned man has made a notable legal fight, but it would appear that the end of his effort has been reached. The present governor of New York, then district attorney, conducted the prosecution of Becker, and it is hardly to be expected that he will extend clemency, while appeal to the supreme court appears to offer little more hope for the prisoner. The doom pronounced against him can scarcely be longer deferred.

Supplementing the previous lists, petitions bearing the signatures of more than one thousand Fort Wayne citizens asking for the election of a woman to the city school board next month, were filed with the city council Tuesday evening. Nor is the end yet reached, for the present total of some 3,500 will be vastly increased before the date of the selection, but even the final figures will scarcely include all who sincerely desire that a woman be represented on the governing board of the city schools. Is there any good reason whatever why that plainly and generally expressed desire should not be granted?

The action of the Fort Wayne Real Estate Exchange in deciding to cease Sunday activities in real estate sales is eminently the correct thing to do and it will advance that organization immensely in the favor of right-thinking people. It is additionally gratifying, also, to learn that so far as is known the Fort Wayne exchange is the only one in the country which has as yet taken this advanced step. Others should promptly follow Fort Wayne's lead in this matter.

Now there comes an intimation that the killing of Mrs. Bailey, one of the most sensational of New York's recent murder cases, in which Mrs. Carman was acquitted lately, is to be enacted into film for production in the movie houses over the country. If the censor doesn't take one swift and effectual swat at that film, it will be conclusive evidence that this country needs a new film censor.

The fact that Mrs. S. D. Wallace, of Indianapolis, 62 years old, has just taken out her annual fishing license demonstrates that there is at least one person with abiding confidence that sometime or other we're going to have a return of the sort of weather in which they will bite once more.

And speaking of close shaves—the majority of 6 votes by which the "wets" retained their grip on Plymouth in the local option election Tuesday, comes pretty nearly living up to precisely that description.

BRAZIL TO FEED THE WORLD IN LATER CENTURIES — AS BIG AS EUROPE AND JUST AS RICH, SAYS BABSON.

By ROGER W. BABSON

I do not know whether to begin in telling you about the great country of Brazil. To me Brazil is the great surprise of my trip. I already know the north coast of South America: was disappointed with the west coast: was prepared for Argentina; but had never fully realized the vastness, richness and loveliness of Brazil.

In Brazil the national language is Portuguese; while Spanish is spoken everywhere else in South and Central America.

Brazil is the third largest country in the world, the largest on the American continent; many times the size of Germany, France or any other of the more modern countries of Europe—yes, larger than all of Europe combined.

Just think of this great country containing the most fertile soil of any in the world, perhaps the richest of mines, certainly the greatest of forests and its government having been in existence only since 1891! All of this is only two weeks from New York!

We are apt to think of Brazil as being all tropical. This is a great mistake—a mistake which we make for failing to realize its greatness. Brazil has four distinct climates.

In the north there is a small section of arid and barren land. This portion lacks both moisture and population.

The great central portion can be divided into two parts—the eastern and the western. The western is still quite unexplored. This is the portion which Col. Roosevelt traversed.

We do, however, know that this western portion of Brazil is quite flat with many rivers and a tropical climate.

The great central portion has a much better climate in the east. Here the land is much higher with mountains and valleys. Even within the tropics the climate on these high table lands is cool and refreshing.

All of us passengers owe much to Chas. H. Gates for taking us to Brazil; but I personally feel very grateful to him for showing us more of it than simply Rio de Janeiro. It is the inland and undeveloped lands that are the real surprise of this trip. South America will have much to be thankful for.

The southern portion of Brazil is today the most attractive. Although the coast is tropical one immediately reaches a tableland about 2,000 or 3,000 feet up on going inland. Here the climate is almost temperate. Although the summers are very warm they have stimulating winters with sometimes a little frost.

In centuries to come the great portion of Brazil will be cultivated for it is destined to become the great garden of the world.

THE BAD BOY AS EXCESS ENERGY.

(Grand Rapids Press.)

Being a bad boy is one thing; owning up to it after you have arrived at years' of discretion and honor is another. Yet the late W. R. Nelson, owner and editor of the Kansas City Star, in a letter accepting a degree of doctor of laws from Notre Dame university, took occasion to plead his youthful wilfulness, and say a good word for bad boys in general.

In Nelson's letter he confesses that his father sent him to Notre Dame as a last resort. There he became the leader in college deviltries and was dismissed at the end of his second year. Recalling these adventures of his young days the great editor admits the faculty was correct in dispensing with his influence, expresses undying admiration for the men who disciplined him, and attributes his dislike of being bothered to the Irish blood in his veins. He concludes that because the university sees fit to honor him after such a record, that fact "should afford encouragement to mischievous boys and make them feel that their case is not altogether hopeless."

Nelson ran true to form. He never was honest, and his independence, finding free expression in the new west, was of untold benefit to his city, state and nation. But one wonders where he might have brought up if he has possessed just a little less force, education and opportunity? The very qualities which made Nelson a power for good in Kansas City might have made him a power for evil if his early mischief had been staged in a city slum.

Psychologists have long recognized juvenile mischief as a form of excess energy. The bravest, most original and competent youth in the "gang" takes the lead with the result that the boy with the worst reputation in the neighborhood may be the best fitted against failure in the rough-and-tumble of life. It is an axiom among social workers that the first boy in a gang to turn the corner is the natural leader and the one worth going after. Win him and the rest follow him into the fold like sheep. Such boys are sure to soar high or fall low; they cannot be mediocre. The direction of the progress is determined largely by the wisdom of their parents, teachers and friends.

Society is advancing swiftly in its sympathetic appreciation of boy nature and boy perils; and the further we progress along that line the easier it is to believe there are very few young people actually "black at heart." Some day, when we know how to train them better—and that does not mean the namby-pamby kind, or those who lack discipline—there will be none at all.

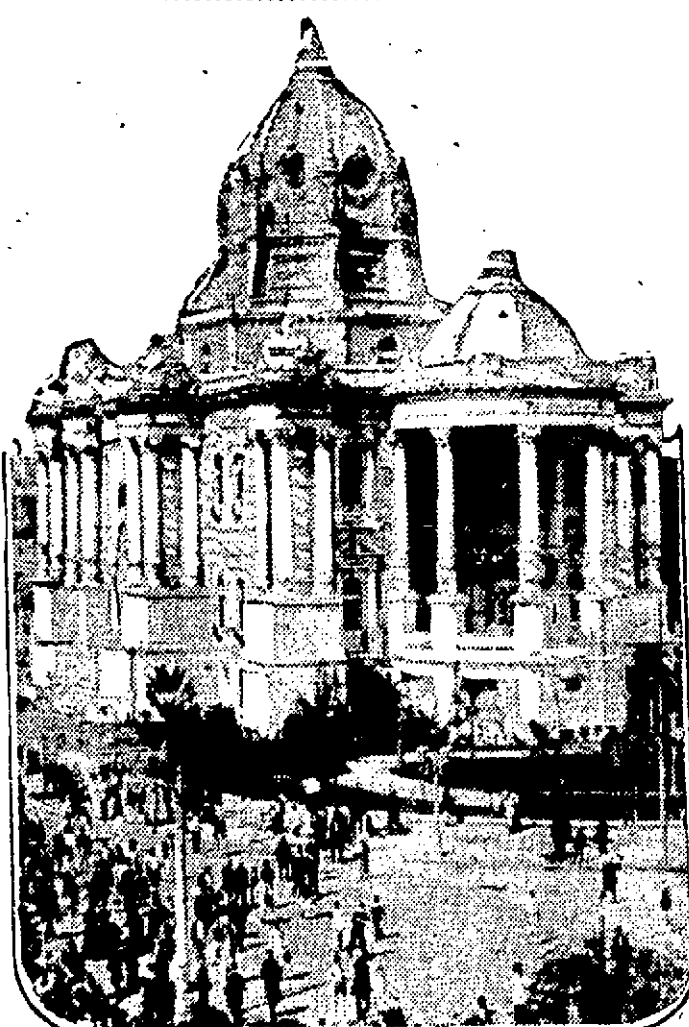

WAR'S "WIDER USE" OF SCHOOLS.

(Kansas City Star.)

Chancellor Strong says the great war will throw on the schools and universities of the United States the chief task of education in the world. "In Europe," he said, "all knowledge, with its accretions of apparatus, is going into the law of war."

A first act of Italy, for example, was to turn its school buildings into barracks and hospitals. Unquestionably education in Europe will suffer.

Yet it may be doubted that the nations needing to rehabilitate themselves when the war is over can afford not to rehabilitate education as a first requisite. It has been demonstrated too thoroughly that the earning power and industrial power of an educated people is far superior to that of an otherwise equal but ignorant people. It can be believed hopefully that even this great disaster of war will not cause the people to forget the benefits derived from the really civilized things of civilization. Berlin's recent appropriation of thirty million dollars for parks and playgrounds is a case in point.

The Monroe palace at Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, where the American republics can settle their differences by arbitration. It was named for President Monroe, author of the Monroe doctrine.

world. So far as we need concern ourselves, however, only this southern portion need be considered. Even this portion alone probably has more fertile undeveloped land than any other country in the world.

On considering the resources of Brazil we again can forget the northern section, and when considering the great central portion we must divide it into two parts. The western central portion—including the Amazon territory—abounds in rubber, mahogany, dyewoods, coffee, and other tropical vegetation.

The eastern central portion is very much like our own very southern states. Here only cotton, cocoa and sugar are now being raised in quantity; but all tropical crops and fruits can here easily be produced. Here are hundreds of thousands of square miles of level, fertile lands with rainfall and sunshine which are absolutely ideal today.

The southern portion is the land of cattle and coffee, although corn and other cereals can here be raised with great productivity. Even this southern portion alone should some day support as much cattle and raise as much grain as the whole of Argentina.

Most persons have no idea of the vastness and productive powers of the fields, forests, mines and water-powers of Brazil. But even those of us who think well of Brazil as a whole fail to realize that the wealth and possibilities of this southern portion alone probably equals that of any other nation, including our own United States.

Mrs. William Hahn and Mrs. F. R. Barrows were both seriously injured today in a runaway accident. For a time it was feared that Mrs. Barrows had suffered a fracture of the skull.

Fort Wayne's newest and largest as well as finest hotel was thrown open to the public Saturday night when the Randall inaugurated service by a public reception. R. B. Hughes, the new proprietor, had made elaborate preparations to receive all callers and all were royally treated. That P. A. Randall has given Fort Wayne a modern hotel goes without saying.

Rev. Joseph Dwenger, bishop of the Catholic diocese of Fort Wayne, officiated yesterday in his last service at the Cathedral for some time. He has canceled all his appointments in the diocese and will leave tomorrow for Mexico, where he hopes to regain his health, which has been poor for some six months. Rev. Father Koenig, of St. Paul's Catholic church, who also is ill, will join Bishop Dwenger in Mexico.

The members of the Fort Wayne and Kokomo teams in the Indiana baseball league were today fined $1 and costs each for playing a game yesterday in violation of the law against desecration of the Sabbath. Mayor Harding had given warning on Sunday that the game should not be played, but as an experiment it was tried and the mayor assessed fines that aggregated $90. No more Sunday games will be attempted inside the city limits.

Chicago, May 25.—Can your vertebrae hit high C. Does your kidney "flat" the top notes? Does your gizzard sing ragtime?

What do you mean, bug house chatter? Nothing foolish about it—it's the latest in medical science—everybody is talking it, and doing it at a medical convention now in session in Chicago.

Dr. George Starr White, of Los Angeles started it when he declared that the human body is always humming and strumming and tum-tum-dee-ing, "throwing off musical notes" about its aches and its ills and that if a person stands upon a certain kind of magnet plate the anatomical symphony will begin, and if you are not tone-deaf you can hear all about the germs of tuberculosis, symptoms, of Bright's disease, gall stones and other false notes that throw bodily functions out of harmony.

Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Sarver are spending this week in Chicago.

Miss Julia Smyser has returned from a few days' visit in Chicago.

Mrs. Harry Whitbeck, of Detroit, Mich., is visiting her mother, Mrs. Carter, of 1028 Jackson street.

Mrs. Titus has returned from Kew-kuk, Iowa, where she spent the winter and is again with her daughter, Mrs. J. E. Collins.

Mrs. Ada Heller Bulger went to Le-land, Mich., Tuesday evening for a few days' vacation. Mrs. Bulger accompanied Mrs. A. J. Detzer.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph F. Miller and daughter have returned from a motor trip to Notre Dame university, where they visited Jerome Miller.

Miss Helene Emmett, of East Wayne street, gave a miscellaneous linen shower on Tuesday evening in honor of Mrs. Frank Schilling, a bride of recent date.

Ralph Dunkelberg has come home from Fort Deposit, Md., where he attended school, to spend the summer with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Dunkelberg.

Miss Celeste and Miss Sadie Fleming left on Monday for Glenwood Springs, Colo., to join Mr. and Mrs. V. A. Fleming, who are spending a few weeks in the west.

Mrs. Almeda Waltz was the guest of honor at a supper party given at the Williams cafeteria Tuesday evening. Pink roses were used as table decorations and Mrs. Waltz received a number of gifts, including flowers.

Mrs. A. B. Morrison, Jr., was the hostess at a bridge party given on Monday afternoon by Mrs. M. C. Rockhill. Intimate friends of the hostess were asked to meet her before she leaves the city to spend the summer at a lake point near Toledo, Ohio.

Mr. and Mrs. John Gaeffle and children, Lucile and Marie, Mr. and Mrs. C. Schultz and daughter, Dorothy, and Mrs. M. Schmidt, of Chicago, and Mrs. Emily Zeldner, of Cleveland, who were here to visit Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Lepper.

THE PLAYERS' AND SINGERS' CLUB of the WILLING WORKERS' AID SOCIETY of FORT WAYNE will hold their recitals in Elks' Temple tonight and to-morrow night.

and other relatives, have returned to their respective homes.

Miss Margie Hanna gave a bird talk at the Hanna school Tuesday afternoon that entertained the children of lower grades very much and a short time ago talked on birds at the Franklin school. Miss Hanna has been in the habit for several years of devoting considerable time to the study of "our feathered songsters."

Mrs. H. F. Koennemann, of 441 Madison street, entertained with a linen shower in honor of Miss Lucy Van Aliman, who is to become the bride of F. H. Crick, of Decatur, Ill., early in June. The house was prettily decorated with a profusion of cupids and hearts and a large bowl of Killarney roses formed the center decoration of the supper table. Miss Van Aliman's chair was tied with a bow of pink tulle.

Baker-Malone.

As beautiful a bride as one could find in a long time was Miss Louise Irma Malone, whose wedding to Mr. Louis Andrew Baker took place at the Cathedral at 9 o'clock Wednesday morning. Rev. John R. Quinlan officiated at the ceremony and mass. Miss Helen Clifford presided at the organ and Miss Amelia Moran and Mr. Carl Weber sang. The bride was attended by Miss Marie Pierre as maid and the bride's brother, Mr. Earl Malone, was groomsmen. The bride presented a most attractive appearance in a modish white gown, short in length, with which she wore a bridal veil of only medium length to correspond. The dress itself was an accordion plaited skirt of original lace over which hung a shorter skirt of chiffon, tulle which had a deep inset of strikingly handsome lace of heavy pattern and a very short pleated ruffle of lace just from the belt. The blouse was of the style known as beche, of tulle over ruffled georgette crepe for neck and sleeves. The veil for the hair was a rounded effect edged with duchess lace and was held just back of the ears with tiny clusters of orange blossoms, then fell in points. A shower bouquet of bride roses and lilies of the valley and a string of pearl beads for the throat were other details of the bridal costume. The bridesmaid's gown was an imported embroidered tulle of pale pink made with pink tulle, while a white hemp braid hat with wide lace insertion in the brim and beautiful rich looking flowers, both pink and white, for trimming were further set off by pink roses which formed the bouquet tied with long ribbons of rose pink shade. The ushers at the church were Messrs. Roland Larimore, Jack Hagan and Robert Smith. The wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Peter Malone, at 1224 West Main street. Covers were laid for twenty-five. The out-of-town guests were Mrs. William Oppenheimer and children, of Chicago, and Miss Grace Malone, of Paducah, Ky. For the wedding breakfast the bride's table was done in bride roses, a wedding cake ornamented in true wedding style, and smilax. Pink and white roses, peonies and sweetpeas decorated the rooms. The bride and groom left in the afternoon for an eastern trip. For traveling the bride wears a stunning suit with Eton jacket of black cloth and a skirt of black and white small plaid English suiting. Her hat is very plain, a black maline with black velvet bows and a bit of black paradise feather, and her blouse is a flesh color chiffon embroidered in pale yellow. The groom is employed by the firm of Mossman & Yarnelle. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Baker.

Morning Musical Society. The closing recital of active members of the Morning Musical society will be held on Friday morning in Elks hall. Mrs. James E. Elliott, Miss Hanna, Miss Olds, and Miss Hiser are in charge of the program. Miss Lang another member of the committee, is still in Chicago pursuing her voice studies.

Weimer-Loser. Miss Hulda Loser, a graduate nurse from the Lutheran hospital training school, and Mr. Walter Weimer, an employee of the Fort Wayne Electric works, were married on Tuesday afternoon at Zion's Lutheran church by Rev. C. H. Luehr. After a wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Weimer will be at home at 925 Buchanan street.

AN INTERESTING RECITAL. Good Program Given by Music Pupils in Elks' Hall.

The hall in the Elks' building was filled last evening by an audience of relatives and friends of pupils giving the recital, and of the teacher of voice work in charge, Mrs. E. H. Kirkland. The program this season was varied from former programs under the same management as Mrs. Kirkland invited a violin pupil of Eugene Troendle, and a piano pupil of Mrs. Florence Huebner-Dukes to take part. Mrs. Kirkland's pupils acquitted themselves with much credit, displaying in important particulars the best average of vocal improvement that has been observed in comparison with previous recitals. There was much steadiness of tone, distinct enunciation and almost invariable accuracy in pitch. Every number was from memory, words as well as music, and every one knew what to sing and how to do it. In several instances, pupils apparently quite nervous from fright, gained in control as they sang and showed that all they need is time and practice. Of the singers Miss Helen Hastings displayed the greatest all round advancement and pleasing voice and she deserved the round of appreciative applause following her Jewel song from "Faust." Miss Miriela Schanz, who has a very musical and pleasing voice and natural attitude for expression, sang two numbers in good style. Miss Eda Simon displayed much progress and sang a difficult selection from "Carmen" very well. Miss Mac Centilire suffered from fright, but even that didn't prevent the audience from recognizing her possibilities so far as a voice of good range and sweet quality is concerned. Miss Irene Noll sang the Delibes "Indian Bell song" with much to commend, although the high notes of the song demand perfect tone placement and development to be "bell-like." Miss Noll's voice is high and clear and the majority of her tones are sweet, but not large. Her work was a good demonstration of Mrs. Kirkland's belief that to best develop her pupils, aside from the routine of exercises, they should study of the best in big operatic works, not because they know how to sing them, but to develop taste, ideas, ambition and general musical intelligence. And such qualities were in evidence throughout the program even with pupils of the least experience, whose songs were of necessity simple in range and demand. Miss Margaret Russell, Miss Allen Snyder, Miss Bessie Tapp, the Messrs. Svaider and William Hayes, whose voice possibilities are out of the ordinary, took part with individual success. Miss Erna Tapp played with much technical facility Der Sohn der Balde, by Keler Bela, and Springtime by Tootsnyk, for the violin. Miss Ruth Lane, pianist, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Lane, appeared twice on the program. Although but sixteen years of age this young girl has a splendidly developed technique and gets a big round tone that has individuality and quality. Musically speaking, Miss Lane has "temperament," and she is an unusually promising young performer.

Baker-Malone.

As beautiful a bride as one could find in a long time was Miss Louise Irma Malone, whose wedding to Mr. Louis Andrew Baker took place at the Cathedral at 9 o'clock Wednesday morning. Rev. John R. Quinlan officiated at the ceremony and mass. Miss Helen Clifford presided at the organ and Miss Amelia Moran and Mr. Carl Weber sang. The bride was attended by Miss Marie Pierre as maid and the bride's brother, Mr. Earl Malone, was groomsmen. The bride presented a most attractive appearance in a modish white gown, short in length, with which she wore a bridal veil of only medium length to correspond. The dress itself was an accordion plaited skirt of original lace over which hung a shorter skirt of chiffon, tulle which had a deep inset of strikingly handsome lace of heavy pattern and a very short pleated ruffle of lace just from the belt. The blouse was of the style known as beche, of tulle over ruffled georgette crepe for neck and sleeves. The veil for the hair was a rounded effect edged with duchess lace and was held just back of the ears with tiny clusters of orange blossoms, then fell in points. A shower bouquet of bride roses and lilies of the valley and a string of pearl beads for the throat were other details of the bridal costume. The bridesmaid's gown was an imported embroidered tulle of pale pink made with pink tulle, while a white hemp braid hat with wide lace insertion in the brim and beautiful rich looking flowers, both pink and white, for trimming were further set off by pink roses which formed the bouquet tied with long ribbons of rose pink shade. The ushers at the church were Messrs. Roland Larimore, Jack Hagan and Robert

AT THE NEW PALACE

SIREN-DRAMA AT PALACE.

"A Fool There Was" Is Tonight's Offering—Submarine Pictures.

That master drama of a siren and her abused victim, "A Fool There Was," the most powerful sermon on the utter futility of lust ever penned, is the tremendous offering at the New Palace tonight with the always fascinating little Parisienne, Theda Bara, as "the woman" and Edward Jose, cast in Robert Hillard's role as "the fool," who forsakes family, position, friends and decency to follow in the sordid trail of "the rag and the bone and the hank of hair" rendered immortal by Kipling's poem, "The Vampire."

Submarine Pictures Tomorrow. Opening tomorrow afternoon the famous Williamson submarine views, the pictures that have made the moving picture world gasp with astonishment at the daring and ingenuity of the brothers who secured them, will be at the New Palace for three days, tomorrow, Friday and Saturday. Accustomed as the movie world is to seeing the impossible accomplished, it could not bring itself to take seriously the announcement of the Williamson brothers that they intended recording through the lens of their camera the wonders of the deep, and every effort was made to discourage the adventurous youths. They stuck to their self-appointed task, however, and the very climax of modern photography is the result. The pictures are startlingly clear and distinct, showing the fauna and flora of the ocean bed in surpassing detail. The fish at play, fighting, the death struggle between a swimmer and a man-eating shark in which the human kills the great fish with an ordinary sheath knife, the marvelous plants that thrive at the ocean's bottom, etc., are all included in these matchless films. An expert will be here to lecture on the views and explain in detail how they were secured. The general admission for these pictures will be ten cents for children, twenty-five cents for adults and thirty-five cents for special entree floor reservations.

AT THE LYRIC.

ART SMITH IN "MOVIES."

Fort Wayne Birdboy is Filmed on the Lyric Program.

The current program at the Lyric theater offers an unusual attraction in its film of Art Smith, which shows the daring Fort Wayne birdboy in some of his marvelous flights at the San Francisco exposition. At the outset one is given a close-range view of Smith "tuning up" his aeroplane for a flight. Then follows the start, and one is finally taken through the thrills of watching Smith's wonderful midnight flights over the exposition buildings, his machine ablaze with fireworks that mark his pathway through the skies. The photograph is one of the most remarkable ever made, and the entire film possesses a peculiar interest to Fort Wayne "movie" patrons.

The remainder of the Lyric's big program is also excellent, notably its views of the exposition grounds and buildings and the gorgeous electric illumination. The "movie" serial beautiful, "The Goddess," by Gouverneur Morris, will be the main feature at the Lyric today. This is an unusual moving picture serial. It is an idyl produced by America's foremost writer of idyls. It is a story to be enjoyed by everybody regardless of their appreciation of motion pictures. Read the story on the first chapter in another part of this paper today.

"The Wrong Woman," one of the most powerful three-act dramas ever produced by Edison, will be another attraction of the Lyric today. Mabel Trunnelle, George Wright and Gladys Huette are the stars featured in this drama.

AT THE COLONIAL

"THE JUGGERNAUT" WILL RETURN.

Sensational "Train Wreck" at Colonial Again Friday and Saturday.

Over one hundred and fifty eager requests from screen followers in the city was the instigation which led the Colonial to look for another two-day engagement the sensational success, "The Juggernaut," the Vitaphone master-drama which featured Earle Williams and Anita Stewart. The piece de resistance of "The Juggernaut" is the sight of a whole train, valued at $50,000, plunging through a flimsy trestle into the river below. Friday and Saturday are the days selected to project this premier "thriller."

Today is the last in which to see Emily Stevens, the prominent young emotional star, enact the startling leading role in the powerful De Greeseac "problem play," "Cora," a star and an offering meeting with unprecedented approval on the part of Colonial patrons.

AT THE JEFFERSON.

Theda Bara, "Vampire Woman," Tomorrow.

The coming weekly program at the Jefferson is without a doubt one of the most attractive and comprehensive that has ever been projected onto the screen at the popular playhouse. Tomorrow, Theda Bara, the seductively beautiful Parisian star who secured such a sensational triumph by her startling depiction of the depraved "Vampire" in "A Fool There Was," creates even a more fascinating part as Iza in a remarkable screen drama taken from Alexandre Dumas' novel of stormy passion, "The Cleopatra Case."

Today's program at the Jefferson contains two brilliant Paramount subjects, "Bootsie Baby" and "The Man on the Case," both adapted from famous stories. The Fort Wayne Animated Weekly and Pathe's News are additional features.

IN THE CHURCHES

MEMBERS OF TRINITY

CHURCH ACCEPT PLANS

Lutheran Congregation Will Build $30,000 Church Edifice.

Plans as drawn by J. M. E. Riedel, architect, and submitted by Nicholas Ketsch, chairman of the building committee, for a new $30,000 church building were accepted by the congregation of Trinity German Lutheran church at the meeting held Tuesday evening at the school hall. The plans were decided on with but a few minor alterations.

The new building, which will be an example of one of the most modern pieces of architecture, will be built on the church lot, Huffman street and St. Marys avenue. Work will be begun as soon as possible and the committee and Rev. G. W. F. Doege, pastor of the congregation, have been working diligently to have the necessary amount subscribed for the building of the new edifice before work is started.

The social rooms will be situated in the large basement as will the kitchen, instruction room, cold storage plant and also the heating system. There will be three main entrances on the first floor leading into a vestibule from which stairways lead to the basement and to the balcony. The organ and choir will be located back of the altar. The balcony will seat 200 people.

The congregation will have another meeting Sunday immediately after the morning services to finish plans for their new church. At this time it will be decided whether brick or pressed brick will be used.

RECEIVE THEIR DIPLOMAS.

Six students of the parochial schools of St. Paul's Catholic church who have finished the course offered by the school were presented with their diplomas of graduation Tuesday evening at the exercises held in the church. Rev. H. F. Joseph Kroll, pastor of the church, delivered a sermon in which he treated of Christian education and the religious element as an essential in the formation of a good character. He also presented the graduates with the diplomas.

Member of the class of 1915 were: Louis Bell and the Misses Clara Suelzer, Rose Kintz, Helen Kohnman, Marie Murphy and Catherine Miller. The services closed with benediction of the blessed sacrament.

WILL SPEAK ON JAPAN.

On account of his absence from the city last week, H. Takimori was prevented from giving his talk at the mid-week meeting of the Plymouth Congregational church concerning his personal observations in Japan, his native country. The talk will be given this evening.

On Sunday night, Rev. A. J. Folson will continue his series of studies on the war problem, which have filled Plymouth church with deeply interested audiences during the past month. Sunday evening the subject will be "The Cape to Cairo Railroad and the War."

Happy Gleaners Entertain.

The Happy Gleaners class of the First M. E. church gave a missionary play, "The Light Bringers," Tuesday evening to a large audience at the church. The affair was a great success. The costumes of the young ladies, prepared by themselves, represented many countries.

Agoga Bible Class Meets.

Everybody's Birthday.

A social gathering by celebrating everybody's birthday will be held by the Unique society of Trinity (German Lutheran) church, Oakland and Huffman streets, Friday evening. In celebrating everybody's birthday each one will make a contribution of as many cents as they are old. Games will be played and refreshments will be served.

Theological Society.

The regular weekly meeting of the Fort Wayne lodge of the Theological society will be held Wednesday evening in the Art building, corner Webster and Wayne streets, at 8 o'clock. Subject: "Esoteric Christianity." Any persons interested are invited to attend.

Church Notes.

The Ladies' Aid society of Calvary U. B. church holds its anniversary service and election of officers Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. A. A. Bowser, 1130 East Pontiac street.

What "Reliability" Means

Every store nowadays claims to be "reliable." And while the word "reliable" has but one meaning, that meaning becomes modified or emphasized, according to the particular store that claims it for a virtue. We all know the store that is reliable in an indefinite sort of way. You don't know just where you stand when trading there. Other stores are fairly reliable—which means that they are trustworthy up to a certain degree. Still others (and such stores are unfortunately very few) are very reliable—which means that the utmost dependence can be placed on the store, its promises, and its merchandise.

The new Tepper Store in Fort Wayne is a shining light and example of the latter class of truly reliable stores. This store is modeled along the same lines as our four other stores in Selma, Ala., Plainfield and New Brunswick, N. J., and Elmira, N. Y. Absolute trustworthiness is the keystone upon which our reputation will rest. We make no promises, verbal or written, which we do not fulfill to the letter.

In all the merchandise which we carry in our new store, it is our intention to eliminate all but worthy and dependable qualities, and yet our prices will be the very lowest obtainable in Fort Wayne.

WHAT'S GOING TO STOP SUBMARINES? DESTROYERS THEIR ONLY EFFICIENT FOE.

The fastest warship in the world. It is also the largest destroyer.

The destroyer "Swift" of the British navy, which makes thirty-six miles an hour.

What's going to stop the submarine? How is the hidden demon of the deep to be frustrated in spreading explosive death? How are warships and merchantmen to escape its torpedo fangs?

There are three methods of combating the submarine.

Mines usually will protect a fleet in harbor. The game is then too hazardous for the submarine.

The aeroplane is a partial defense against the submarine—when submarines are operating near an aerial base. From his position high in the air the aerial observer can see a submarine submerged at great depth. But the aviator cannot destroy submarines. He can only report their presence and turn the work over to the destroyers.

The torpedo destroyers, therefore, are the only formidable foe of the submarines. Submarines against submarines have accomplished nothing. As a defense against their kind they are out of the reckoning.

The swift destroyer, that slender, low, smooth craft, the real grayhound of the sea, is the one protection. Let a destroyer sight a submarine, and unless the latter sinks suddenly it is doomed. Of the two the destroyer, much larger, is the quicker. Its value lies in its speed.

The destroyer can literally swim rings around the submarine. It can even still dodge a torpedo when the shiny missile is as close as 200 yards. Quick maneuvering is its answer. It is an elusive target, too elusive for the slower torpedo and the slower submarine. A destroyer that is torpedoes has really been asleep. They have been built not to be torpedoed.

How does a destroyer destroy? In the first place it has the same tools as the submarine. It has torpedo tubes. The submarine with half a chance can sink under the destroyer's torpedoes. But the destroyer has a better chance. One shot from its four-inch guns is enough to sink the thin-skinned submarine forever.

Destroyers carry from two to six four-inch guns and can make from thirty to thirty-five miles per hour. They are quick-handlers, in the words of seamen. The fastest warship in the world is the "Swift," England's ghost destroyer, which makes thirty-six miles an hour and can turn speedily.

Their speed is almost twice as great as the surface speed of the submarine. When submerged the submarines can only make from ten to sixteen miles per hour.

Should a periscope suddenly show close to a destroyer, the latter could dash ahead at full speed with the idea of ramming and sinking the submarine with its sharp steel stem. Then it would be up to the submarine crew to submerge quickly or be lost.

The modern destroyer is a vessel ranging from 700 tons to the 1835-ton "Swift" of the British navy. The length varies from 250 to 400 feet. They are very narrow. Power is furnished in the most modern by oil engines. From two to six eighteen-inch torpedo tubes are part of the equipment and in the average destroyer are four four-inch rapid-firers and frequently a few lesser rifles, including a pair of machine guns. The hulls are not armored. The destroyer relies on speed.

Besides offering a defense against like ships and an offense against submarines, this equipment is sufficient to sink merchantmen.

Side elevation of a torpedo destroyer, the lean fast foe of submarines.

200 ATHLETES IN PURDUE CONTESTS

Lafayette, Ind., May 26.—At least ten colleges with possibly 200 athletes will be represented in the first annual track and field meet of the newly formed Indiana inter-scholastic athletic association which will be held here next Saturday. Although all the entries have not been received, it is practically certain the following schools will send full teams: Indiana, Notre Dame, DePauw, Wabash, Earlham, Hanover, Butler, Franklin, State normal and Purdue.

The meet will be governed by conference rules, but in order to give the smaller schools a better chance, the rule which prohibits conference colleges competing against teams which use freshmen has been waived.

LABOR SHORTAGE IS FEARED SOON

Mills Will Not Have Men Enough by Aug. 1, It is Claimed.

Pittsburgh, May 26.—In this part of the United States, at any rate, the much discussed crisis between Germany and the United States has not only had no paralyzing effect on trade plans and industrial conditions, but has seemingly had no adverse effect at all. It may truthfully be said that at this moment the steel industry is beginning to count the weeks until it will be operating at as full a rate as the supply of labor will permit, and conservative estimates are that this point will be reached within three months or by August.

There has been a great improvement in the outlook during the past few days. The favorable developments include a further increase in export business, a continuance through April of the increased structural business that was shown by the March report of the association of structural shops, the large orders placed by the Pennsylvania railroad system, and prospects that the Pennsylvania buying will encourage buying by other railroads, as well as by outside consumers of steel.

Longootee Is Hard Hit by Storm on Tuesday.

Longootee, Ind., May 26.—Extensive damage was done by the heaviest storm of many years which passed over this vicinity yesterday. Many houses were unroofed, small buildings were blown over and many buildings shifted on their foundations. Windows of houses and stores were blown in and telephone poles were leveled for miles. Hundreds of shade and orchard trees were uprooted and silos turned over. The path of the storm was narrow. The wind was accompanied by furious rain and lightning. A tree was blown on a local passenger train just leaving here and several windows of the day coach were smashed.

Wheeling, W. Va., May 25.—Wheeling hopped to Evansville yesterday in a 2 and 1 affair, giving the Rivermen another beating to add to their losing streak. Score: Evansville 10 000 000 0—1 Wheeling 2 000 000 0—2 Batteries—Young and Hauser; Davis and Martin.

Dayton, O., May 25.—Terra Haute won a 10 and 2 affair from the locals yesterday, and McCafferty, of the visitors, received a badly banged leg in a slide to the plate. Score: Dayton 02 000 000 0—2 Terra Haute 04 000 000 0—10 Batteries—Noel, Compton and Orris; Clegg and McCarty.

NATIONAL LEAGUE SCORES.

Brooklyn, May 25.—Brooklyn passed Pittsburgh and went into third place by defeating the Pirates 5 to 1. Pfeffer was hit freely but was effective in the pinches and received brilliant support, particularly from Wheat and Cuthshaw. The score: R.H.E. Pittsburgh 1 000 000 0—10 1 Brooklyn 0 02 200 01—5 11 0 Batteries—McQuillan, Harmon and Schang; Pfeffer and McCarty.

Philadelphia, May 25.—Alexander twirled in superb form and Philadelphia won from Chicago 3 to 0, taking first place in the race from their opponents. Only one Chicago player got past second base. Score: R.H.E. Chicago 0 000 000 0—0 2 2 Philadelphia 0 000 002 10—3 6 1 Batteries—Humphries, Standridge and Breannan; Alexander and Kilfiter.

New York, May 25.—St. Louis had a big seventh inning, scoring seven runs in that period, which enabled them to take the first game of their series with New York 11 to 5. Score: R.H.E. St. Louis 0 000 027 02—11 14 3 New York 0 010 030 01—5 6 3 Batteries—Doak and Snyder; Tesreau, Barnard, Peritt and McLean and Smith.

Boston, May 25.—Boston won from Cincinnati 3 to 1. Boston's first tally came in an unusual manner, three hit balls stopping on fair ground on the third base line, when Cincinnati fielders waited for them to roll out. Manager Stallings, who has been sick, reappeared on the Boston bench. Score: R.H.E. Cincinnati 0 000 001 00—1 7 2 Boston 0 000 200 01—3 9 1 Batteries—Benton, Lear and Doolin; Rudolph and Gowdy.

SQUIRREL FOOD Taking Her to the Ball Game. BY AHERN

HUGH FULLERTON THROWS UP SPONGE

He's Through With Trying to Guess Them, He Says.

(By Hugh Fullerton). The major league baseball season is a long time getting settled. The dope is turning flip flops, batters who never could hit are way up, teams that are notoriously weak at bat are near the top, strong base running teams are far down the list, weak fielding teams are among the leaders in fielding.

There is Pat Moran's Phillies, who have been leading practically all year, last in fielding, and next to last in batting and base running; which shows pretty conclusively that pitching alone has kept them up in the race. The Chicago White Sox, the alleged "hitless wonders," second in batting and Washington, which we feared lacked the fielding steadiness to win, leading the American league in fielding, and the Yankees, who looked good in fielding, in base running and in pitching, hitting within a few points of the alleged slugging Cubs, and the Athletics, supposed to be crippled in batting strength, ranking third.

Imagine Pittsburgh's Federals leading their league in fielding! And the Orioles, down in last place and still third in batting strength!

From the dope of the first month and a half of the season it is evident there are going to be some startling changes in the standing of the clubs if the weather ever settled down to business. The clubs are not going on form as yet. Chicago's Cubs have surprised themselves. The team is hitting some fifteen points above its real goal, and the pitchers are going stronger than they will later.

New York is just starting, and is showing a lot of improvement which ought to continue when the cripples get back into the lineup.

The Boston Braves have suffered a lot through the absence of Evers. With Evers there the team probably would even now be out in front.

In the American league Detroit's bid seems real. The team is playing a lot of baseball, and getting fair pitching. While the White Sox now are regarded as the Boston Red Sox most dangerous competitor, the Chicago lunch has been winning on wonderful pitching rather than on good bat playing, and, if this continues, Detroit's hitting power will tell.

The Red Sox are awakening to the fact that they will have to hustle to get by with the pennant. The team has been very slow getting going and all has not been harmonious. Gardner's illness has been a heavy handicap.

The Yankees have kept hustling but have revealed weak spots in fielding and evidently still lack the hitting punch to carry them to the top.

BARON AVIATOR WANTS KIDDIES TO SEE HIM.

Baron von Figlymessy, the Hungarian-American aviator, who will be seen at the Centlivre park Saturday, May 29 next, in a practical demonstration of aerial warfare as it is now conducted in Europe, wants all the kids in the city and neighboring towns to see his great fights.

To be sure that the children can afford to see him at close range when he outflies and destroys the scenic fort, the baron has induced the management of his exhibition to place the price of admission for children at 25 cents, with no extra charge for anything after they get in. In fact the baron insists that ushers be provided to look after the young ones and that they see the show from the best spot. The age limit is 16 years.

"It's the youngsters," says the baron, "that have been taught to believe in the aeroplane as a 'toy' but the kids will grow up and live in an aerial age. I want them to hold me as their ideal and always remember it was me who first showed them the kind of flying they might be able to do, should this country at some future time be called on to defend its shores against the invader."

SHOP AND RAIL ROAD NEWS

LANDED ANOTHER BIG CONTRACT

Bass Foundry and Machine Co. Will Build Fifty-Nine More Steel Tanks.

W. C. Slater, of the Bass Foundry and Machine works, who went to New York last Sunday, returned this morning on the Pennsylvania Manhattan limited with a nice order for boiler and machine shop products. The order calls for fifty-nine steel tanks and a lot of miscellaneous machinery in connection. It came from the company who placed an order, through Mr. Slater's efforts, for 123 steel tanks a week or two ago. The material for these tanks has been assembled and the boiler shop is now at work upon them, running with a double force night and day. There is considerable machine work on the tank connections and the machine shop is getting busy and working full time. The new and enlarged boiler plant of the Bass works has not been so busy since it was erected three or four years ago as it is at present. Nor did the company ever employ a larger force in the boiler shop than it has at present.

BIBLE CLASS ELECTION.

The Y. M. C. A. bible class held its annual election at the assembly rooms of the association last night, with the following result: Lester Persing, president; Mr. Shivers, vice president, and E. S. Gerig, secretary. The spring term closed sooner than previously intended, owing to the fact that the teacher, Rev. T. Pliny Potts, will leave on an extended trip through the east next week. The fall term will open Tuesday evening, September 7. The closing term was a most interesting and profitable one to the students, who think Rev. Potts a most capable instructor.

REPAIRING TELEGRAPH LINE.

The recent storm broke down about twenty telegraph poles of the Nickel Plate line at Arnold. The space covered by these poles is about one-half mile and temporary repairs were made so the break did not greatly interfere with the operations of the telegraph and telephone systems. This morning a number of Western Union linemen began replacing the broken poles and expect to finish the work this evening.

ELECT VICE PRESIDENTS.

Tuesday the B. L. E. at their triennial convention elected the following assistant chief engineers: M. W. Cullis, Seabolt, Mo.; H. E. Willes, Washington, D. C.; E. Corrigan, Hillsboro, Tex.; for six-year terms; and M. Montgomery, San Francisco, Cal., to fill the vacancy caused by the death of E. W. Hurley.

Friday Division Operator H. B. Reynolds will close the examinations in the book of rules on the Western division of the Pennsylvania. On that day he will hold classes at Crestline.

INDUSTRIAL NOTES.

Brakeman T. W. Smith, of the Nickel Plate, is off duty on account of the illness of one of his relatives.

W. L. Wilk left for Pittsburg last night on business for the Pennsylvania motive power department.

Henry Shuster, foreman of carpenters at the Pennsylvania shops, has recovered from an illness and resumed work.

Nickel Plate Conductor G. T. Stevenson has gone to Fostoria to spend three or four days with relatives.

Nickel Plate Engineer John Moore is taking three or four days off duty to look after some private business.

H. H. Roberts, traveling passenger agent of the Lehigh Valley, was a caller at the several ticket offices today.

Mr. and Mrs. M. O. Shookman will leave for Canton, Ohio, tomorrow, to visit friends three or four days. Mr. Shookman is a Pennsylvania machinist.

Nickel Plate Firemen Ed Hunsaker and Dallas Wilford resumed work this morning, after being off duty a few days.

Machinist C. Theisman, of the Western Gas Construction company, has resumed his duties after an illness of six weeks.

Boilermaker C. Geismann, who was sick a week, has resumed work at the Western Gas Construction company's plant.

Brakeman E. N. McCulloch, of the Nickel Plate, was called to Pierceton yesterday on account of the illness of some member of his family residing there.

Machinist Frank Hebert and Boiler-maker Henry Heine have returned to Fort Wayne after spending ten days on the road inspecting stationary boilers from Sandusky to Clark.

L. B. Hushup had a toe crushed at 8:30 o'clock this morning. He was at work in the Pennsylvania boiler shop when a block of wood dropped upon his foot with the result mentioned.

Vernie W. Allman, a recent graduate from the International Business college, has taken a position as stenographer with Shipping Clerk J. F. Kiess, at the Fort Wayne Electric works.

Arthur E. Pope, mechanical engineer, of the American Road Machine company, who passed through a dangerous surgical operation at the Lutheran hospital Monday, is doing well and will recover.

Commercial Agent O. E. Wagner, of the G. R. & I., and his wife, will attend the funeral of Mrs. Paul Jones at Lagrange tomorrow afternoon. The deceased was Mrs. Wagner's grandmother.

C. D. Wheeler, head of the publication and advertising department of the Fort Wayne Electric works, returned home last night. For three weeks he was looking after business in New York and Philadelphia for the company.

Conductors T. H. Gallivan, W. O. Miller and L. M. Jackson and Brakemen V. M. Grummons, W. F. Roush, A. L. Burns and B. J. Merrillat, who had been off duty for various reasons, reported for work on the Nickel Plate this morning.

Superintendent A. A. Lyons, of the Kanawha & Michigan railroad, ordered twenty-eight trainmen and mechanics discharged from service at Middleport, for entering saloons at Pomeroy, two miles distant. Middleport voted dry recently.

Hugh T. Hogan, foreman of the Pennsylvania machine shop, returned from Cincinnati this morning. He had been visiting relatives and friends there, including being his son, Hugh Hogan and Philip Landy, who are foremen in the B. & O. shops.

Enthusiastic witnesses of the races at the Indianapolis speedway Saturday will be Otto Adams, of the Traction company, and Ed Felts, of the Fort Wayne Brick and Power company. They are friends of one of the drivers. The trip to and from Indianapolis will be made in an automobile.

V. H. Smart, the weighmaster at the Nickel Plate yards, who has been sick and off duty several weeks, is still unable to work, there being no improvement lately. Mr. Smart is one of the old employees of the Nickel Plate, being a member of veterans' association. He is also a member of the O. R. O. and the B. R. T.

H. W. Burtlett, yard fireman on the Washakie, working at nights, and his bride, returned yesterday from a three weeks' honeymoon trip in the east and Mr. Burtlett, with a box of cigars for the boys, showed up at the yards for duty last night. He works with Engineer W. H. Harper. Mr. and Mrs. Burtlett will reside on Brandriff street.

Monday a gang of Italian laborers on the Chicago and Erie road, who were dismissed from the employ of the company some weeks before, were ejected from the bunk cars stationed at Markle, which they refused to vacate after being discharged by the railroad. County officials from Huntington went out and "fired" the gang. These men were dropped from the pay rolls when they refused to work until a foreman who had been discharged was reinstated. The foreman was accused of collecting money for a man who had not worked for some time.

HEAVILY FINED FOR BEATING HIS HORSE

Jim Robinson Mauled His Beast in Presence of Large Crowd.

After listening to conclusive testimony against James Robinson, a drayman, charged with cruelty to animals, Judge Kerr assessed a fine of $20 and costs, from which judgment Robinson took an appeal to the circuit court. It was shown that he had given the animal a terrible lashing with a whip and then struck it over the head with a club in the rear of the Perfection Biscuit company's plant on Pearl street, Tuesday afternoon, first whipping the horse because it had moved from the place where he had placed it and again after it had become frightened from mistreatment and had run away. Four young men, employees of the Perfection company, gave temperate and unprejudiced testimony and Officer Joseph Degitz, who arrested Robinson, told of the condition in which he found the abused animal.

Penal Farm for Wife-Beater.

Judge Kerr rendered his decision in the case of George Svanak, the Pole who gave his wife a terrible beating at their Edsall avenue home last Saturday, and assessed a fine of $10 and costs and sentenced him to ninety days at the state penal farm. His attorney gave notice of appeal and Svanak's wife and some of his friends went out to make an effort to procure the $200 appeal bond required by the court. Mrs. Svanak was busy as a bee about the court room, but did not attempt to repeat the scene she created Tuesday, when she clung to her husband and declared she would accompany him to jail.

First Time in Quarter Century.

Henry Ormsby, who was found drunk and out from an overload of drink at the corner of St. Mary's avenue and Third street, declared to the court that this was his first appearance before a police magistrate in Fort Wayne for twenty-five years and he was given a chance to make it another quarter century, which he promised to do and went forth free.

IS AFTER HENSINGER.

Parole Officer Slater from the Jeffersonville reformatory, appeared at the city court and police headquarters Wednesday morning and attempted to get a remission of the sentence of Fred Hensinger, now doing fifty days on conviction of adultery, that he might take the young man back to the prison to resume his sentence. Hensinger was out on parole and refuses to keep himself free of trouble. He was penalized a few days ago for living in adultery with Mrs. Hilda Walker on Broadway. Officer Slater says they have had no end of trouble about Hensinger since his parole and the reformatory authorities want him back. City Judge Kerr, Prosecutor Callahan and Chief Lenz declined to acquiesce in the turning over of Hensinger, fearing complications with the state accounting board in the matter of his unpaid fine and costs. The matter will probably be taken up with Governor Halston by the reformatory officials.

GOODS NOT DELIVERED.

The police department is attempting to learn what became of about $80 worth of merchandise purchased and paid for by a customer at the Orpheum clothing store in the Orpheum theater building, Calhoun and Montgomery streets, last Saturday. The customer ordered her purchase delivered to 618 Davis street and a messenger service with headquarters on Brackenridge street was employed to make the delivery. Manager August, of the clothing store, learned Tuesday that the delivery never had been made and he also discovered that the messenger concern had vacated its Brackenridge street quarters.

Robison Park opens Sunday.

EIGHTY-FIVE LEAVE FOR THE ENCAMPMENT

Eighty-five tickets were sold for the two special cars over the Fort Wayne and Northern Indiana Traction company's line to Marion Wednesday morning on account of the state encampment of the G. A. R. The cars left from the traction station at 9:10 o'clock. Others took later cars and it is estimated that one hundred or more Fort Wayne people will be in attendance at the encampment.

Delegates were sent from both local G. A. R. posts and the various auxiliary orders, besides many others who were not selected as delegates.

MORE RAIN COMING.

Thunderstorm Promised by Weatherman for Thursday.

According to the advance dope handed out by P. McDonough, the official weather forecaster, another thunderstorm is headed this way and is due to arrive some time Thursday. While there is a possibility that it may get sidetracked before reaching Fort Wayne, the chances are it will come through on schedule time.

Up to the present time in May there has been only eight days upon which no precipitation of rain has been recorded. The weather has been most unfavorable and many farmers have been compelled to replant their corn.

A motion has been filed in the United States court by the plaintiff asking for the dismissal of the case brought by the New York, Chicago & St. Louis Railroad company against W. F. Smith & Co.

CUTTING CORNERS WILL BE UNLAWFUL

City Council Passes Ordinance to Control Downtown Traffic.

When Mayor Hosey shall have signed the ordinance passed by the council Tuesday night for the better regulation of traffic down town, it will be an offense punishable by a fine for any person to cross a street at intersections where there is a traffic officer other than at right angles. In other words, the practice of "cutting the corners" will be an offense against the ordinance. The same ordinance also requires vehicles, including street cars, to stop back of the crossing line when the traffic officer's signal gives clearance to traffic from another direction. This ordinance was passed at the behest of Chief of Police Lenz, who has found the need of it and other measures for the rational control of traffic in the downtown districts at certain hours of the day. It was passed by a vote of 5 to 0, Deitschel, Keller, Kinder, Lepper, Rogge and Smith voting against it. The new ordinance providing for lights and bell signals on bicycles, tricycles and motorcycles and the times and occasions for using them was killed out of hand, the council deeming present ordinances sufficient.

Wage Ordinance is Killed.

The council made short shrift of Councilman Korte's ordinance providing for a minimum wage in city employment and fixing 25 cents an hour, nine hours a day and twenty-six days a month as the conditions by which the executive department should be bound in the hiring of men. That the council did not take the matter seriously was indicated by the fact that the measure was tabled by a vote of 13 to 2. A few weeks ago, when the park board salary list was up for establishment, Korte announced that he was going to bring an ordinance to boost the pay of the city laborers. It was pointed out Tuesday night that the minimum wage ordinance doubtless would be invalid and that, moreover, such a minimum scale would result in the loss of their jobs by a large number of city employees who are practically pensioners.

To Keep Stable Away from Bridge.

Without a dissenting vote the council passed on first reading an ordinance introduced by Member Peter Deitschel, of the Ninth ward, to prevent the construction of a livery stable by Fred H. Meyers at the north approach of the new Harrison street bridge. It was referred to the committee on rules, regulations and ordinances and probably will be passed after it has taken the regular course. The ordinance makes it unlawful to erect a livery stable outside the fire limits, and declaring such a place to be a public nuisance in residential districts. A petition signed by over 200 Bloomington residents protesting against the Myers barn was presented with the ordinance. The people of Bloomington say they have suffered much from the fact that the approach to their part of the city over the Wells street bridge is made unsightly by the clutter of stables, coal yards and the like, and they do not want the approach to the state new Harrison street bridge so impaired.

For Flood Prevention.

The council passed ordinances appropriating a total of $750 to the incidental claims account for the purpose of defraying preliminary expenses incurred in the circulation of petitions to ask the courts to establish a flood prevention, district under the new special law. The city treasury will be reimbursed from the assessments made for flood works if the movement succeeds.

After some contentious debate the council passed the ordinance that gives market-keepers who grow the produce they sell the first right to choose stalls and stands on the city market. President Brady explained that a report on the ordinance had been delayed in order to give Mayor Hosey, who at first was opposed to the ordinance, opportunity to study and understand its provisions.

An ordinance was passed requiring property owners who construct vaults and arcways beneath the sidewalks in front of their property to file a bond to save the city harmless from suits for damages that may arise from such construction. The expected amendment fixing a rental for such use of the streets did not appear.

After having defeated a motion to suspend the rules in order that an ordinance appropriating $300 to the engineering account of the park department to pay for inspection of boulevard work might be passed at once and the money made available, Councilman Korte after all other business had been disposed of, moved a reconsideration and the ordinance was passed. He explained that he did not know that the money was needed at once to pay for two weeks' inspection work for which the park board was now in arrears to inspectors.

Other Ordinances.

The council appropriated $675 to the legal department to settle various claims against the city which have been compromised by City Attorney Colerick. After two slight changes had been made the budget of the park board for its expenditures during the balance of the year was passed, as was also the ordinance creating offices and positions in the park board and fixing the salaries of them. To the committee on finance was referred an ordinance appropriating $5,000 to the sewer repair account, an expenditure made necessary by the cleaning of the intercepting sewer and by conditions in many of the sewer catch basins. To the committee on contracts and franchises were referred ordinances ratifying board of works contracts with the Bass Foundry and Machine company for the purchase of a boiler for the city electric light works, with the Detroit Stoker company for equipment for the boiler and with the Fort Wayne and Northern Indiana Traction company which has just been granted a franchise to move its tracks from the sides to the center of the thoroughfare on State street.

After formally accepting an invitation to participate in the Decoration day parade next Monday the council Member Schlebecker a committee to make arrangements.

FOR WOMAN ON SCHOOL BOARD.

Petitors bearing the names of 1,057 voters of Fort Wayne were filed with the city council Tuesday evening asking that body to elect a woman member of the school board when the council comes to choose a successor to Jesse Macbeth. With those previous filed the petitions given to the council Tuesday evening brought the total of names up to a figure beyond 3,500. The council merely received the petitions Tuesday evening and placed them with the others on file. More names will be added before the time for the election, which will take place Tuesday evening, June 8.

FLOOD PREVENTION WORK.

Much Interest in Labor of Getting Petitions Signed.

Following the mass meeting at the Commercial club Monday evening to launch the arduous task of getting enough signatures to the petitions for a drainage district to require the courts to act, there has been something like enthusiasm in many parts of the city. Meetings are being arranged in different sections at which the law will be explained and petitions presented for signature. The people of Bloomington are preparing for a big meeting Friday night at the Bloomington school and that section of the city is being thoroughly billed. The subject of flood prevention work was brought up in the meeting of the city council Tuesday evening and Councilman Agne, of the First ward, spoke of the enthusiasm that has been aroused. City Attorney Colerick related to the council that on Tuesday Deputy County Auditor Jay Brown volunteered to take a petition among Lakeside people and came back two hours later with 175 signatures. Fred Gerke, of the Fifth ward, has the honor of having been the first to attach his signature to a petition, having done so at the office of City Attorney Colerick Tuesday morning.

DISCUSS COMPENSATION LAW.

Mayor Hosey and Members Kelly, Sinker and Hilkemann, of the board of works, had a long and interesting discussion Wednesday with J. W. Weyer, state agent of the Lodon Guarantee and Accident company, regarding the operations of the new workmen's compensation law which will become effective this fall. Mr. Weyer is an expert on the subject of the kind of indemnity the new law will require Indiana municipalities to carry out explained the Indiana statute on numerous points. The board of works will soon take out extensive policies for the waterworks department and the risk agents here are taking great interest in the prospect.

PHYSICIANS ARE OUT IN STATEMENT

Would Rectify Injustice in Phase of Recent Trial at Van Wert.

The following statement issued by three well-known Fort Wayne physicians is self-explanatory:

"By reason of the printed accounts of the trial of Miss Lulu Wilson for the killing of Levy H. Jacobs, at Van Wert, Ohio, connecting the name of Miss Minnie Murchland with the same as the 'woman in the case' a great injustice has been done to Miss Murchland, of Monroeville, Indiana.

"In her testimony Miss Wilson related statements supposed to have been made to her by Jacobs to the effect that 'Jacobs was the father of the child' 'that the child was dead,' 'that he paid for the hospital expenses and operation, etc.'

"We attended Miss Murchland during an operation at the Saint Joseph hospital October 21st 1914, and Dr. Drayor has attended her from June 20th 1913 continuously up to and for some time subsequent to the operation. There was nothing in her sickness or the operation that pertained to or was connected with, directly or indirectly, any unlawful operation, the birth of a child, or any other unlawful or improper circumstances. The expenses of the operation, medical treatment and hospital care were paid by Miss Murchland, personally and not by Levy Jacobs as intimated and stated in the printed reports of the trial.

"The operation performed upon Miss Murchland was performed at the Saint Joe hospital, Fort Wayne, Indiana, and related to the gall bladder and the appendix and for no other purpose and to our definite knowledge Miss Murchland never had any other operation than as above stated.

"We hereby certify to the truth of the above statement.

A Nurse says:

"I have been a trained nurse for some fifteen years, and like many nurses, drank strong coffee. About two years ago I had to call a halt. I missed my coffee until some one recommended Postum, which I have used ever since, recommending it to many of my patients."

A Teacher says:

"I have been a coffee drinker ever since I can remember. I have been teaching school for sixteen years, and became more and more nervous. I could not sleep. After reading some of your literature I decided to try Postum. I have been using it about thirty days; my nerves have improved; I have no headache; sleep peacefully, and am able to do my school work better."

A Doctor says:

"I often find it necessary to prohibit the use of coffee for my patients, and have advised the use of Postum with good results to the nervous system and digestive apparatus."

CHAPTER I.

Dear Barclay:

Every individual voter feels that he could run the nation better than those appointed to do so by himself and thousands of others just like him. One voter would put the tariff higher than it ever was before; the next would abolish it. But, whichever type of thinker gets his candidates into power, there remain always in these United States millions of people who have to be poor, dirty and discontented. From this even a child would conclude either that a vast majority of people are doomed to unhappiness by the God who made them or that a vast majority of politicians are incapable governors. As to the first conclusion, we know nothing; but as to the second, we are certain beyond peradventure. With mighty few exceptions, those whom we put over us to govern us are the most incompetent lot of legislators and administrators in history. For the most part they are men vaguely trained to the law. They talk better and offend less than any other class of men. They are the average man who is making or trying to make an honest living. They make it their business to be conspicuous, instead of the opposite, and so get themselves elected. As a body of men they know practically nothing about anything useful or important, and their small minds are so tangled with the little law they know that they are unable to see through the tangle into the heart of law, which is justice. If lawyers could be counted on to do right the pawnbroker down the street and the shoemaker round the corner would not have to be called away from affairs, important to them, to sit on juries and do justice.

But the thing goes deeper. What in each voter's judgment is the one chief thing that is wrong with these United States? There would be almost as many answers as there are voters. I've asked lots of men, and no two agreed, but I liked one man's answer a lot. He said: "The chief trouble with the country is that its citizens have to pay taxes when they ought to be receiving dividends. And this," he said, "would be the case if from the start we had been governed by our best minds instead of by our worst; if as a nation we had been run from the beginning the way Standard Oil, for instance, has been run as a trust."

I am not standing up for the rapaciousness of trusts, only for their efficiency. As a nation we have been more rapacious and dishonest than any trust that ever lived. This being so, and a blot upon us that can never be wiped out, a wrong of our own doing that can never be righted, it is ten thousand pities that we haven't been efficient, too.

How many billions of dollars was this country worth, as land, coal, oil, forest, gold, silver, iron, etc., etc.? Only astronomers think in big enough figures to answer that. Anyhow, as a nation we grabbed, stole and cheated it all away from the people who owned it. And then we began to play ducks and drakes with it. If from the start our resources could have been handled by a Rockefeller he would have been a thousand times richer than he is, but we would none of us be so poor. And our house would be clean and efficient from garret to cellar, and not gutted and creaky and full of vermin and half the ceilings down.

Think of a whole country run as a trust, with employment at more than a fair turn for every able-bodied man, and fat dividends for everybody in good years! In such a state by force of public opinion even a Bryan might be made useful. Even in Utopia there are offices which have to be swept out.

If there is salvation ahead of us, instead of ruin, something of this sort will have to be worked out from what is left to us of our natural resources.

Fulfilling these three of us who are rich enough and content enough as individuals will be pulled down from our high places and trampled by an unreasoning mob until there is no longer anything stable nor anyone contented. The air of this great city which we breathe is 30 per cent air and 70 per cent revolution. In other parts of the country the percentage of revolution is greater.

The only man with sufficient mind and power to effect anything good is yourself. But if you personally were to preach the gospel of efficiency people would think you were working to put it bluntly, for your own pocket. This gospel then ostensibly must not come from you. It must not come from the rich. From whom then? From the poor, you answer. But alas, my friend, even the champions of the poor are open to suspicion.

This gospel then must come from where? Why, from heaven, of course, whence all good gospels have come, or are generally believed to have come. And, seeing that we are in America, where the women are given the best of everything, our heaven-sent messenger must be a woman.

I see your gesture of horror. But she shall not be as you see her. She shall be young and beautiful and good and sincere. She shall not speak her own thoughts, but ours. The masses will believe in her. The classes may, and if they don't they will have sense enough to pretend to.

With you to help, I believe, upon my word of honor, that I can make this thing happen. Will you help? What do you think?

Yours as ever,
MILES STILLITER.

To this letter Professor Stilliter received the following answer by return messenger:

Dear Stilliter:

I'll help if you can answer one thing satisfactorily. To be a successful gospelist the woman, as you intimate, must be sincere. She must believe what she preaches. If she is sincere, how can she tell people that she comes from heaven? You say she must come from heaven in order to believe. It is quite a riddle. I know that you have been thinking and experimenting for years toward some such end as this. But I am a business man, and I have to be shown.

Yours with sincere interest,
B.

Professor Stilliter answered to this:

Dear Barclay:

She only has to believe that she comes from heaven. If she can be made to believe that, are you satisfied?

That night the two men met by appointment. Outlining his plan, and occasionally going into detail, Professor Stilliter talked rapidly for almost two hours without stopping, till the sweat stood on his brow and his voice began to fail him. He finished with these words: "And for a few of us, as a mere side issue, there's billions in it."

Gordon Barclay remained for a long time in profound thought.

"There is, as you say," he said at last, "billions in it. Yet if I was sure that we could make it happen, really make everybody contented and not poor, I'd be content to give up everything I have already, and I could die happy."

"So would I," exclaimed Stilliter hurriedly. "But I'd rather make the world happier and myself with it. Wouldn't you?"

Barclay shook his heavy shoulders, lifted his Honesque head and smiled.

"Of course," he said, "I was dreaming. I believe the thing can be done. And without any sacrifice whatever either spiritual or material."

"It will take a long time."

"I understand that. You have to teach her almost from the beginning."

"I don't teach her exactly. I make her believe."

"Have you a child in view?"

"Now that you're with me, I shall soon find one."

"What are the chances against us?"

"Only these. That before we bring her to earth to preach our gospel you are dead, or I am, or the revolution has already come, and borne a different and better fruit for us all."

Professor Miles Stilliter was never idle, except when he was asleep. On a certain morning in the spring of 1900 Professor Stilliter, having mislaid his glasses, was unable to tell what time it was, though he held his watch as near to his eyeball as he could without touching it. It was, however, his usual time for beginning the day, for at that moment his valet brought in the morning papers.

The following headline in a New York newspaper almost immediately caught his eye, and put an end to any further search for news:

"TRAGIC END OF A EUGENIC ROMANCE."

"Brilliant John Amesbury, Who Married One of America's Greatest Beauties, Killed by a Trolley Car—Widow, Prostrated by News, Not Expected to Recover."

A cut of a handsome young man and a beautiful young woman lent to this unusual item of news a tinge of real tragedy.

Professor Stilliter was out of bed in a twinkling of an eye.

The late John Amesbury's house was at Scarsdale. On the morning in which this narrative opens a number of village boys were pulling off a dog fight in the quiet country road that bordered the narrow front lawn. Tommy Steele, aged twelve, hearing this racket from afar and full of the tragedy which had overtaken the kind and friendly people in the big house, came up on a dead run. His efforts to interfere with the sport and to secure peace and quiet for the sick woman in the house were not met with approval, and indeed for a moment it looked as if the noise of the dog fight was going to be swelled by the noise of a boy fight, a dozen to one. Fortunately for Tommy, the door of the house opened, and a trained nurse, with a long face and a domineering eye, came running down the front walk with an expression so ominous and formidable that, without a word spoken, the dogs were dragged apart and the boys made off at high speed. Something in Tommy's face attracted the nurse's attention. She was far kinder than she looked.

"Do you want anything?" she said.

"The papers said," said Tommy, "that Mrs. Amesbury wouldn't get well." He said no more, but his whole attitude and expression was a poignant question. The nurse laid her hand suddenly on his brown head, patted clumsily, shook her own head just the veriest trifle and hurried back to the house.

A shadow fell upon Tommy, and he found himself looking into the immense, thick-rimmed glasses of Professor Stilliter. Intuitively the boy and the man disliked each other. Professor Stilliter would have rather asked almost any other small boy if that was the Amesbury house. Tommy would have preferred to tell almost any other man that it was. Professor Stilliter, his question answered, moved energetically upon the house, and from the maid who answered the bell inquired for the latest bulletin of Mrs. Amesbury. He stepped forward as if to enter the house, and the servant made the least show in the world of shutting the door in his face. Professor Stilliter turned reluctantly away and heard the closing of the door.

At that moment a buggy, driven furiously, stopped at the front gate, and, thanks to his glasses, which gave his helpless eyes an almost hawklike vision, Professor Stilliter recognized Doctor Wainwright, an old acquaintance, if not a friend.

"Glad to see you," said Professor Stilliter. "Are you in charge here?"

"Yes," said Doctor Wainwright.

"Then you can help me, and nobody else can. I never knew Amesbury. I don't know his wife; but as a eugenicist I was immensely interested in their marriage, and I have a deep scientific interest in seeing the daughter. Now at such a time as this I could not very well force myself upon the household, but if you could slip me in with you as a consulting physician I will be immensely obliged to you, and there will be no talk of splitting fees."

Doctor Wainwright smiled and nodded.

The object of Professor Stilliter's interest was not hard to find. She was seated, forlorn and disconsolate, upon the bottom step of the front stair. Doctor Wainwright picked her up in his arms and kissed her. He made her shake hands with Professor Stilliter.

Professor Stilliter could not conceal the fact that the child's appearance delighted him, and that his appearance did not furnish him with the same delight affected him no more than a duck's back is affected by water. She had been too well brought up, and carried her three or four years with too much dignity to run from him and hide, as her instincts prompted her. She did not resist when he lifted her from the floor, asked her age and said, "My how heavy she was!" She winced a little and flinched a little when he prodded her arms and chest and felt with evident admiration the firm and chubby calves of her legs, and when he made her open her mouth and looked in and murmured, "Colossal!" But when he asked wouldn't she show him the pretty house in which she lived, she did so gladly, for it seemed to put an end to being handled.

For his immediate purpose Professor Stilliter did not need to penetrate beyond the cheerful living room, for here his eyes at once singled out from many three photographs, in which justice had pretty nearly been done, not only to his small companion, but to her famous father and her mother.

She Never Recalled the Long Drive into the Woods.

"What is that funny thing on the piano?" asked Professor Stilliter. The little girl looked in the direction indicated, and told him that it was a Chinese "opulent."

During the moment in which he had succeeded in diverting her attention the young man had slipped the three photographs in their folded leather frame into one of his capacious pockets. His mission in the house finished, he asked her if she would give him a kiss. This was a thing which, it seemed to her she could neither accord nor refuse. She simply burst into tears. The professor shrugged his great shoulders, grunted like a pig and abruptly took his departure.

Still weeping, the little girl found her way to a piazza that opened off the living room and a few moments later Tommy Steele, still lingering about the premises, traced the infantile walks to their source. The sight of his sympathetic face above the veranda railing, across which he had thrown one leg, started tears again, for he was her best friend in the world, and she with hammers, stopping a limousine on Fifth avenue, dragging out an old man in a fur-lined coat and hanging him, more dead than alive, to the nearest lamppost. He showed them that same crowd, ever growing in numbers and anger, tearing a policeman to pieces; he showed them banks and other strongholds of capital that rose suddenly heavenward in puffs of soot-smelling gray smoke, and were—

And he showed them themselves fleeing by night, in disguise, a price upon them, dead or alive; and he showed them Napoleon-Mirabeau bringing order out of chaos, and preparing to hold what he had taken, now begging, now commanding, now wheeling, now killing, and then he showed them battles and leaping cannon—and at last a white flag raised over a fortress, and themselves personally, all three, in the uniform of generals, led forth blindfold and bound and stood with their backs against a whitewashed wall.

Finally Sturtevant looked his friend and master in the face and said: "Well, what's the answer?"

"I think," said Barclay, "that I have devised a remedy which shall serve as all Mr. Stilliter."

As Professor Stilliter advanced Mr. Barclay said to the others: "The world's greatest psychologist."

"You do not have to tell us that," said Semmes, and they bowed to the professor.

"Well," said Barclay, "let's have a look at her."

"But," said Sturtevant, "what is the remedy?"

For answer Barclay simply touched the photograph of the little Amesbury girl with the tip of his finger.

"She is the answer," he said, "but, by the way, Stilliter, what do you hear of the mother?"

Professor Stilliter shrugged his shoulders very slightly.

"Dead?"

"Dying."

Barclay was not unmoved. "She thinks," he said, "that she is only dying of grief. As a matter of fact, she is taking a great place in the march of events."

"What are the child's habits?"

"She has a nap," said Professor Stilliter, "from 10 to 10:30, and from 3 to 3:30. At other times she is mostly out of doors with her nurse. There is a wood back of the house, in which she has a playhouse, a seesaw, etc. If you wished to see her it would be a simple matter, but I am ready to stake my reputation on her. She is absolutely out of our plan."

"Which," said Semmes, "is so far a complete mystery to Sturtevant and myself."

CHAPTER II.

There was silence in the room, at once so rich and repressed in its moldings and furnishings, where Gordon Barclay received and gave orders to such of his fellow millionaires as were in his confidence.

Semmes and Sturtevant, of all men deepest in his confidence, were strangely moved. The great man for once had not been dealing with facts, but with fancies. Very quietly and earnestly he had been painting for them that terrific future to which, as he saw it, the restless forces of the world were driving.

It may have been that the presence of Professor Stilliter in the room had a kind of hypnotic effect upon the two men. He stood in shadow against the wainscoting, and his eyes never left the back of their heads.

At first Barclay showed them some of the achievements of capital—steamers too great to be tossed by the waves, interminable freight trains creeping over high trestles, square miles of corrugated iron roofs, the chimneys belching black smoke; streets as bright at midnight as at noon, and as crowded.

And then he showed them some of the failures of capital—men and women starving in hundreds, rotting of disease or perishing of sheer disappointment and despair. Broad lines, soup kitchens he showed them; roofless men dying of exposure. And then in swift flashes he showed them, standing upon a soap box at the corner of a slum, a man in tattered rags, with the forehead of the first Napoleon and the lion-roar voice of Mirabeau—a man who spoke to the wretched and the unfortunate, and the idle and the mischievous, and filled their hearts with fire and passion and hate.

rinned eyes she did not know.

It is curious that she should remember a little of all this and nothing of that message which came presently from the house—a message brought by one servant to another and crudely blurted forth in the hearing of a child.

"Come quick, Mary, and bring the baby; the missus is dead." She does not remember running to the house between two women, dragged by the hand, and if she did it is most likely that she should remember only the novelty of the swift locomotion, and not the reason that called for it.

The little Amesbury girl continued to live on in her father's house. The law said she might until things were straightened out. There were no relatives to interfere.

But it was a strange life. There was no longer any discipline in the house; even the trained nurse had to go. The servants began to neglect their work and to amuse themselves.

But being neglected by nurse had its advantages. For Tommy Steele came every day to play with her, and often many times in one day. He was a much better nurse than nurse was. He took good care of one all the time, and she loved him with all her heart. Once nurse told them that they could play hide and seek in the wood if they would be very good and not get lost or wet or let rotten trees fall on them or wasps sting them. And that was a morning to be remembered in many ways. Tommy Steele was always "it."

At first she would hide behind the nearest tree and make a great deal of noise and peek out to see if Tommy was hunting for her or not. But gradually she learned to keep mum, and to tuck herself into very small places, or to move quietly or to keep money still.

Gradually she hid with more and more boldness, running quite long distances before she called "cuckoo," and the last time she went to hide she ran a long way, and just when she had dodged behind a big white oak and was going to call "cuckoo" she found herself looking into the great, round, black-rimmed glasses of Professor Stilliter. Before she could scream he had seized her around the waist with his left arm and had muzzled her with his right hand. Then he picked her up and started to run. As the hand over her mouth prevented her screaming, she simply opened her mouth and bit it.

In his rage and pain Professor Stilliter almost dropped her. He snatched his bitten hand from her mouth, and she began to scream at the top of her lungs, to struggle and kick and to make herself limp between times. And once she twisted clean away from the arm that had her round the waist. Still she was only a little child, and Tommy Steele saved her. He came out upon them in a shower of broken twigs, hatless and bleeding from an altercation with a greenbrier. Professor Stilliter did not at once realize that he was only being attacked by a small boy. He let go of the little girl completely, then tried to catch her, as he realized the caliber of his assailant, in so doing, his attention momentarily diverted, received a savage kick on the ankle bone and something like twenty-five blows upon the head and face. During this assault Professor Stilliter's glasses were knocked from his nose.

It was as if, for his sins, some supernatural power had struck him stone-blind.

CHAPTER IV.

That night about twelve o'clock nurse's bed in the little Amesbury girl's room was empty. The house was in darkness, except for the kitchen. From this came sounds of revelry and of a talking machine. The little Amesbury girl dreamed that a man with immense, black-rimmed eyes was bending over her and she waked with a scream.

For once in her life she had dreamed true, for Professor Stilliter was bending over her, and the fingers of his left hand were clasped almost chokingly about her baby throat. In his right hand he held before her eyes a lump of rock crystal the size and shape of a hen's egg. The crystal appeared to exercise an instant fascination upon her. She forgot that she was afraid and that she wanted to scream for help. She even forgot the presence of Professor Stilliter. She thought, indeed, that she was all alone and that somebody had opened a door through which she was at liberty to look into fairyland.

Very far away she heard a voice that said, very quietly, "Now you can't scream."

"And now," said the voice, "you can't do anything unless I tell you to. Get up." She slipped obediently out of bed.

"Dress yourself," said the voice.

For the first time in her baby life the little Amesbury girl dressed herself. She even tied her own hair ribbon in a pretable bow and buttoned her own tiny boots.

"Now, give me your hand," he said, "and don't make any noise." He led her downstairs and out into the night.

She never afterward recalled anything of the journey to the north woods which she made with Professor Stilliter. The long automobile ride, the Montreal express held up between stations, the long drive into the woods, and, after that, when they had come to the end of the road, the long, toilsome up-and-down-hill tramp, through which she rode first on the shoulders of one man and then on the shoulders of another, until the party came to a wild spot at the foot of the cliff. Here, in the warm spring sunshine on ledges of rock, a number of drowsy rattlesnakes were coiled in a horrid mass. She does not remember that here, as if waiting for her, were three men who wore black masks over their faces.

When the men who had brought her to the foot of the cliff had gone, with the exception of Professor Stilliter, the three masked men removed their masks. So that when Professor Stilliter litter, withdrawn a little so that she should not see him first of all and be frightened, told her to wake up, she looked into the friendly faces of Barclay, Semmes and Sturtevant.

Barclay advanced with great ceremony, dropped on one knee before her and kissed her hand for all the world as if she had been a princess. Then Sturtevant came forward and did likewise, and then Semmes.

Although Professor Stilliter had told her to wake up, the spell of the crystal was still upon her like drowsiness after sleep. To reduce her once more to a complete state of hypnosis it was only necessary for him to say quietly, "Go to sleep again."

What looked like a portion of solid cliff rose suddenly, without any sound, and disclosed a black passage that appeared to lead to the bowels of the earth. In the mouth of this passage way stood a handsome woman, a little under middle age. There was a diamond star in her dark hair, and she wore a white garment that fell from her shoulders in stately folds like those of a Roman toga. She came forward, caught the little Amesbury girl up lovingly in her arms, turned, and, without a word, walked back into the passageway and disappeared. For a long time the sound of her sandals' feet upon the rocky floor could be heard. Then the moving portion of the cliff slid slowly and noiselessly back into place, and the four men who remained without turned somewhat slowly to each other.

Barclay was the first to break the silence. "Gentlemen," he said, "fifteen years from today she will leave this cavern and bring the world to heel—me—and to ours."

Makes Good, Healthy Flesh

Mayer Bros. Co. Offers to Pay for Samose
If It Fails.

Begin the use of Samose today, and you will soon notice a gain in good, healthy flesh. To all who are thin, weak and run down, this remarkable flesh-forming food promises plump, rosy, perfect health, vigor and vitality.

Most people eat enough to become fat; the trouble is not lack of food, but lack of assimilative power.

Samose mingles with the food that is eaten, so that it is assimilated by the blood, and builds up pleasing plumpness and good healthy flesh. Those who use Samose for a week or ten days will soon notice a gain in weight and an improvement in general strength and health.

FOREIGNER KILLED
BY LAKE ERIE TRAIN

Body is Found Block South of West Main Street Crossing.

Fabrics Terenznek, a foreigner, about forty years old, was killed by a train on the Lake Erie and Western railroad Tuesday night, his body being found about 10:45 o'clock by A. Derr, a switchman.

The head and right arm were severed and practically every bone in his body was broken. He was identified by a letter which he had in his pocket mailed from Budapest. A pocketbook containing $28 and several packages of tobacco were also found on him.

The body lay about a block south of the West Main street crossing. The switch engine had a car of stock to load at the Eckart packing plant and had pulled into a siding. When Derr jumped from the car on which he was riding, he stumbled over Terenznek's body. It is not known whether he was killed by the switch engine or a passenger train. No blood was found on the switch engine and as there were no other trains besides the passenger, Coroner Edward Kruse is of the opinion that he was struck by the passenger train.

After investigating the case Coroner Kruse ordered the body taken to Schone & Ankenbruck's undertaking parlors. The switch engine was in charge of Conductor C. O. Worton, Switchmen Derr and R. R. Travis, Engineer E. E. Morrison and Fireman G. W. Yutt.

DEATH COMES TO WEALTHY BREWER

Jacob Ruppert, Dead in New York, Was Many Times Millionaire.

New York, May 26.—Jacob Ruppert, one of the most widely known brewers of this country, and founder of the Jacob Ruppert Brewing company, died in his home here early today. He was 74 years old. As a boy of ten years Mr. Ruppert began his career as a brewer in the employment of his father, Frans Ruppert, in this city. Later he started his own brewery in a building hardly fifty feet square, with no machinery. His establishment now has an annual capacity of 25,000,000 barrels. It contains four of the largest brew kettles ever built up to the time of its construction, each of which is composed of 200,000 pounds of copper, and has a capacity of 25,000 gallons.

In addition to the brewery property Mr. Ruppert's realty holdings in and about this city are estimated to amount to several million dollars.

SELLS HER HAIR TO GET FOOD ON TRAMP

Minneapolis, Minn., May 26.—Walking more than 400 miles, from Chicago to this city, carrying a heavy pack on her back and leading her husband, who is affected with tuberculosis, Mrs. Claude W. Deelaney, 24 years old, out of her hair and sold it when the pair were stranded. From the sale of the hair she obtained $1.50 to buy food for her husband and herself. Finally she obtained employment as maid in the home of E. H. Meyer and her husband was given work as gardener.

Yesterday Mr. Meyer had the two arrested following the disappearance of five rings and some clothing from the Meyer home, but after thinking over all that the woman had gone through and the sad plight of the man he refused to prosecute.

Sheriff Langum said an effort would be made to have the Associated charities obtain transportation for the couple to Colorado or some other mountain state.

A. E. Pope, 2315 Fox avenue, underwent a serious operation Tuesday at the Lutheran hospital and is in a very critical condition. He is a mechanical engineer and draftsman for the American Road Machine company.

POLICEMEN WEAR
EVENING CLOTHES

Don Glad Attire to Make
Rounds of New York
Cabarets.

New York, May 26.—Squads of policemen attired in evening clothes are making nightly rounds of the cabarets, restaurants and dancing parlors, it was learned today, in the course of a police investigation as to the conduct of these places.

The inquiry is the result of allegations made by a woman who recently, caused the arrest of her daughter, an heiress, on the ground of waywardness due, she asserted, to associations formed in the cabarets. Under the direction of Police Commissioner Woods the squads of investigators are visiting the most widely known dancing places in which it is known as the "upper tenor."

The commissioner was quoted as saying that if the conditions proved as serious as alleged an effort would be made to close the objectionable places, but he added that he believed Broadway is better now than it has been for some time.

SUBMARINE F-4 IS VERY NEAR SURFACE

Honolulu, May 27.—The use of air to lighten the submarine F-4 in the final effort to drag the disabled war vessel to the drydock probably will be resorted to it was said today. Work of raising the submarine, which contains the bodies of the crew who lost their lives when the F-4 went to the bottom more than two months ago, was halted temporarily yesterday by a heavy swell which parted two of the lines attached to the bulk.

A scow will be brought alongside the submarine when it is raised to receive the bodies of the crew. Orders have been issued excluding the public from the scene when the bodies are removed.

The F-4 has now been dragged within 250 yards of the harbor entrance and lies only forty feet below the surface.

C. L. TITUS' SUCCESSOR

A. C. Showalter, agent at Buffalo Junction, has been appointed assistant superintendent of the Buffalo division of the Nickel Plate, with headquarters at Conneaut, succeeding C. L. Titus. The latter is preparing to move to Buffalo. He will be a passenger conductor running in and out of that city.

J. A. Oswald, of the Oswald Jewelry store, will be one of the speakers at the annual convention of the Indiana Retail Jewelers' association to be held at Indianapolis, June 23 and 24.

BAN ON BENZOATE OF SODA IS LIFTED

Food-Containing It May Be Sold if Properly Labelled.

Indianapolis, May 26.—Grocers and food inspectors of the state received from Dr. H. E. Barnard, state food and drug commissioner, notice today that hereafter no objection will be made to the sale in interstate commerce, "in the original unbroken package, of food which is prepared with sodium benzoate or sulphur dioxide, provided that each package of such food is plainly labelled to show the presence and amount of the preservative."

Included in the notice is the copy of a recent order of the state board of health which instructs the state food and drug commissioner to follow, without exception, the regulations for the enforcement of the food and drug act promulgated by the federal authorities and which refers especially to "chapter 104, acts of 1907," states that "it having been determined that benzoate of soda mixed with food is not deleterious or poisonous and is not injurious to health" such food may be offered for sale in the original and unbroken package, if the presence and amount of the preservative is indicated on the label.

MUST DECLARE BAGGAGE VALUE

New York, May 26.—Eastern railroads are planning to put into effect on June 3 a requirement that travelers declare the value of their baggage when they check it on railway tickets. Railroad officials assert that such action is made necessary by the Cummins act amending the interstate commerce laws under which all shippers of goods must declare the value of their shipments. The railroads will assume liability for loss of baggage or damage up to $100, but will charge ten cents for each $100 above that amount—the rate fixed by the interstate commerce commission. The making of a false declaration of value is a misdemeanor under the law.

Baggage masters prophesied trouble in enforcing this regulation in the rush to the summer resorts.

NEW GIFT TO BOEHNE CAMP.

Evansville, Ind., May 25.—The employment of an intern to remain constantly at the Boehne tuberculosis camp near the city and the beautification of the grounds are made possible by a new gift of $12,500 to the camp by John W. Boehne, former congressman, the founder of the camp.

Mr. Boehne previously had given $10,000 to the camp. The gift of $12,500 is in securities which will draw interest at the rate of $1,500 a year. The interest will be used by the camp. The City National bank has agreed to act as trustee for the fund without compensation.

To Motorists:
This Master-Plant

offers every known efficient method and facility for the manufacturing of perfect lubricants. Its recommendation is Polarine for all standard makes and types of cars.

In using the product of this plant in your motor you get the benefit of the lubricating experience of Standard Oil experts. And no body of men represents more knowledge in this line.

Their prestige and the prestige of this company are at stake on the recommendations they make.

Polarine
"Standard Oil" science, experience and facilities have eliminated the faults of poor motor oils! Thus thousands of motors which were once troublesome and expensive have been made smooth in operation and economical in upkeep.

Polarine maintains the correct lubricating body at any motor speed or temperature.

In seven years the demand for it in the Middle West alone has increased from 1,100 gallons to nearly 7,000,000!

Why experiment longer, when you can get Polarine? Polarine is dependable. It is on sale everywhere at less price than asked for oils that fall short of Polarine in efficiency.

OSCAR AND ADOLPH AN OVERSIGHT ON THE CULINARY DEPARTMENT. AT THEIR GAY PRANKS

WHEN HE LOST HIS JOB RUNNING UNCLE SAM'S POSTOFFICE HE STARTED ONE OF HIS OWN.

You can't down him! J. W. Brady in front of the private postoffice he started in Oiltown, Okla., when he lost his job as United States postmaster in Haskell.

Jennings, Okla., May 26.—Found! The world's greatest optimist!

He is J. W. Brady, "perpetual postmaster." Once of Haskell, but now of Oiltown, Okla. People who know him and those who know of him say he's the original obstacle overcomer and living proof of "Where there's a will, there's a way."

Brady likes the job of being postmaster. In fact, he likes it so well he won't stop being postmaster. Won't stop for anyone, not even Uncle Sam.

For seven happy years J. W. Brady was postmaster at Haskell. Big fellow is Brady. Big, bulky and beaming, that describes him. Always cheerful. Always handed out a smile with the mail.

Then he lost his job—but not his smile. Friends saw the latter, broad as ever, when they came to console with him, for it was known that Brady's finances were mighty limited.

"Don't worry about me. I haven't quit being postmaster by a long shot. Just watch me. I'm going to have a postoffice of my own," laughed Brady.

The fixtures in the Haskell postoffice belonged to Brady. What did he do? Simply loaded them on a truck and hauled them over to Oiltown, a few miles away. Oiltown is a live town in a flourishing oil district, but Oiltown had been overlooked when Uncle Sam was distributing postoffices. Residents had been going to Jennings, seven miles away, for their daily mail.

"Won't have to any more," said Brady. "Watch me!"

He rented a little frame building, installed his postoffice fixtures and then put up this inscription:

POSTOFFICE.

J. W. Brady, Proprietor.

Now Brady goes to Jennings daily and gets the mail for Oiltown folk. He charges 15 cents a week for daily box rent in his postoffice, 10 cents additional for handling each individual's mail and 25 cents for delivering a parcel, post package and 5 cents for two two-cent stamps.

If a person rents a box he must pay the 15 cents per week in advance and in addition he must pay 10 cents a week to get his mail.

Is business good? Well, Brady has 300 boxes and they are all rented. In addition he operates a hack line between Oiltown and Jennings.

Some day Uncle Sam will come along and start a postoffice of his own at Oiltown. That will put Brady out of business.

But Brady's the world's greatest optimist, so he's not worrying about that just now.

PLAYED MAN; SAYS IT WAS A PICNIC

Miss Martin Shaved, Smoked, Did Man's Work and Drew Man's Pay.

Sacramento, Cal., May 26.—"Say, if you think it isn't some picnic posing as a man, you want to try it!" said Bessie Martini, twenty-four years old. "I sure had some fun out of the game."

Bessie was arrested at her room here by Corporal Pendergast and Patrolman Malone while in a disturbance with two other girls. At the time of her arrest she was not dressed in her male attire, and she is at a loss to know who "squealed" on her. She was masquerading under the name of E. W. Campbell.

For some little time now Miss Martini has been running a launch on the Sacramento river, drawing a man's wages for her labor. Before that she was clearing land on the river sloughs. Strange to say, none of her companions knew that she was a woman.

"I kept that shady all right," she said. "For $2.50 and $3 a day looked good to me. I have worked all my life and know nothing else but work. It was a whole lot better to do that than to wander around the streets here in town and get arrested for vagrancy."

"I didn't like the kind of life some girls lead in a city. I want to make an honest living. It is pretty hard, I know, for a girl who has once got down. Everybody wants to give her a kick and send her down further. A girl who lives a dishonest life gets nothing for her work, anyway."

"I saw a chance to go to work if I could only make people think that I was a man. I don't know how the idea struck me, but I knew that I was strong enough to do a man's work. So I bought a suit of clothes and had my hair cut off. I even shaved, and say, I don't look so bad, do you think?"

A good, healthy color is in her cheeks, the result of sunshine and fresh air. "I don't like the city," she continued. "I want to get work on a ranch. Yes, I would rather take a woman's employment if I could get it. I can cook and I can milk cows. I am not afraid of work. We have known each other all our lives—hard work and I."

"You can tell from the looks of my hands that I have been hard at it," and she displayed a pair of sturdy hands that were as brown as berries and the callouses on them were pointed out with pride.

"Before I came to Sacramento I lived in Santa Rosa, Cal. I worked in the hop fields and did anything that I could. I am sure that I am willing to work and I don't see why people won't let me. It is a whole lot better than being a bum. I don't like being in jail."

Bessie felt a certain pride in her impersonation of "E. W. Campbell" and laughed at some of the reminiscences, especially when she told how she tried to cover up her feminine ways. Three weeks in a camp full of men, talking, acting, smoking and shaving like the rest of them—and they didn't know the difference.

On account of the girl not having been clad in male attire when arrested, she was allowed to go free.

NO PRETENSE.

"You don't seem to take our engagement seriously."

"Of course not. If I had I would not have engaged myself to you."

RESTORATIVE TREATMENT FOR NERVOUS MEN

Coming from a source of unquestioned authority on the ailments of men it is presumed to be infallible, while the profession generally endorse the ingredients and prescribe them in many different forms of various diseases. The following formula is highly efficient in quickly restoring in nervous exhaustion, melancholia, anxiety, timidity in venturing, dizziness, heart palpitation, trembling limbs, insomnia, thinness, cold extremities, tired-all-in feeling and general inability to do those natural and rational acts upon which depend a man's success and happiness in social and everyday life.

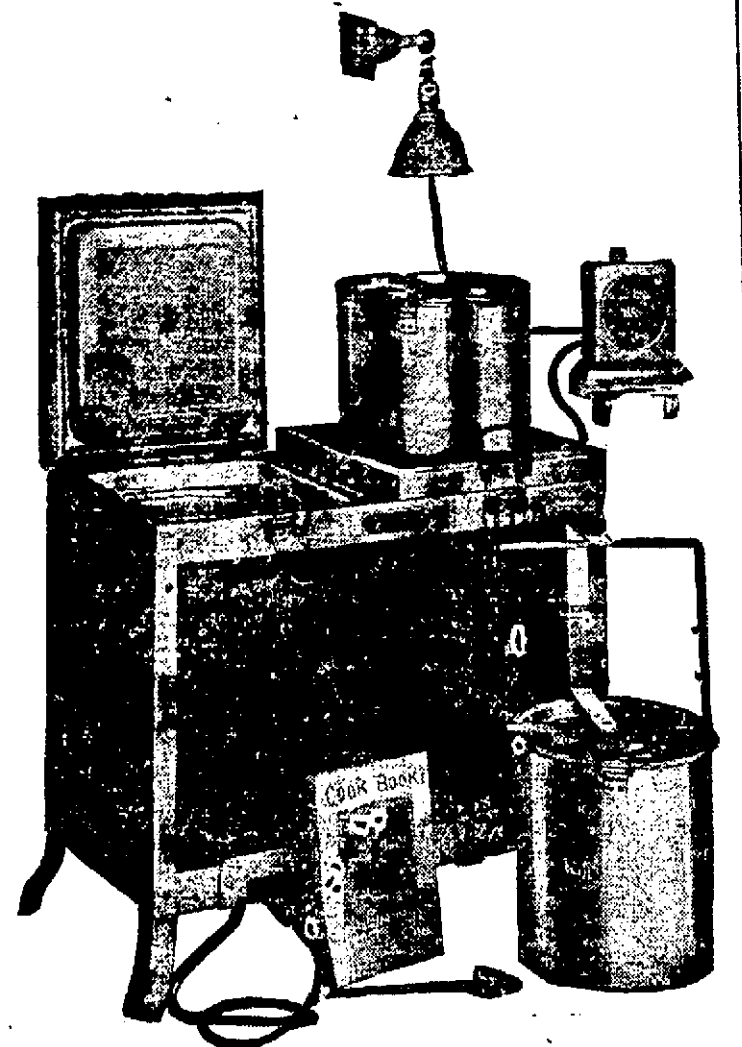

The instructions for obtaining in three-grain tablets are simple, as a physician's prescription is no longer necessary, because the tablets do not contain any opiates or habit-forming drugs. Just ask for three-grain caffeine tablets, in sealed tubes, with full directions for home use. Astonishing nervous force and equilibrium follow the treatment, no matter how serious the case, and the joy of a healthy body and strong nerves is soon experienced.

TWO COMPARTMENT COOKER

TAKEN BY STORM

The success of our Electric Cooking Demonstration has far exceeded our expectations. We knew that a great number of people were waiting for Electric Cooking to become practical, but we didn't realize the extent of this desire. The majority of the people in Fort Wayne have already attended this demonstration and everyone has expressed themselves as being more than satisfied with the work done by these Cookers and Ranges, and have been surprised at the low cost of operation. Think of turning out a 7-pound beef roast at a cost of one-third of a cent a pound! Also consider the fact that this roast lost not more than one-half pound in weight through shrinkage. That is exactly what we did last week (Thursday) using a stock Standard Electric Cooker and you can do the same in your own home using current from your lamp socket. During this demonstration you may place your order for a Cooker for 10 DAYS' FREE TRIAL.

Meats and Fowls Can Be Roasted a Delicious Brown

Steaks Can Be Broiled or Fried.

THE WEATHER.

OFFICIAL FORECASTS.

For Fort Wayne and vicinity: Cloudy and unsettled tonight and Thursday, with thundershowers; cooler tonight.

For Indiana: Unsettled, with thundershowers tonight or Thursday; cooler tonight east and south portions.

For Ohio: Thundershowers and cooler tonight; Thursday unsettled.

For Lower Michigan: Fair north portion; unsettled south portion tonight; Thursday fair, continued cool.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.

During the last twenty-four hours an area of high pressure developed to the north of Lake Superior, the western low area remained nearly stationary, but a trough of low pressure has extended therefrom to the northeastward and the western high area moved inland. This distribution of pressure is attended this morning by generally cloudy weather, with rain in the Ohio valley and northeastern districts. Precipitation has occurred during the last twenty-four hours in northeastern states, lower lake region, and on the north Pacific coast. The weather is again cooler than the seasonal average in the lake region. High temperatures continue on the southeastern slope of the Rockies, while on the western side of the continental divide the weather continues cool for the season. In this vicinity the weather will be unsettled during the next thirty-six hours, with thundershowers. Tonight it will be somewhat cooler, with no material change in temperature Thursday.
